Cubs Make Sure of Tie for Pennant

WIN TWO FROM REDS, 3-1 AND 7-4; CARDS LOSE, 5-2

The Cubs made sure of a tie for the National league pennant with the help of the Pittsburgh Pirates last night. After the Chicagoans had beaten the Cincinnati Reds twice yesterday, 3 to 1 and 7 to 4, to take a two and a half game lead, the second place St. Louis Cardinals lost last night to the Pirates, 5 to 2, to drop three games back. As each club has three games left, a victory for the Cubs or a defeat for St. Louis would give the title to Chicago.

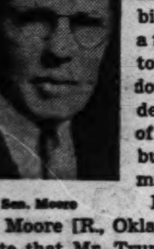
TRUMAN POLICY HELD PERIL TO U.S. ECONOMY

President Rebuked by Sen. Moore

BY WILLIAM MOORE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27—Followers of Commerce Secretary Wallace, seeking to jam their radically sponsored full employment bill thru the senate unchanged, today brought down upon President Truman one of the sternest rebukes of his administration.



Sen. Moore

It came from Sen. Moore [R., Okla.]. He told the senate that Mr. Truman has played politics with the nation's economy and refused the only philosophy under which the free enterprise system can survive.

Moore said the objectives stated in the President's message to congress on Sept. 6 are admirable, but warned:

"The means of accomplishing these objectives proposed by the message, however, are such as to chill with fear every business man and congeal the very forces that motivate private enterprise."

Sponsors Weaken

Moore's indictment of Mr. Truman came after the administration forces had cracked in their determination to make the government spending philosophy of the bill the first concern of the government.

They offered to write into the bill an acknowledgment that unlimited spending to create jobs is not the government's No. 1 business and to modify their guarantee of a job for every American. The administration concession came as opposition to the free spending scheme was forming under the leadership of Sen. Taft [R., O.], who said the language of the scheme came from the soviet constitution.

Assails Price Control

Like other critics of the bill, Moore said private enterprise can keep all the country's workers employed if it is unhampered by government regulation.

But he said Mr. Truman, while releasing many unimportant war time controls, has retained the all important price control. This means, he explained, that wages, salaries, and profits, if any, are automatically controled, and hence free enterprise will be prevented from working.

Hence, Moore warned, the danger of unemployment becomes a real one, and if the administration spokesmen are right in their prediction of 10 million unemployed, their method of correcting the situation by made work and government spending will cost 68 billion dollars a year.

[Rep. Vursell accuses OPA of creating unemployment. Story on page 18.]

Mortgage on Wages

This expenditure, Moore said, would be a mortgage upon the wages of every worker, every home owner, every insurance policy holder, and every bank depositer. Moore went on:

"There is no suggestion for legislation that would insure the right of every American to work for whom he pleases at a wage acceptable to the employer and employe without paying tribute to the labor racketeers who have assumed the real political leadership of our country."

Vague Program Assailed

Taft and Sen. Radcliffe [D., Md.] have been objecting for three days to the bill's provision for the yet undefined federal "expenditure and investment" which is to supplement public works in providing jobs.

Sen. Hatch [D., N. M.] offered the administration compromise late in the day. Where the bill now binds the government to "assure" full employment, the compromise speaks of "attaining" this goal.

The Hatch proposal won further support by recognizing the nation's other needs as equal to the problem of supplying jobs.

Bare Horwitz' Aid in Expose of Bribe Case

Theodore Horwitz, 42, of 537 Roscoe st., who came to a violent and mysterious death last Saturday, was an important factor in exposing a Detroit, Mich., bribery scandal which resulted in prison sentences for three Detroit councilmen and two Chicago contractors, it was learned last night.

Horwitz's mangled body was found Saturday night in an alley at the rear of the Eastgate hotel, 162 E. Ontario st. Circumstances surrounding his death were so puzzling that a coroner's jury was unable to determine how he died.

He and his wife had returned home about 9 p. m. Saturday after an automobile ride. He told his wife, Lillian, that he was going to park the car, buy a newspaper, and bring back soft drinks to his children, Donald, 8, and Lois, 7.

Body at Rear of Hotel

Horwitz emptied his pockets of papers and other valuables and removed his jewelry before he left. He parked the car in the Hawthorne garage, 3440 Broadway, and left without speaking to attendants. His body was found an hour later at the rear of the Eastgate hotel.

Investigation failed to disclose how he had reached the hotel. No one was found who had seen him in the building or who had seen him leap or fall.

A short time before Horwitz's body was found the burglar alarm system in the Eastgate hotel was set off. Hotel employes checked thru the building and found a door open leading to the fire escape on the 16th floor.

Secretary of Company

Horwitz was a well to do real estate operator and secretary of the Belsan Plastering company, 407 S. Dearborn st. It was thru his connection with this company that Horwitz started a suit which resulted in disclosure of bribery in

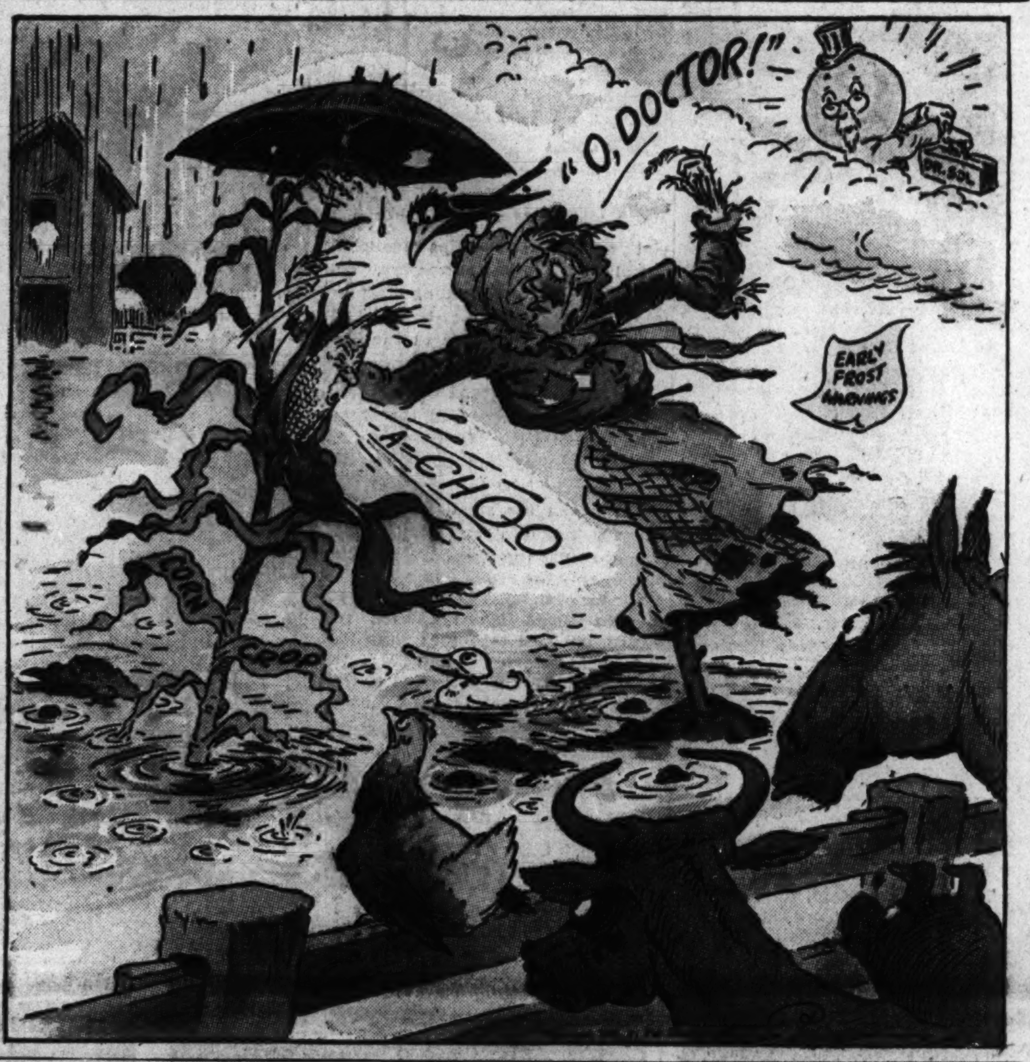
URGENT CALL



HOW MACFADDEN LOVE GREW COLD

Ordered Chilly Dip Daily for Baby, Says Wife

Miami, Fla., Sept. 27 (AP)—Mrs. Mary Macfadden testified today that the first rift in her marital relations with Bernarr Macfadden, the physical culturist, occurred when he ordered their first child, Bernice, dipped in cold water every day.

Bernice at the time was but three days old, she stated. She and her husband were living on the English channel coast.

"It was very cold," Mrs. Macfadden told John C. Gramling, special master hearing the 77 year old physical culturist's divorce action. "Bernice was born in December."

Gave Children Mumps

She described Macfadden as eccentric on the subject of health, fresh air, cold water, and exercise. Macfadden once contracted mumps and passed it on to four of his children, she declared.

Several times he endangered the health of his six children with his edicts, the motherly, one time English beauty contest winner told the master. This brought on family clashes, she added.

His health eliciting ideas were directed at her, too, and he once insisted that she do 200 deep knee bends or forfeit his love.

Got Muscular Rupture

"I went thru the strenuous exercise as required altho I suffered from a muscular rupture," she said.

Mrs. Macfadden wept as she entered the master's office to testify. Her daughter, Mrs. Braunda St. Phillip, blonde and sun tanned, had nervously appeared as her father's witness while the bushy thatched former publisher listened. Macfadden left the room when his wife entered.

Mrs. Macfadden claimed credit for a part of MacFadden's success, declaring that the idea for True Story magazine was hers. She identified a 1914 photograph of Macfadden standing on his head.

"This was made when we first met," she said as the photograph was admitted to evidence. "He probably would still be standing on his head except for me. I put him on his feet."

Marines on Way to China Again; Peaceful This Time

BY HAROLD SMITH
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WITH A U. S. TASK FORCE, APPROACHING CHINA, Sept. 27—Thousands of marines, their combat ardor tamed by the return of amity to the world, ride this 7th amphibious force convoy westward in the East China sea tonight, bound for the Chinese mainland on a mission of peace.

They will land a few days hence to help Chinese nationalist forces disarm the beaten Jap invaders of a nation to which their illustrious predecessors in the marine corps first journeyed more than a century ago. Many members of this huge landing force are returning to the oriental land, where they saw duty before the late war.

This is the marines' first mass duty movement since the guns were stilled, and to all of us participants has come an altogether satisfactory sense of unreality.

Yanks Sleep Peacefully

Lights blaze thru the big convoy. The gun covers are in place and the crews sleep below, comfortable in the knowledge that the clang of the general quarters gong won't send them to battle stations. The deck of our craft, the command ship Catoctin, which took the late President Roosevelt to Yalta, is atwinkle with the glow of cigarets as night owls spin word dreams of home beneath a moonlit sky.

No more do the hoarse ships' whistles signal zigzag turns to outwit enemy guns. Leaving our long flanks unguarded, our small warship screen is combing the seas ahead, alert only for maverick sea mines. It is hard for old campaigners to accustom their minds to such casualness in strange waters.

Our force commander, Vice Adm. Daniel Barbey of Portland, Ore., veteran of 56 amphibious combat operations, told us today that while no resistance is expected ashore or afloat, we are prepared, nevertheless, for any eventuality. Old war dogs like him take nothing for granted.

Many Times in China

American marines first landed in China on Feb. 24, 1844. They figured in the display of power to impress the Chinese with the prestige of Caleb Cushing, just arriving as our first minister to the big oriental nation. Their first action came on the following June 21 when a squad of leathernecks went ashore on Whampoa Island, in the river below Canton, to protect Americans from a group aroused by the street brawl death of a Chinese storekeeper.

Will Land in Hopeh

CHUNGKING, China, Sept. 27—Two American marine divisions are en route to north China and soon will land in Hopeh province. The date of the marines' arrival will bring them to Tientsin and Peiping ahead of the central government forces from Shanghai and Hankow. The communists have stated they will welcome the American forces to disarm the Japanese. They maintain that they control the Hopeh countryside.

BATTLE OF AIR WAVES ROUTS FROST THREAT

Middle western farmers and gardeners apparently have escaped a threatened frost which had been forecast for tonight.

The Chicago weather bureau broadcast frost warnings yesterday morning when it appeared that a mass of cold air from the northwest would strike Wisconsin, Indiana, Iowa, and Illinois tonight and tomorrow. At 3 p. m., however, the bureau altered its prediction, stating that there would be no frost in Illinois or Indiana. Some of Iowa also will escape frost damage, altho there may be frost tonight in the extreme north and northwest counties of that state. Part of Wisconsin will have severe frost.

More rain is expected in Chicago today, with northeast winds.

YUGOSLAVIA TO DROP $17,560 ALLOWANCE TO QUEEN MOTHER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Sept. 27—Queen Marie of Yugoslavia, who has been receiving $17,560 monthly from frozen Yugoslav assets, will be cut from the Yugoslav government pay roll after Oct. 1, it was disclosed in diplomatic circles here tonight.

As a result of changes in the Yugoslav budget, it was said, all money previously paid to individual members of the royal family will be turned over directly to King Peter. This means that it will be up to Peter to decide the future disposition of the royal pay roll.

The Yugoslav government has been allowing Peter and his nearest relatives $35,560 monthly, informed sources said. Peter receives $10,000 a month, his two schoolboy brothers, Princes Tomislav and Andrey, split $8,000 between them, and the remainder goes to the queen.

IKE'S DENAZIFY ORDER CALLED DEATH POLICY

Means Starving for Many Germans

BY LARRY RUE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, Sept. 27—When Gen. Patton told newspapermen yesterday, "I would be un-American if I did not do my utmost to prevent unnecessary deaths after the war is over," he echoed the sentiment not only of G.I.s and officers in the American zone of occupation but of many military government officials as well.

There is a strong feeling among some military government officials that the directives for the administration of Germany are unnecessarily brutal and impracticable. If enforced to the hilt, as it seems to be the general intention to do, it will mean that thousands of German women and children will die from hunger.

Points Out Problem

"The American government and the American people will have a lot on their conscience before the winter is over," one military government official said. "The directives require the Germans not only to provide all the food their own population needs to live on, but also it is necessary to maintain displaced persons and refugees, who now are counted in the millions. This is one hell of a problem."

This official complained that the military government directives made no distinction between those who were genuine nazis and those who were forced to join the nazi party in order to carry on their professions—lawyers, doctors and technicians.

Forced to Join Nazis

"We have had to fire many key men in essential industry and even doctors and other experts, tho we were satisfied that these people never had been Nazis in heart or spirit," this official continued. "Even the other day Lt. Gen. Clay, chief of the military government, told us at a conference in Wiesbaden that he was not interested in efficient administration, but God knows that is what Germany should have if we are going to prevent an incalculable number of deaths this winter."

Another military government official was more violent in denouncing the directives. He said he thought even United States headquarters itself was vague and undecided about what it meant.

'UNCLE TOM' WINS OUT IN THE END; BAN IS LIFTED

Bridgeport, Conn., Sept. 27 (AP)—Uncle Tom's Cabin, hoary veteran of 90 years on the American stage, made a dramatic comeback in Bridgeport today.

City Controler Perry Rodman, who had canceled a booking of the show at a civic auditorium in response to a wave of protests, announced that in response to a bigger wave of protests it was coming here for three performances.

The touring troupe, presenting a musical version of Harriet Beecher Stowe's venerable novel, will be here for two performances Saturday and another Sunday.

Rodman's cancellation of the first booking, following protests from Negro groups, the Communist party, the CIO, the Bridgeport pastors' association, and other organizations who said the play recalled conditions best forgotten, aroused as much commotion as Simon Legree's bloodhounds ever did.

The Civil Liberties union in New York wired Mayor Jasper McLevy of this city a protest against the cancellation.

21 Day Old Baby Gives Mama Surprise: 2 Teeth

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Sept. 27—Sandra McNeel, daughter of an American service man, Dewitt McNeel, Vancouver, Wash., sprang a birthday surprise on her mother by cutting two teeth at the age of 21 days, it was disclosed today. Born six weeks before she was expected, the three pound, seven ounce baby is living in an oxygen tent at a hospital here.

Tells How Son of C. S. Dewey Died in Saigon

SAIGON, Indo-China, Sept. 26 [Delayed]—(AP)—Lt. Col. Albert Peter Dewey, son of Charles S. Dewey, former Republican congressman from Chicago, was killed today during Annamite disorders.

Lt. Col. A. P. Dewey

Dewey, who was 28, headed the American office of strategic services delegation here. He was machine-gunned while returning in a jeep from a hospital with Maj. Herbert Bluechel of San Francisco. They had visited Capt. Joseph Coolidge of New Hampshire, victim of another Annamite outbreak last night, and had stopped at the air field to wait for the Calcutta plane which Dewey intended to board.

Open Fire from Ditch

"The plane didn't arrive," Bluechel said in telling of the shooting, "and we were returning to the OSS hostel when we passed thru a partial double road block.

"As we drove thru, Annamites in a ditch beside the road opened fire with a machine gun not ten yards away. The charge caught Peter in the head. How I escaped, I do not know.

"The jeep overturned in the ditch. I saw Peter was dead and I couldn't help him, so I crawled from under the jeep. While the Annamites still were firing, I crawled along a hedge for 150 yards firing my .45 back at them, slowing them down.

"I came to 350 yards of open area—a golf course—beyond which lay the OSS hostel, flying the American flag and in which the Annamites knew Americans were living.

"I ran across the open space with machine guns, rifles and everything firing at me. By a sheer miracle, I wasn't hit.

Japanese Refuse to Help

"When I reached the house, I alerted the other officers and we broke out the arsenal. The Annamites besieged the house for about three hours until British Gurkha troops arrived. The natives had cut our telephone wires and I had to radio OSS headquarters in Kandy, Ceylon. It radioed the British in Saigon to send help."

Coolidge was shot thru the stomach and an arm while returning from Dalat, 70 miles north of Saigon, with a four-car British party. Two cars crashed thru a road block at Thuduc after dark at the cost of two flat tires, which were repaired under snipers' fire. The other two cars, followed by a truck filled with Japanese, were successfully blocked.

The Japanese troops refused to fire at the Annamites and a Japanese officer refused to order them to fire.

Coolidge, firing from under a truck, was wounded there. A Dutch doctor treated him.

Attack Wounded Men

At one time during the two hour battle in the darkness, the natives attacked Coolidge and wounded Britons with knives.

Finally, 40 Japanese who had been summoned by a Japanese bystander, arrived and halted the shooting, but took no action against the Annamites. The natives dragged away about eight dead Annamites.

The wounded were taken to a Japanese hospital at Bien Hoa village and brought here today. Coolidge commented:

"The Annamites shot from four feet after we offered to surrender."

Field Marshal Count Juichi Terauchi, the Japanese commander, was placed under virtual house arrest because of increasing British suspicion that the Japanese had had a hand in inciting the violence.

French sources, whose return the Annamites oppose, declared the natives had threatened to raze Saigon by fire. Smoke still rose from the ruins of the market place,

U. S. PREPARES TO DICKER FOR PACT ON ITALY

MacArthur to Keep Dictator Role

[By Cable to The New York Times and The Chicago Tribune]

LONDON, Sept. 27—The United States delegation to the council of foreign ministers today prepared to offer Russia among others an advisory committee for occupation of Japan.

The American theory is that Russia may feel it so worth while to have an important part in the Japanese occupation that she will agree to meet American ideas for the draft peace treaty with Italy.

This is regarded as an indication that the conference is reaching the climactic stage where final decisions are reached by trading.

Gen. MacArthur, under the American proposal, would remain a sort of dictator of Japan and the committee could only give him advice. He would, however, be directed to consult the committee on every possible occasion and would be obliged to listen to it.

Question of Trusteeship

The peace treaty with Italy involves the question of colonial trusteeship including the extent of Russian penetration into the Mediterranean.

Granting acceptance of American terms on the Italian peace treaty, there would be a collective trusteeship of colonies in which Russia would play her part and—Marshal Tito would not like this—it would mean Trieste for the Italians, not to mention a virtually unchanged frontier with Austria.

Foreign Commissar Molotov three days ago demanded an allied control commission based more or less on the lines of that in Germany but with the United States in the strongest role.

The United States apparently rejected a control commission on the German style, for failure of the allied control commissions in Berlin, Vienna, and Rome has been obvious.

Seek Balkan Agreement

LONDON, Sept. 27 (AP)—The United States, Great Britain, and Russia made an eleventh hour attempt today to achieve at least a partial decision on the Balkan peace treaties before adjournment of the first session of the council of foreign ministers.

United States Secretary of State Byrnes, Soviet Foreign Commissar Molotov, and British Foreign Secretary Bevin conferred on the procedure for drafting treaties for Romania, Hungary, and Bulgaria.

Their conference preceded the afternoon council sessions, at which it was reliably reported that the five foreign ministers had agreed on French demands for restitution of property stolen by the Germans, and which the Russians were said to have taken from the reich as reparations. The official bulletin reported only that the subject had been discussed.

Resume Talks Today

The British-American-Russian talks are scheduled to be resumed tomorrow, strengthening a possibility that the council may reopen discussions on the Balkan pacts. Russia was reported still insisting, however, that France and China be excluded from the Balkan deliberations, asserting that the Potsdam decisions made it clear that only the United States, Britain, and Russia should deal with the question.

Contributing to the feeling that the Balkan deadlock might be broken was the announcement in Bucharest that the United States had given de facto recognition to the Hungarian government by offering to negotiate a peace treaty.

URGES JOINT CONTROL

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27—President Truman, it was learned today, has proposed the formation of an allied Pacific council to exercise an advisory function in the occupation and government of Japan. Ultimate responsibility for the policies for the subjugation, rehabilitation, and reëducation of Japan, however, would remain with the United States as the defacto conqueror of the island empire.

The President's move, it further transpired, was not by way of concession to the demands of Russian Foreign Commissar Molotov in London that an allied control commission be created to boss the occupation and government of Japan, from which body Gen. MacArthur or any other supreme commander chosen by the allies would take his orders. The Truman proposal was made before Molotov sprang his demand on State Secretary Byrnes at the London meeting of the allied foreign ministers.

Follows His Directive

Mr. Truman's proposal, it was explained, was made in accord with the directive of Aug. 29 to Gen. MacArthur, setting forth the policies he was to pursue in the occupation.

"The occupation," said the directive, "shall have the character of an operation on behalf of the principal allied powers acting in the interests of the united nations at war with Japan. For that reason, participation of the forces of other nations that have taken a leading part in the war against the Japanese will be welcomed and expected."

The directive left no doubt, however, that the voice of the allies in the formulation of occupation policies would be purely advisory to the American supreme commander.

United States Has Final Say

"Altho," said the directive, "every effort will be made to establish policies which will satisfy the principal allied powers, in the event of any difference of opinion among them, the policies of the United States will govern."

The President signed this directive on Sept. 6 and not long thereafter proposed to Great Britain, Russia, and China the formation of a Pacific advisory council to sit in Washington. The British countered with the suggestion that on any such commission not only Britain, Russia, and China, but Australia, New Zealand, France, and the Netherlands should be represented. Also, said the British, the commission should have its seat in Tokyo.

Byrnes Surprised

Moscow had not made any definite response to the President's proposal before the meeting of the foreign ministers in London. In fact, before Molotov demanded the creation of a "control commission" to which Gen. MacArthur would be subordinate Molotov insisted that the allies should have "joint and equal control" of the occupation of Japan and was supported in this demand by British Foreign Secretary Bevin.

Byrnes, taken completely by surprise and at a loss for a ready answer, could only plead that the question of the Japanese occupation was not on the conference agenda.

Molotov's thesis is that if the British and Americans are to have "joint and equal control" with Russia in eastern Europe there should be "joint and equal control" in Japan.

HOUSE APPROVES 1½ BILLION FOR HIGHWAY WORK

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27 (AP)—The house moved today to put the nation's largest road building program under way at once when it adopted unanimously a resolution to authorize 500 million dollars for highway work during the present fiscal year. The resolution now goes to the senate.

The 1944 highway act, made effective by the resolution, calls for total expenditure of 1½ billion dollars in federal funds over three years. The money will be matched by states.

Of the 500 million dollars authorized for each of the three years, 225 million would be used for federal aid highways, 150 million for secondary roads, and 125 million for urban roads.

M'ARTHUR VISIT COSTS HIROHITO PRESTIGE—JAPS

People Regard Throne as Being Humbled

TOKYO, Sept. 27 (AP)—Emperor Hirohito humbled the exalted position of Japan's throne today in his historic call on Gen. MacArthur, in the opinion of the Japanese people.

A spokesman said Hirohito himself solicited the meeting, which symbolized the decline of Japan from the proud first power in Asia to a fourth-rate nation.

Hirohito's subjects, awed at the spectacle of the untouchable emperor calling, hat in hand, on a foreigner, hoped that the breaking of precedent might create friendship between the two nations and make the occupation a little more bearable.

To Be Kept Secret

The Japanese central liaison officer said both allied headquarters and the imperial government had "reached an agreement" to seal the topic of the momentous conference in secrecy. It was assumed, however, that they discussed problems of American occupation, and possibly abdication, which again was being rumored without confirmation. One report was that "the redrafting of the Japanese constitution to permit abdication already is taking place."

Photographer Describes Meeting

Second Lt. Gae Faillace, 41 year old signal corps officer, the only cameraman present, today gave the only eyewitness account of the meeting.

"As the emperor arrived at the entrance to the room, the general walked over," he said. "The emperor made the first greeting—in English, I think, but I was too busy with my camera to say for sure.

"As the emperor and MacArthur moved into position where I was to take their pictures, the emperor turned to me and said 'good morning.' I said 'good morning, sir,' in military fashion."

Faillace made three shots of the two men who now rule Japan. He said the emperor posed "very well," and described him as smartly attired in a cutaway morning coat. "He looked very sharp, I thought," the photographer added.

While the emperor talked with MacArthur, the transition of his nation to peace under American surveillance continued.

May Produce Textiles

Gen. MacArthur granted the government permission to continue production of textiles and certain metals, leather goods, trucks and processing of raw rubber under specific restrictions.

Manufacturers were given a go-ahead on textiles with the exception that no silk or silk garments will be permitted, save on approval of the supreme commander.

Approval was given for the use of 18,000 tons of steel, 6,000 tons of aluminum, 10,000 tons of electric wire.

The Domei agency said the government was weighing a "wholesale reorganization" of the bank of Japan, the financial dynamo that kept the war machine and its supporting industries running.

Domei also reported that dissolution was imminent for the patriotic labor service association—Japan's only war time union—to make way for free labor unions.

Stillwell Coming Home

Toyohiko Kagawa, Japanese Christian social worker, organized the International Peace society with 29 others at the residence of Premier Higashi-Kuni.

Gen. Stillwell called on MacArthur and later headquarters announced the deactivation of his 10th army. The 10th's occupation of Okinawa and adjacent islands will be taken over by army regulars. Stillwell will return to Washington.

Units of the 33d infantry division [Illinois] arrived in force in the area of Kobe, Japan's greatest seaport, extending American occupation to the Inland sea for the first time.

Tell of Drug Racket at Luzon Camp

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MANILA, P. I., Sept. 27—Charges of widespread racketeering in drugs and medicines in the Japanese concentration camp at Capas, Tarlac province, Luzon, after the surrender of United States army forces on Bataan, were made today to a congressional investigating committee here. Twenty-nine thousand Filipino war prisoners died at Capas in five months.

In earlier testimony, Brig. Gen. Guillermo Francisco, a Bataan veteran and camp commandant at Capas under the Japs, denied that Filipino camp physicians and officials kept medicines from sick soldiers to sell them at fantastically high prices.

Links Four to Racket

Answering Francisco, Dr. Romeo Atienza, a Philippine Red Cross official who was liaison officer between the Philippine bureau of health and camp authorities, testified that Dr. Fernando Tinio, a Philippine army officer, Dr. Constantino Crisostomo, Dr. Gustavo Neri, and a Dr. Pineda dealt in drugs in the camp.

Atienza said a Filipino woman, at Pineda's solicitation, paid him $1,000 and obtained the release of her son from the camp.

Antonio La Forteza, a special investigator for the United States counter intelligence corps who was a volunteer social worker at Capas, testified he had taken incriminating letters to Gen. Francisco in his capacity as camp censor.

Calls General a Liar

The letters, he said, were written by a Dr. Elezar of Tayabas province in Luzon, and Tagwaotti Sotto, a Manila lawyer, then interned, to their parents in Manila. They asked for sufficient money to buy medicines to be resold to sick war prisoners in Capas at exorbitant prices.

"I want to go on record here," La Forteza said, "that when Gen. Francisco claimed he had no specific knowledge of rackets inside the camp he was telling the biggest lie a general ever told."

REVEAL SECRET TRANSFER OF 100 SHIPS TO RUSSIA

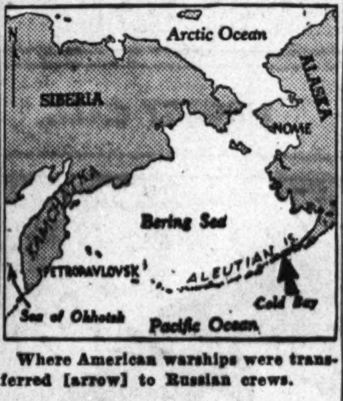
COLD BAY, Alaska, Aug. 8 [Delayed]—(AP)—Nearly 100 small American warships were delivered to Russian crews at this secret base on the tip of the Alaskan peninsula before Russia formally entered the war against Japan.

Delivery of the warships began before the death of President Roosevelt and shortly after the historic Yalta conference, where apparently, the decision to lend-lease the warships to Russia was made.

Transferred in Batches

This base and delivery of the ships were one of the most guarded secrets of the high north country. Marine guards were posted thruout the area to insure secrecy.

In small batches of from eight to 15 ships at a time, the ships were transferred under lend-lease to soviet sailors. The ships included patrol craft, mine sweepers, destroyer escorts, and landing craft infantry—the famous LCI's that played such an important role in the Pacific war.



Where American warships were transferred [arrow] to Russian crews.

90 to 100 Turned Over

Russian crews boarded the ships here. They were taught in short courses administered by American naval officers how to maneuver the ships. Then the small flotillas set out for Siberian or Kamchatkan waters across the North Pacific and presumably the sea of Okhotsk.

The exact number of ships handed over to Russia has not been revealed, but best estimates place the number at between 90 and 100 craft.

Aside from the LCI's, most of the other ships transferred to Russia were of the type generally used for convoy and escort duty.

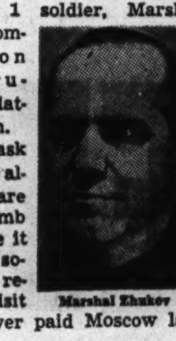
Ex-Chief of French Militia Jailed on Torture Charge

PARIS, Sept. 27 [Reuters]—Joseph Leoussen, a former chief of the Vichy militia in Lyon, was arrested today at Strasbourg. He is accused of the murder of Victor Basch, president of the League for the Rights of Man, and the torture of Jews by cutting stars in their flesh.

ZHUKOV COMING TO U. S. OCT. 4 TO SEE TRUMAN

Russia's No. 1 Soldier Due on Plane

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27 (AP)—Russia's No. 1 soldier, Marshal Zhukov, is coming to call on President Truman at the latter's invitation.



Marshal Zhukov

Maybe he'll ask that Russia be allowed to share the atomic bomb secret. Maybe it will be just a social call—a return of the visit Gen. Eisenhower paid Moscow last month.

There was plenty of speculation about possible subjects of discussion between the President and Russia's great war hero.

It was Zhukov who stood steadfast ["Every man must fight like ten"] in her gravest hours, at Moscow and Stalingrad. It was he who led her most triumphal surge, the march to Berlin.

Arrives on Oct. 4

The White House reported today that the marshal would arrive in New York by air Oct. 4. It added he would see the President.

The announcement said nothing of the topics for discussion. But it seemed logical that these two onetime buck privates would at least mention the atomic bomb, the most destructive weapon the world ever has known.

Truman, who started at the bottom of the national guard in 1905 and wound up as the nation's commander-in-chief, is reportedly in favor of a joint system of control of the bomb. Presumably Russia would be one of the first to be given the secret.

Private Under Czar

Zhukov, a private in the Czarist army who became Russia's chief of staff, is coming from a country which already has disclosed it thinks it's entitled to be let in on the secret.

On Sept. 3 an article in the soviet publication New Times criticized the "reactionary part" of the American press which it said wanted to keep the atomic bomb a secret. The article called for international control of the bomb.

JAP NEWSMEN TELL AP OF THEIR PLANS FOR FREE AGENCY

New York, Sept. 27 (AP)—The executive heads of three Japanese newspapers said today in a message to Kent Cooper they were sponsoring formation of a free and independent news association to provide news of the world to the press of Japan.

The message was sent to Cooper, executive director of the Associated Press, by Nagataka Murayama, president of the newspaper Asahi; Shingoro Takaishi, president of Mainichi, and Matsutaro Shoriki, president of Yomiuri-Hochi.

It was in response to telegrams Cooper had sent them Sept. 20 expressing hope each would sponsor "restoration of a coöperative [news association] along lines of the Associated Press,

LETTER RELATES NOBLE DEATH OF PEORIA OFFICER

Says Comdr. Scott Died Saving Wounded

Peoria, Ill., Sept. 27 [Special]—The late Lt. Comdr. Reader T. Scott, 34, who was fatally injured in the naval battle off Guadalcanal on the night of Nov. 14-15, 1942, gave his life to save two wounded officers, his father has been informed by a surviving officer of Scott's ship.

The father, C. S. Scott, superintendent of the Springdale Cemetery association here and a former Republican state representative, said he has received a letter from Lt. [j. g.] Berrien P. Anderson Jr., giving an account of his son's death.

Comdr. Scott was the commanding officer of the destroyer Walke, one of seven United States destroyers sunk by the Japanese in that battle. He was a graduate of Peoria High school and of the United States Naval academy at Annapolis.

Decisive Battle

The battle off Guadalcanal is regarded as the decisive American effort to wreck Japanese attempts to retake that Pacific island. With a formidable fleet of battleships and cruisers, the Japs were attempting to convoy 20 to 30 transports to Guadalcanal.

A comparatively small American force advanced against the Japanese fleet. It consisted of five cruisers and eight destroyers, including the Walke.

In the action that followed, the United States lost two cruisers and seven destroyers. The Japanese loss has been figured at two battleships, eight cruisers, six destroyers, and eight transports sunk, and two battleships, one cruiser, and seven destroyers damaged.

Ship Went Down Quickly

"We went in against terrible odds that night of Nov. 14-15," Berrien wrote. "The Walke went down very quickly. Scotty was among the last to leave the ship.

"The important thing was to get away from the ship and onto a raft as soon as possible—before the ship exploded. Scotty knew this, and he could have reached a raft, but he found two wounded officers close to the ship and he knew they couldn't make it. I won't mention their names.

"Your son began to tow both these officers to the raft.

"The raft was very crowded, but Scotty fought his way past a thrashing group until he finally got both the officers he had saved onto the raft. He could have gotten on himself, but he chose to give his place to men less seriously injured."

Berrien said Scott lost consciousness during the night and was placed aboard a raft. In the middle of the next day the survivors were picked up and taken to Tulagi, where Scott died Nov. 22. He is buried in the American cemetery there.

BRITISH SHIPPING DEFICIT REACHES 7 MILLION TONS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Sept. 27—Statistics on wartime shipping losses issued today showed that the British empire started peace with a deficit of 7,000,000 tons compared with her pre-war tonnage. Up to May of this year the empire lost 3,180 merchant ships totaling 12,500,000 tons, and 500,000 tons of commissioned vessels such as armed merchant cruisers. During the war 1,300 ships totaling 6,000,000 tons were built. Two million tons are scheduled for construction in the next two years.

PATTON TO FACE EISENHOWER ON NAZI JOBS TODAY

Post as Commander Is at Stake

Orders Six Fired

MUNICH, Bavaria, Sept. 27—Col. Roy L. Dalferes, aide to Gen. Patton, today demanded the dismissal by tonight of six men of the Nuernberg military government who are known Nazis, one of whom was an important official and former attorney who held membership in the Storm troopers. The minister president, Fritz Schaeffer, whose resignation has been under consideration, has requested the permission of officials at Frankfurt to be permitted to go there and present his defense.

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune]

FRANKFORT ON MAIN, Sept. 27—A showdown between Gen. Patton and Gen. Eisenhower is scheduled for tomorrow when Patton will arrive from Bavaria to explain what he meant when he said he thought too much emphasis was being placed upon the denazification of industry and commerce.

He has already held a second press conference, at which on orders of Lt. Gen. W. Bedell Smith, Eisenhower's chief of staff, he read two paragraphs of the supreme commander's letter of Sept. 12 ordering that denazification be carried out regardless of its effects upon efficiency.

President Is the Issue

But tomorrow his future role in the occupation of Germany will depend upon his ability to convince Gen. Eisenhower that he is capable of carrying out the directive in spirit as well to the letter. If he fails, Patton may be asked to yield his command of the 3d army.

If Gen. Patton stays it will be at the cost of the revolutionary reform German provincial government of Bavaria, where the reactionary People's party is firmly in the saddle. The crux of the controversy is the continued incumbency of Fritz Schaeffer as minister president.

'Talking Too Much Again'

Gen. Patton, it is believed, will plead that he has been talking too much again and will promise to be good in the future.

Robert D. Murphy, political adviser to Gen. Eisenhower, and Dr. Walter L. Dorn, adviser to Brig. Gen. Clarence Adcock, chief of the military government division, have been in Bavaria and it is believed they have found evidence to support charges that the political scales are weighted heavily there in favor of reactionary elements.

Keyes Orders Harshness

At a conference of 200 military government officers from Hessen and Hessen-Nassau held at Bad Homburg today Lt. Gen. Geoffrey Keyes, 7th army commander and military governor of the western occupation district, delivered a speech making his own position clear. He said:

"There must be no temporizing with nazism. The time of discussion is over. All arguments for and against have been considered fully by all authorities from highest to lowest. Gen. Eisenhower has reached his decision. There is no time or place for debate. You have your orders. You will carry them out."

HOSPITAL SHIP HEADS FOR U. S. FROM SHANGHAI

SHANGHAI, Sept. 27 (AP)—The American hospital ship Refuge sailed in a pre-dawn drizzle today with 443 passengers, the majority liberated American prisoners bound for San Francisco in the first post-war repatriation from Shanghai.

More than 100 required hospital attention, altho treatment of internees in Shanghai was generally less severe than in other Japanese areas.

Many passengers were the White Russian, British, or Polish wives of American seamen who married before the war. Also aboard were 130 crew members of the liner President Harrison, which was run aground in the Whangpoo river at the start of the war.

WAINWRIGHT AID TELLS OF FORCED LABOR FOR JAPS

Brig. Gen. Lewis C. Beebe, chief of staff for Lt. Gen. Jonathan Wainwright, with whom he was captured on Corregidor, arrived in Chicago yesterday with his wife en route from his home in Minneapolis, Minn., to White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., to rejoin Wainwright for a physical checkup.

The 53 year old general, who was released in August by a parachute team at Camp Hoten, Manchuria, said the Japanese forced him to work in the fields "presumably to raise food—but we did a good stall on that."

MONTREAL HIT BY GANG TERROR IN MEAT FIGHT

Port Closed; Alberta Mines Shut Down

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 27 (AP)—Gang terrorism in Montreal, Quebec, paralysis of the big port there, and a shutdown of coal mines in the western province of Alberta marked Canada's country-wide protests against meat rationing today.

While the government stood pat on a decision to stick by its 16 day old meat rationing program, protests against the rationing, mostly from retail butchers, continued unabated.

Montreal, the dominion's largest city, went thru its fourth virtually meatless day as most butcher shops remained closed, either voluntarily or thru intimidation by roving gangs who were involved in several clashes with police.

Break Up Raid

One mob of 100 tried to enter a downtown department store where the meat counter was being kept open. Police arrested 55 men after scuffles sent several to hospitals.

The royal Canadian mounted police took over the port of Montreal after longshoremen had gone on strike protesting that they could not work without meat.

Gangs who moved from the waterfront area forced the closing of three Montreal packing plants which had been serving shops which are still open.

4,500 Miners Quit

The entire coal industry in Alberta was threatened with paralysis as union coal miners struck against meat rationing, complaining that they could not get enough to eat under the order, which allows approximately two pounds of meat per person per week.

Approximately 4,500 miners walked out, about half of all those in the Alberta industry. Indications were that others in Alberta and miners in British Columbia, on the Pacific coast, would follow suit.

The government is turning down repeated demands to hear delegations protesting against the rationing.

BERLIN COUNCIL SOFTER TOWARD STARVING NAZIS

BY HENRY WALES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BERLIN, Sept. 27—Despite the outcry against Gen. Patton's plea to use efficient Germans even if they belonged to the Nazi party, today's allied control council meeting revealed that all officials concerned with the administration of the Berlin area are beginning to take a sympathetic view toward the wretched civilian population.

Col. Frank Howley, recounting activities of the session, was asked, "If all the Nazis must do hard labor are they entitled to receive a No. 1 ration card providing the highest category of calories?"

"You could make the Nazi party members do the hardest work and give them the lowest rations, but that is not the American idea, that is Buchenwald," replied Howley. "We do not operate like Hitler, and laborers will be fed according to the work done. Actually the prisoners of war—SS troops and fanatical nazi last-standers—are the best fed people in Germany.

Most Are Skeletons

"Most nazi members in Berlin were only miserable hangers on and already are emaciated skeletons from hiding out. Interrogation officers tell me that many Nazis are too weak for screening and that some actually cannot stand up. There is a difference between rabid nazi leaders and the rank and file who joined the party to hold their jobs or get better treatment under the regime."

A discussion arose when Howley explained that the oberburgemeister was instructed to increase the ration of German children between 9 and 14 from 1,388 to 1,550 calories and to give a hot meal to school children daily.

Would Feed Children

"The youngsters are the most important age group in Germany because we can teach them democracy, and if we give them adequate food it will pay dividends," said Howley. "And I am not an advocate of a soft policy. We give Germans working for the army sufficient rations because we do not want sick men in proximity to our soldiers infecting the troops with illnesses. Likewise, when people remain in proximity a certain sympathy and understanding arises."

The control council decreed that all "persecuted persons" be stepped up one grade in ration cards, which means that the 6,000 Jews in Berlin will begin to get more food after six years of lean eating under Hitler.

What Goes On Behind Scenes? British Ask Their Press

BY E. R. NODERER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Sept. 27—It is dawning upon the British public that many things are happening in this country which do not appear in the British press. This was demonstrated again today with the revelation that a number of members of the new parliament are demanding information upon matters known to insiders but which seldom appear in print.

At the same time the World's Press News, a London newspaper trade journal, carried a protest alleging that British officials in the United States have fed important news to the American press which is denied the British. Particular reference was made to a recent story of the British war effort, which, it was charged, was handed out exclusively to a New York City paper [the New York Times].

News Via United States

The British are increasingly dismayed to find that much news about their country appears first in American newspapers and is sent back here from the United States. This applies particularly to international meetings, such as the foreign ministers' conference in London, where the British press, accustomed to accepting official handouts without question, often finds itself behind the news.

Much of the responsibility for keeping the British public in the dark about important domestic and world developments lies with the official secrets act which forbids revelation of details of government deals until they are officially announced. Since most government announcements present the picture as the party in power would like to have it drawn, the British are not always aware of what has been done in their name.

Another factor is the reluctance of British newspaper men to publish news which they know the burocrats would not want printed. One reason for this is that most British publishers hold titles which makes them unwilling to "let their side down."

Lid May Be Lifted

The coming of the Laborites to power may lift the lid which has been clamped for years on public information. Conservatives, now the opposition, are asking questions in the hope of embarrassing the Labor government. The Laborites, who have no especially tender feeling for the "old school tie" ruling class, demand raising of the curtain on matters affecting the public.

When parliament reassembles next month Gordon Touche [Conservative] has notified the government he will ask Minister of Labor George Isaacs to publish regularly the statistics on employment and unemployment. Another Conservative, Gifford Fox, will ask immediate publication of figures on British gasoline stocks.

Maj. Peter Roberts [Conservative] will ask for a statement on the progress in the housing program about which there has been much talk but little information.

Hugh Lucas-Tooth [Conservative] wants information on the government's demobilization program and Laborite James Hudson wants to know what tonnage of scarce sugar has been allocated to brewers.

PHONE CONTROLS ELIMINATED BY ORDER OF WPB

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27 (AP)—The war production board today revoked all controls over telephone communications, except priority ratings for telephone service. A slight revision of the preference ratings was made, however.

The previous top priority category, which had included war production, was replaced with a new and more limited A1 rating for government, public health, and welfare. A new schedule, A2, was designated to meet reconversion needs.

Schedule B has been set up to meet needs in case of serious illness and physical disability, while schedule C gives preference to veterans.

Under the amended regulation the prohibition on residence extension service has been eliminated. WPB said such service would be permitted when and where equipment is available.

FIND ASHES OF 3 AIRMEN SLAIN BY JAPS IN CHINA

Trio Shot on Orders from Tokyo, Records Show

SHANGHAI, Sept. 27 (AP)—Three Doolittle flyers, lashed to improvised crosses, were shot to death on the fringe of an ancient Shanghai cemetery three years ago on direct orders from Tokyo. An American war crimes investigator disclosed this fact today with the discovery of three small wooden boxes containing their ashes.

The investigator, Capt. J. S. Bailey of San Francisco, who found the remains on a shelf in a funeral parlor here, said their names had been falsified as was the date of their deaths which he later verified as Oct. 15, 1942.

Find Court Records

An American graves officer took custody of the ashes today for return to the United States. The ashes of a fourth Doolittle flyer, Lt. R. J. Meder, 24, of Lakewood, O., will be brought here from Nanking, where he died of malnutrition, dysentery and beriberi.

Court martial records of the Japanese government disclosed that the airmen, members of Doolittle's command of 80, were convicted in only 30 minutes of a Japanese-language "trial" of violating "military regulations regarding aircraft crews."

Doolittle and his men bombed the Japanese capital April 18, 1942. The executed men and five companions were captured by the Japanese when their two planes were forced down in China.

Executed Men Listed

Those executed were:

Lt. Dean Edward Hallmark, 27, Dallas, Tex., charged by the Japanese with piloting a plane which "bombed and strafed the city blindly and indiscriminately . . . killed scores of civilians and destroyed several civilian buildings."

Lt. William G. Farrow, 23, Darlington, S. C., who, his captors said, "dived and strafed a Nagoya grammar school building and children playing on the grounds."

Sgt. Harold A. Spatz, 20, Lebo, Kas., a machine gunner on one of the Mitchell bombers.

The execution was conducted in an old Chinese cemetery which resembles a ploughed field. It is devoid of crosses or other markers. The Chinese merely dig a shallow hole, deposit their dead and cover the place lightly.

Tells of Execution

A Japanese military guard who saw the execution said Farrow, Hallmark, and Spatz were driven by automobile two miles from the prison to the cemetery shortly after dawn.

The men knelt on mats before the graves, several feet apart, and their hands were strapped to low white crosses. An officer raised his saber, cried "fire" and two bullets entered each American's brain.

The men hung limply by their arms. Then they were kicked, crosses and all, into the graves. Then the corpses, with the crosses still attached, were put into coffins which were dispatched to a crematory, a wooden pagoda roofed building with a 60 foot smokestack, the guard said.

The five other flyers, including Meder, also were condemned but gained commutations to life imprisonment only a day before their three comrades were executed.

For days before their trial, the eight were tortured in the infamous Bridge House in Shanghai.

Surviving the maltreatment were Lt. Chase J. Neilsen, Hyrum, Utah; Lt. Robert Hite, Earth, Tex.; Lt. George Barr, Madison, Wis., and Sgt. Jacob D. De Shazer, Madras, Ore.

MRS. JEANETTE C. CURLEY

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 27 (AP)—Mrs. Jeanette Chrysler Curley, 20, an expert swimmer who has been missing since Sept. 18 when her clothes were found on a beach near the Golden Gate, telegraphed her family here tonight from Mexico City that she was well.

The girl's mother, Mrs. L. G. Chrysler of Grinnell, Ia., said the telegram did not give any explanation for the daughter's disappearance.

"I think she was in a highly nervous state because of the separation from her husband," Mrs. Chrysler said. Curley is an ensign aboard the U. S. S. Missouri. Mrs. Chrysler said she had telephoned the news to her husband at Los Angeles, where he had gone en route to Mexico City on a hunch. Chrysler, vice president of Grinnell college and former Grinnell mayor, said he remembered his daughter's liking for Mexico, where she spent several vacations.

AIDE TO HITLER, SEIZED IN CHINA, ARRIVES IN U. S.

Hamilton Field, Cal., Sept. 27 (AP)—Capt. Fritz Wiedemann, Adolf Hitler's former aide who was arrested in China, arrived here today in custody of a United States navy officer. The former Nazi official is being taken to Washington, D. C.

Fritz Wiedemann

A plane bearing Wiedemann and his guard from Hawaii landed at 2:43 p. m. and left tonight.

Hamilton Field officers said they understood he was in "protective custody." Army officers at Manila had said he probably would be taken to Germany for possible trial.

Reporters were not allowed to question him here.

FRIENDS OF FAMILY SHOCKED

News of Lt. Col. Dewey's death in Indo-China shocked the Dewey family's friends, who had known the young hero from his childhood. His last visit to the family home at 1507 N. State pkwy. was in October, 1944.

Outbreak of the war found Dewey in Paris as a foreign correspondent for a Chicago newspaper. He promptly enlisted in the Polish army, partly thru an attachment born of the family's stay in that country while his father was financial advisor to Poland from 1927 to 1931.

Served in Polish Army

Holding the rank of lieutenant, young Dewey served with the Polish forces until the fall of France. Then he escaped thru Spain to Portugal, where, after internment, he returned home. He was subsequently decorated by the French and Polish governments for his efforts early in the war. For a time he served with the office of the coördinator of inter-American affairs in Washington, D. C., but after a brief period of civilian life in 1942—during which he married—he enlisted as an intelligence officer with the army air transport command.

His duties took him to Africa, Arabia and other distant lands. Soon afterward he transferred to the office of strategic services, and before long won a captaincy in a special paratroop unit. It was in that capacity that he reached spectacular heights.

Five days before the invasion of southern France he and his men parachuted into the country and helped organize a detachment of French Maquis. With them, young Dewey captured a nazi tank, destroyed two others, and seized 384 German soldiers. He won the legion of merit for that feat, which was described as a direct contribution to later army successes.

Volunteers for Special Duty

Dewey was still with the strategic services when, last July, he volunteered for special duty in Saigon. The last word received from him by his family was a letter written from Kandy, Ceylon, saying merely he was headed for a mission in Indo-China.

The young officer was educated at St. Paul's academy, Concord, N. H., in Switzerland, and at Yale. He spoke French and Polish. In August, 1942, he married Miss Nancy Weller, daughter of the Joseph Wellers of Washington, D. C. They have a daughter, Nancy, born in May, 1944. He leaves, in addition, his parents, who reside in Washington; a brother, Charles Jr., and two sisters, Mrs. Edward Byron Smith of Lake Forest, who left for the capital yesterday, and Mrs. Frederick Alger Jr. of Detroit.

Freed Yank Forgives Wife Who Wed Uncle

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 27 (AP)—Mrs. Ann Birdwell said tonight her husband has forgiven her for marrying his uncle after he was reported killed in action last October and that she has "nothing to worry about now." She said that her husband, Sgt. Gene Birdwell, who was liberated from a Japanese prison camp last month, only 12 days after she had married his uncle, Jack Marshall, had written her from Manila and assured her everything would come out all right.

Helen Klein, 22, a Polish Jewess who testified to treatment by Nazis in Belsen prison camp, as she exhibited place on arm where prison number was tattooed in trial at Lueneburg, Germany.

LUENEBURG, Germany, Sept. 27 (AP)—Two witnesses at the Belsen war crimes trial today accused Irma Grese, 21, blonde guard, of sending thousands of persons to their death in gas chambers.

Hanka Rozenweag, 25, Polish Jewess who was an inmate of the Oswiecim [Anschwitz], Poland, and Belsen, Germany, Nazi concentration camps for two years, told the court she bore scars inflicted by a vicious dog set on her by Grese because another guard complained of the way in which she did her work. She accused Irene Haschke, a cookhouse supervisor, of drowning a woman prisoner in a Belsen cistern because the woman tried to get a drink. Abraham Glinowlecky, a Pole, testified that at Oswiecim he saw Grese send thousands to the gas chamber.

Helena Kopper, a defendant, suddenly shouted, "Why do the British keep hitting me?" A guard had nudged her when she spat on the floor. All the prisoners later told the court they were satisfied with their treatment and no British soldier had ever struck them.

Hickam Field's Banner to Be Raised in Japan

TOKYO, Sept. 27 (AP)—The United States flag which flew over Hickam field, Honolulu, at the outbreak of war Dec. 7, 1941, will be raised at noon tomorrow over the 5th air force headquarters, Irumgawa, Japan, by Gen. Kenney, commanding general of the far east air forces.

U. S. WAR EFFORT HIT AGAIN BY ZEALAND PAPERS

BY QUENTIN POPE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WELLINGTON, N. Z., Sept. 27—In the most protracted anti-American campaign in the history of New Zealand, the press today hit again at the nation which provided this country with its first line of defense in the war.

The Dominion, an agricultural newspaper, yesterday demanded that the government cancel orders for urgently needed hydro-electric equipment, taking a loss on it and switching the orders to Britain. Today, it took the United States war effort apart, charging that the figures thereon were inflated by the ammunition shipped to Britain and paid for by the British loss of foreign investments before lend-lease.

Lists Damage in Burma

It listed the scorched earth damage in Burma and Malaya in which the British, before the war, blocked American investments, as part of the British war sacrifices entitling them to preferential treatment.

The newspaper also demanded that New Zealand, for the present, leave untouched its sterling balances of more than $260,000,000 built up during the war and cease American purchases as an aid to Britain.

The conservative Evening Post joined the outcry, declaring that the war debts apparently would hang like a poison gas cloud over the aftermath of the war and that there were signs of acrimonious haggling over the aid furnished by the United States to Britain when both were fighting a common cause.

Charges U. S. Invented War Debts

The article sought to prove that war debts never had existed in history until they were invented by the Americans in the last war, and recalled that the British financed the European coalition against Napoleon. It charged that, at that time, the British saved the United States, since, if Napoleon had won, he would have demanded the return of Canada, thus threatening the infant republic from north and south. The article lumped lend-lease with the war debts and ended: "You can't have it both ways."

Newspapers here also featured the British forced withdrawal of the American movie "Objective Burma," declaring that this story of an American platoon fighting its way back to United States forces ignored almost completely the major part played by the British in Burma.

GLOBE CIRCLING PLANE SERVICE TO BEGIN TODAY

Trip Will Take a Week; Covers 23,147 Miles

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27 (AP)—Seven men and a woman, off tomorrow on the inaugural flight of the first regular round the world air service, prepared tonight to become human guinea pigs for the 23,147 mile journey.

Leaving Washington national airport at 5 p. m., they'll travel in an air conditioned C-54 [Douglas Skymaster] with upholstered, adjustable seats. They will have every comfort and convenience the United States army air transport command can provide on the schedule terminating here at midnight Thursday, Oct. 4. The first stop is Bermuda, 835 miles at sea.

Subsequent stops on the route will be Santa Maria Island in the Azores; Casablanca, Morocco; Tripoli, Libya; Cairo, Egypt; Abadan, Iran; Karachi and Calcutta, India; Luliang, China; Manila, the Philippines; Guam, in the Marianas; Kwajalein, in the Marshalls; Johnston Island; Honolulu, Hawaii; San Francisco, and Washington. Flying time will be 120 hours 45 minutes.

First on Regular Schedule

But tests thruout the flight—registering fatigue, reaction to altitude, everything the A. T. C. can check—may supply information that will lead to even greater passenger comfort as long air trips become as commonplace as a boat ride.

The trip will be the first globe circling flight on a regular schedule. Planes on what is to be known as "The Globester" run will depart from Washington every Friday, carrying military passengers, cargo, and mail.

Eight to Go All the Way

Only eight of the more than 20 aboard at the take-off will go all the way around, three A. T. C. headquarters officers, an A. T. C. public relations officer, a photographer, and three reporters.

The reporters took final inoculations today against yellow fever, typhoid, typhus, and cholera, and received an hour long "briefing" in which, among other things, A. T. C. officers:

Showed them how to use an oxygen mask; explained the first aid kit; warned against getting outdoors without mosquito netting in certain areas; advised that perfume and whisky bottles should be sealed with adhesive to avoid a high altitude blow-up, and promised a movie tomorrow, showing what to do in and about a rubber life raft should they be forced down at sea.

PREMIER KING ASKS CANADA'S SAY ON PEACE

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 26 (AP) — Prime Minister W. L. MacKenzie King issued a sharp warning today against handling problems of peace by "private settlements" among the big powers as was done in fighting the war.

Announcing in parliament plans to leave for England next week, King said that during the war it was necessary for military reasons to acquiesce in improvised big power arrangements, but that now this method might well be difficult and even dangerous. Parliament cheered his remarks.

King has been asked frequently whether Canada had been consulted on specific decisions which have been taken by the council of foreign ministers meeting in London. The questioners generally stress that Canada, having had an important fighting role in freeing Europe from aggression, has a big stake in the peace settlements. King agreed with this view.

FEDERAL ACTION WAIVED IN CASE OF TYLER KENT

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27 (AP)—A government official said today that no further action is contemplated against Tyler Kent, former code clerk at the American embassy in London who was convicted in 1940 of violating the British official war secrets act.

A British home office official reported in London this week that Kent will be freed Oct. 5 and permitted to return to this country.

The British judge who sentenced Kent after a secret trial said Kent was convicted of larceny of an embassy document.

100,000 Benefited

New York, Sept. 27 (AP)—Gov. Green of Illinois and State Conservation Director Osborne today accepted for their state the first annual certificate of award from the Museum of Science and Industry for perfection of an outdoor recreational program for industrial workers and children.

Osborne said the plan was designed to teach conservation of soil and wild life and a democratic way of life to children and adults. More than 100,000 persons have benefited under it since its inception two years ago, he said, and from 20,000 to 30,000 will be given vacations and education under it each year.

LAVAL LAWYERS MAY STRIKE FOR DELAY IN TRIAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, Sept. 27—Two lawyers appointed by the court to defend Pierre Laval, Vichy leader charged with treason, threatened today to strike if the opening of the trial, set for Oct. 4, is not postponed.

The lawyers, Jacques Baraduc and Albert Naud, told the French chief advocate they have not been given time properly to prepare their case. They added that they had not been given access to the case records of the examining magistrate and did not know what is in nine-tenths of the documents the prosecution intends to use.

The prosecution has asserted it will insist that the trial start on Oct. 4. The problem is now up to the minister of justice, Pierre Henri Teitgen. He may have to change the date because it coincides with the campaign for the general elections, in which many prospective jurors are candidates.

REVIEW OF U. S. POLICY NEARS ON ARGENTINA

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27 (AP)—The state department tonight disclosed that a general review of United States policy on Argentina is imminent because of recent political developments in that country.

The disclosure came in response to requests for comment from Acting Secretary Acheson on a talk made by Spruille Braden, former ambassador to Argentina.

The regime there reimposed a state of siege yesterday and caused the wholesale arrests of a number of leading citizens.

Thru a state department spokesman, Acheson sent word that he would have to consult first with President Truman, Secretary of State Byrnes, who is expected in a day or so from London, and with Braden before making any statement.

"Measure of Repression"

Braden, who now becomes an assistant secretary of state in charge of Latin American affairs, said in San Juan, Puerto Rico, he was "shocked altho not surprised by developments in Argentina."

He described the steps taken by the Buenos Aires government, led by Vice President Juan Peron, as "extreme measures of repression" against patriotic citizens whose sole desire is to restore constitutional processes in their land.

Later in Miami, Fla., Braden said most Argentines are democratic and "friendly to us."

Urging the United States to use "every effort to eliminate the last taint of fascism" in Argentina, Rep. Gordon [R., Ill.] said: "Unless the government down there does it, I favor the application of economic sanctions and severance of diplomatic relations."

Argentine Arrests Continue

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Sept. 27 (AP)—Arrests of prominent Argentines by the military regime of Col. Juan Peron, vice president and strong man of Argentia, continued today as civil liberties were smothered under a national state of siege.

Alberto Gainza Paz, publisher of the powerful newspaper La Prensa, was one of the latest Argentine leaders to be seized. Luis Mitre, publisher of La Nacion, and his executive editor, Angel Bohigas, also were taken into custody tonight.

Later, Col. Peron showed up at police headquarters and ordered Luis Mitre to return home under house arrest. He also freed Luis Mitre's brother, Jorge, a former publisher of La Nacion, and Radical Leader Ernesto Boatti.

Police at Newspaper

Police were stationed both inside and outside the publishing plant of the newspaper Critica, which claims the world's largest Spanish language circulation. The paper was forced to suspend publication and sources within the government said that a decree is in preparation whereby the military regime will take over Critica under the guise of proper legal action.

Peron and other government leaders were said to be still smarting over the defiance shown by an estimated 500,000 persons who paraded Sept. 19 in a "march for constitution and liberty."

BRITON VISIONS WORLD GROUP FOR TRANSPORT

LONDON, Sept. 27 [Reuters]—A general world transport organization will be set up by the united nations "in a period of months from now," Philip Noel-Baker, British Minister of State, announced today.

"Transport is a world matter and it has been recognized that in the long run it can only be promoted by world action," he said.

Noel-Baker made this statement after eleven nations—the United States, Russia, Britain, France, Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Greece, Luxemburg, Holland, Norway and Yugoslavia—signed the European transport agreement setting up a European central inland transport organization.

NEW WAR CRIME LIST ACCUSES 1,000 GERMANS

LONDON, Sept. 27 (AP)—The United nations war crimes commission sent a new secret "wanted" list of more than 1,000 nazi war criminals to the allied governments tonight, and demanded their arrest. The secret list was the 14th issued by the commission.

The commission also announced that German documents linked Heinrich Himmler, who committed suicide to escape allied justice, to brutal experiments carried out at the infamous Dachau concentration camp.

The commission said the experiments included the exposing of naked victims to zero temperatures.

LEADER OFFERS SOCIALIST PLAN FOR FREE INDIA

Nehru Would Have State Own Key Industries

BOMBAY, India, Sept. 27 [Reuters]—Pandit Jawahrlal Nehru, former president of the Indian National congress, the leading party, and member of the congress-working committee, the party's policy fixing board, tonight offered a blue-print for a free India. It included state ownership of key industries, state control of other important industries, reorganization of the land system by the abolition of individual tenure of land, and introduction of large coöperative farms.

Nehru, speaking to Indian newspaper editors and representatives of the foreign press, said there was no conflict between large scale industrialization and cottage industries.

If the wealth of India is to be raised, large scale industrialization is necessary, but there would be scope for development of India's village industries, he asserted.

Calls for Rapid Progress

"We want rapid progress," Nehru said. "I don't know what will happen to India unless there is rapid progress in her economic development. There must be planned development. I have come to the conclusion that there must be socialistic planning."

Nehru said that heavy industries and mineral resources should be owned by the state and that other industries probably should be left to private enterprise. There should be a measure of control, however, to prevent any excesses, he added.

Farm Problems Unlike Reds'

Of coöperative farming, Nehru said the problem is different from the establishment of such farms in Russia because conditions are different.

Discussing the Indian constitutional problem, he said the British people do not realize the feeling of Indians regarding this matter.

"I have been asked what I would have liked Lord Wavell, the viceroy, to do," he said, "and I replied, 'It should be made perfectly clear that the British government proposes to walk out of the picture and that it is determined to do so.'"

BRADLEY ADMITS SOME DOCTORS IN ARMY ARE 'POOR'

New York, Sept. 27 (AP)—Gen. Bradley, veterans' administrator, said today the United States veterans' administration had "some pretty poor doctors," but added they were "better than no doctors."

"We know," he said at a news conference, "we have some pretty poor doctors, but the question is, aren't they better than no doctors—since they can't be replaced?"

Gen. Bradley said the administration now had 2,300 doctors and needed a full staff of 3,600. Of the 2,300, he added, 1,700 were a loan from the army and navy.

Gen. Bradley said he would be in Chicago next Monday on his tour of veterans' hospitals.

Asks Divorce

MRS. VIRGINIA DUNHAM

Mrs. Virginia Taylor Dunham, 921 Church rd., Lake Forest, yesterday asked a divorce on charges of desertion in a bill filed in Lake County Circuit court at Waukegan against Maj. Robert J. Dunham Jr., 40, now serving with the army in Arizona. Dunham is the son of Robert J. Dunham, president of the Chicago park district. The couple was married Aug. 26, 1925, at Sorrento, Me., and separated Oct. 20, 1942. They have two children, Constance, 17, and Robert III., 14. Mrs. Dunham seeks custody of the children and alimony and support for herself and the children. The suit was filed by Atty. Robert E. Cantwell Jr.

'11 MONTH BABY' SUIT TO RESULT IN BLOOD TESTS

Blood tests for all parties concerned in the divorce suit of Joseph Sowa, 31, a navy metalsmith, against his wife, Josephine, 26, of La Porte, Ind., whom he charges with giving birth to a son 11 months and 18 days after he went oveseas, were agreed on yesterday before Judge Frank M. Padden in Superior court.

The motion for the tests was made by Samel A. Rinella, Sowa's attorney, who also asked and was granted a request that a guardian be appointed to protect the interests of the baby during the tests. Charles Newton, attorney for Mrs. Sowa, said he had no objection. Judge Padden said he would name physicians and a guardian in a few days.

Mrs. Sowa has asserted the child was born after an abnormally long gestation period. Judge Padden yesterday received several letters from interested persons telling of other long gestation periods. Rinella told the court he would like to subpena Circuit Judges Cornelius J. Harrington and Robert J. Dunne, who had heard similar cases, to hear their views on the adequacy of blood test evidence.

Autoists in Area to Get 60,652 Tires in October

New passenger car tires allotted motorists in the Chicago area for October total 60,652, about the same as for September, James F, Riley, director of the Chicago area office of price administration, announced yesterday. Truck and bus tires, numbering 5,500 of small sizes and 4,727 larger ones, also remain unchanged for October, he added.

BOMBAY HINDUS, MOSLEMS RIOT; 17 DIE; 75 HURT

BOMBAY, Sept. 27 (AP)—Hospitals tonight reported 17 persons killed and at least 75 injured in battles between Hindus and Moslems which broke out last night and continued sporadically today.

The rioting was the worst since 1940, and the situation still was tense.

Police said the question of whether to stop the disturbances would be settled tomorrow when Moslems congregate for their prayers in the mosques, where personal religious and communal problems generally are discussed. If not, settled tomorrow, police say the disturbances may continue for a period up to three months.

Public assemblies were prohibited. Every available policeman was on duty. Squads were stationed at strategic points. Public carrying of weapons was banned and the sikhs, who by dictate of their religion always go armed, were warned to carry only small swords for the next 15 days.

Many Stores Closed

One victim was stabbed to death this afternoon 100 yards from a police station by a hoodlum who slipped out of an alley.

Many business places closed today in the areas where trouble was deemed probable.

Jawaharlal Nehru, leader of the predominately Hindu National Congress party blamed the disturbances on police and toughs alike saying "there would be no riots if the district commissioner and superintendent of police were told they would be dismissed if a riot broke out."

Four Killed in Bangkok

BANGKOK, Siam, Sept. 26 [Delayed]—[Reuters]—Four persons were killed and 10 injured in new riots in Bangkok between Chinese and Siamese police and soldiers last night and this morning.

Chinese shops and restaurants remained closed today as a protest against the Siamese attitude to the Chinese.

GAIN REPORTED IN AMBULANCE CHASING DRIVE

The Chicago Bar association, meeting last night at 29 S. La Salle st., reported that altho no lawyers were disciplined during the year for ambulance chasing, advances were made in educating the public against the practice.

"In spite of the fact that no cases were transferred for hearing before the grievance committee last year," the report said, "the committee is of the opinion that the time consumed in the hearing and investigation of many cases was well spent."

Word got around, the report held, that the committee was alert and this was believed to have served as a deterrant against acts "which would tend to bring the legal profession into greater disrepute." The committee said good coöperation had been obtained from County hospital in giving out copies of a letter warning persons who had been injured against ambulance chasers.

AUSTRALIAN UNIONS SUPPORT INDONESIAN FIGHT FOR FREEDOM

SYDNEY, Australia, Sept. 27 [Reuters]—The New South Wales trades labor council has decided to support the Indonesian people in their "struggle for independence" and to cable Australian minister for external affairs Herbert Evatt asking him to raise the issue at the council of foreign ministers in London.

Meanwhile, Australian dockworkers in Melbourne, Sydney, and Brisbane, have refused to lift their ban on the loading of Dutch ships which they contend are carrying arms from Australia for use against the "Indonesian republican government" in the Dutch East Indies. In an attempt to end the strike Dutch authorities have pledged to refrain from loading arms on mercy ships.

CIVIL SERVICE BODY SETS UP NEW POINT PLAN

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27 [Special]—The civil service commission today announced a point system under which government employes can determine their chances of staying in federal service the same way military personnel figure their chances of getting out of service.

Under the system, which will go into effect Nov. 1, more attention will be paid to seniority and less to efficiency ratings in reducing the number of federal employes.

Employes henceforth will be credited with a point for each full year of service. For an excellent efficiency rating they can get 5 points more. Two other efficiency ratings have been dropped. The new yardstick replaces a system in which 80 points were given for a good rating, 88 for very good, and 96 for excellent.

POST-WAR FLEET OF 116 CARRIERS URGED IN HOUSE

1,079 Ship Force Includes 18 Battleships

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27 (AP)—A post-war aircraft carrier fleet 16 times the size of America's flat-top forces at the time of Pearl Harbor was urged today by the house naval affairs committee.

A resolution was adopted unanimously favoring a navy of 1,079 combat ships.

This force would include 116 carriers.

The navy had seven on Dec. 7, 1941—The Yorktown, Ranger, Wasp, Hornet, Lexington, Saratoga, and Big-E, the famous Enterprise which pulled into Pearl Harbor soon after the Japs had struck.

Use Task Force System

Thus the empahsis for post-war defense would be on carrier task forces, just as the United States offensive in the Pacific was built around that arm of attack under Admirals Nimitz, Halsey, Mitscher, and McCain.

The committee's findings were in accord with the testimony of Navy Secretary Forrestal when hearings on the post-war fleet opened.

The committee suggested the giant force be divided three ways. One-third would be fully manned, ready to go anywhere. Another third would be tied up but painted, oiled, and set for an emergency. The remaining third would be decommissioned.

Greatest in History

Such a fleet would be the greatest peace time aggregation in history. It would be only 220 fewer combat vessels than the present mighty armada. It would include 18 of the newest battleships, all of the Missouri class.

Chairman Vinson [D., Ga.] styled the action a "fixed goal" toward which the committee wants the nation to work.

Vinson estimated the annual cost of maintaining a fleet of the size favored by the committee at between 2½ and 4 billion dollars.

One Killed as Street Car Hits Auto and 2d Trolley

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 27 (AP)—One man was killed today and 50 persons were injured in a crash involving two street cars and an automobile. Robert Shearwood, a safety patrolman, said the first street car, its trolley off the wires, sped out of control down Vine st. hill and struck the automobile, which was halted behind the second street car waiting for a traffic light to change. The impact hurled the automobile against the second street car and all three vehicles burned.

16 YEAR SERVICE FOR RETIREMENT IN NAVY URGED

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27 (AP)—Chairman Walsh [D., Mass.] of the senate naval committee introduced legislation today for optional retirement of navy personnel on part pay after 16 years' service. He also proposed increasing retirement pay.

Under existing law, retirement from the navy with pay requires 20 years' service except in the case of men who enlisted prior to July 1, 1925. The latter group may retire after 16 years.

Walsh's bill would permit retirement after 16 years by those now in the navy and men who enlist within 120 days after enactment of his measure. He said present retirement pay is half the base pay. His bill would make it 2½ per cent of base pay multiplied by the number of years of service.

ARMY ESTIMATE FOR NEXT JULY CUT TO 1,630,000

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27 (AP)—Effective army strength planned for next July took another 320,000 man drop today to 1,630,000.

The 320,000, under the service's program, actually will be still in uniform. But they will be in the discharge pipe line, on the way out.

The information came out at the first news conference held by Robert P. Patterson since he took the oath as secretary of war succeeding Henry L. Stimson.

Must Guard Victory

Patterson, while saying the army must press forward full speed with the job of getting men out of the service, told news men also:

"In this period of transition we must make sure that the victory that has been won—won by the effort of all the people and at the cost of a million casualties—does not slip from our grasp.

"We do not want any risk of World War III. We must not shirk the task of enforcing the surrender of Germany and Japan, including the occupation of the hostile areas allotted to us as our share of the responsibility, for as long a time as may prove to be necessary."

Draft to Continue

He said 3,000,000 men will be discharged by Christmas but added that the return of 7,000,000 to civil life by the end of next June assumes continuation of the flow of replacements thru selective service.

The secretary called continuation of the draft "simple justice," arguing that if it should be abandoned it would mean longer service for men who already have seen hard duty, for the benefit of men who have not served at all.

CAN'T CUT TAXES UNTIL SPENDING EBBS: DOUGHTON

Drastic Reduction Not in Sight, He Warns

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27 (AP)—A caution to the nation expecting "drastic" tax reductions at this time was voiced tonight by Chairman Doughton [D., N. C.] of the house ways and means committee.

The No. 1 congressional tax manager, in a radio address, said he is pleased that congress, for the first time in years, is turning to tax cutting legislation.

But then he cited the huge national debt with the continuing government military expenditures, and declared:

"To ignore this fact in taking into consideration tax reduction and tax relief is to lose sight of our obligation to 85 million bondholders."

Must Cut Expenditures

Before there is a sharp reduction in taxes, he said, there must be a drastic cut in government expenditures. He told his radio audience he could not predict at this time the measure of relief congress will give in the legislation now under consideration.

But he had some ideas how federal tax burdens in the future might be softened, saying:

"State and local governments can assist by undertaking expenditures for state and local purposes, and special groups can help by refraining from urging expenditures of large sums by the government."

House Upsets Plans

An element of confusion entered congressional work on tax cutting today when the house voted tax relief for retired government workers.

However, Doughton told newspaper men he did not believe the dispute over the government worker bill would stand in the way of general tax relief legislation. Rep. Knutson [R., Minn.], minority leader on the ways and means committee, said the committee might want to see how the bill passed today affects revenues before proceeding with general tax revision.

Income Is Exempted

Approved by the house, 189 to 130, and sent to the senate, the bill exempts from federal taxation the first $1,440 received by an ex-government worker receiving civil service annuities.

Knutson said that if the same principle were extended to all persons, affecting their first $1,440 of income, it would reduce federal revenues by 7 billion dollars.

ALDERMEN MOVE TO EASE OPENING OF ORPHANAGES

A subcommittee on orphan homes of the city council committee on building and zoning yesterday voted to recommend that the city code be amended so that no consents from property owners would be necessary before opening orphan homes to house not more than 15 children and five adults.

The subcommittee, headed by Ald. Moss [5th], took the action after hearing Erwin Freund, an official of the Jewish Children's bureau, tell his group's plans for 10 homes of that size thruout the city.

Freund told the subcommittee that orphans need to be a part of the home life of the community in which they live, and that smaller groups in smaller homes would provide a more home-like existence.

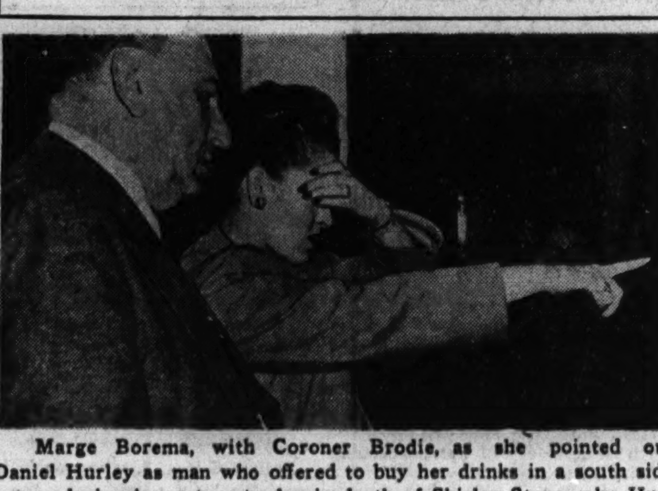
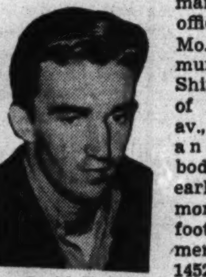
Points Out Accused Mariner



Marge Borema, with Coroner Brodie, as she pointed out Daniel Hurley as man who offered to buy her drinks in a south side tavern during inquest yesterday in death of Shirley Stone, who Hurley is accused of slaying after he left the tavern. [TRIBUNE Photo]

Named by Jury



Daniel Hurley

A coroner's jury yesterday ordered Daniel Hurley, 19, a merchant marine warrant officer of Clayton, Mo., held for the murder of Miss Shirley Stone, 29, of 5200 Harper av., whose nude and battered body was found early Wednesday morning at the foot of a basement stairway at 1452 E. 63d st.

Hurley has confessed he struck Miss Stone with his fists when she refused his advances after he met her on the street. He said he had been drinking. In his confession, the warrant officer admitted he had torn the clothing off the young woman. At the inquest yesterday, he remained silent as his confession was read to the jurors.

Earlier in the day, Chief Justice Harold G. Ward in Criminal court dismissed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus in Hurley's behalf. Alex Napoli, assistant state's attorney, said a murder indictment would be sought against Hurley today. Miss Stone lived with her sister, Mrs. Una Licalci.

PLANE SERVICE AT SKY HARBOR PORT TO BEGIN

Airplane charter service will be inaugurated today from Sky Harbor airport with a fleet of 12 twin-engine four-passenger Cessna planes, altho only two of the ships are ready for immediate operations. The others are still in process of conversion after government use.

The newly organized Central States Aviation, Inc., expects a growing demand for the service from business executives, sportsmen, and for emergency travel. C. A. Helsing, restaurant owner and aviation enthusiast, is president. Associates are Herman Krissman, Harold C. Mattes, and William Turgeon, the latter two being partners in operating Sky Harbor.

General manager for the venture will be John H. Wilson, vice president of the corporation. Until recently he was executive director of the National Aviation Trades association. Prior to the war he was superintendent of the Lewis School of Aeronautics at Lockport. During the war Wilson operated an army glider school in Texas.

State to Assist County in War on Sex Criminals

Harry A. Ash, state superintendent of crime prevention, conferred yesterday with State's Atty. Tuohy on the problem of combating the increase in sex crimes. Ash told Tuohy he wanted to coöperate with the state's attorney's office and would assign one of his men to Tuohy's office.

KEEP U. S. RULE OVER RAILROAD, TRUMAN URGED

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27 (AP)—A union leader said today he has asked President Truman to cancel an order relinquishing government control over the Toledo, Peoria, and Western railroad in order to avoid a strike.

D. B. Robertson, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, said the railroad's 500 union employes have voted to strike Oct. 1 unless the private owners draw up a contract stipulating working conditions.

The Oct. 1 date has been fixed by President Truman as the day the frate line will be turned back to its owners. The railroad was the first private property seized after Pearl Harbor. A strike at that time prompted the seizure.

The line is a connecting link between the Pennsylvania railroad, Santa Fe, Rock Island, and other railroads.

CITY'S SUBURBS WILL KEEP EXTRA DAYLIGHT HOUR

Suburban towns will follow Chicago's lead and continue to enjoy an extra hour of sunlight by remaining on daylight saving time until Oct. 28, it was disclosed yesterday. Railroads will operate their suburban service on sunlight time, altho their thru schedules will be on standard time, starting at 2 a. m. Sunday.

All of the principal communities of the Fox river valley, including Aurora, Elgin, St. Charles, Geneva, and Batavia, have adopted resolutions similar to that of the Chicago council. Most of the nation will turn clocks back one hour Sunday.

The towns of Lake county—Waukegan, Lake Forest, Highland Park, and Highwood, among others—will also follow suit, altho no official action has been taken. City officials said they have always operated on Chicago time and will continue to do so.

Similar intentions were expressed by officials of River Forest, Oak Park, Cicero, Melrose Park, Riverside, and La Grange, and of suburbs in the southern part of Cook county.

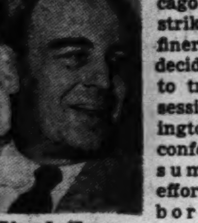
MEET IN CAPITAL TOMORROW TO END OIL STRIKE

Conferees Quit Chicago at Schwellenbach's Call

Oil company officials and leaders of the Oil Workers' International union [CIO] who have been conferring in Chicago to settle a strike of oil refinery workers decided yesterday to transfer their sessions to Washington, D. C. The conferees will resume their efforts in the labor department building in the capital at 10 a. m. tomorrow.



Edgar L. Warren

Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach summoned the conference to Washington because, he said in Washington, "the conferees were not making enough progress in Chicago."

Schwellenbach, who is expected to preside at the Washington sessions, said, "We've got to get this thing settled by the first of next week" because the army and navy have served notice that they "cannot get along beyond next week" unless full oil production is resumed.

No Insistence on Single Pact

The labor secretary said he would give assurance to the industry that it was not his purpose to force an industry-wide agreement on the wage and other issues in dispute.

The Chicago conference, which was started Tuesday, has been deadlocked partly because the industry has stood steadfastly against a general settlement. The principal demand of the union has been a wage increase of 30 per cent [52 hours' pay for 40 hours' work]. No industry representative has indicated a willingness to grant more than 15 per cent.

The decision to move the Chicago conference to Washington came after Edgar L. Warren, new chief of the United States conciliation service, delivered Schwellenbach's request that the meetings be moved to the capital.

All Will Go to Capital

A spokesman for representatives of 10 oil companies at the conference announced that all of them would go to Washington. O. A. Knight, the union president, said he and three aids would confer in Pittsburgh, Pa., with Philip Murray, CIO president, before proceeding to the capital.

So far the strike has involved 35,000 refinery workers in seven states, but the union has "authorized" a strike of the 250,000 workers thruout the country if the conciliation effort fails.

The 12 day old strike was started by what purported to be independent action by various locals. There never has been a national strike vote taken, company representatives said, nor did any of the locals striking wait the 30 day period after taking their vote, as required by the Smith-Connally act. The company officials said that union leaders presented the 30 per cent wage demand and said if it were not granted within eight hours the workers would leave the plants.

20 Day Strike Settled at Paper Company Plant

A 20 day strike of 500 employes of the Wilson Jones company, manufacturers of loose leaf note books at 3300 Franklin blvd. was settled yesterday when spokesmen of the United Paper Workers union local, No. 148 [CIO], reported the company had awarded a five cent an hour wage increase, retroactive to Dec. 3, 1943. Union spokesmen also disclosed that employes of 10 years' service will receive three week paid vacations and all employes will be paid for three holidays a year.

THE QUESTION

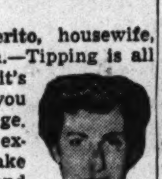
What do you think of the custom of tipping?

WHERE ASKED

Balbo dr. and Michigan av.

THE ANSWERS

Ensign Richardson Thurston, Middletown, Conn.—It seems that tipping is here to stay whether I approve of it or not. The only thing that bothers me about tipping is that I never know how much to tip or whom. It would be a lot easier on people in general if employers paid their own employes rather than depending upon the public.

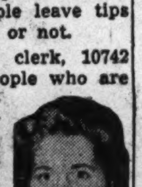


Mrs. Betty Pellerito, housewife, Grand Rapids, Mich.—Tipping is all right at times but it's annoying when you don't have change. Most people who expect tips don't make enough salary and wouldn't be able to live without this extra compensation. However, I think tips should be no more than 10 per cent.

Betty Lambkin, office clerk, 4919 Thomas st.—If I had an occupation where I received tips I'd probably think it's a good idea. But I don't get any tips for the work I do. It's an odd custom that has some deep roots by this time. In some cases tipping is a way of showing appreciation and in that respect I approve of it.

J. J. Vaughn, Boston, Mass.—I believe tipping is a good idea and should be practiced in some instances. I don't believe in tipping where it's a concession such as they have in some night clubs. The size of the tip should be gauged by the type of service rendered and not by percentage.

George Dergentis, designer, Woodside, N. Y.—If salaries could be adjusted so that tipping could be discontinued it would do away with a lot of hard feelings that occur due to lack or size of tip. It's fundamentally a disturbing element both to give a tip and not to give a tip. Most people leave tips whether they want to or not.



Betty Booth, office clerk, 10742 Wabash av.—Some people who are accustomed to receiving tips perform their services better than others. They should receive a tip in accordance with this type of service. Inasmuch as these people do not make a living wage they should have added pay from another source, or a larger salary.

ANTI - REDS WIN IN CHICAGO CIO COUNCIL VOTING

After holding an adjourned session of its annual election meeting, the anti-communist faction of the Chicago Industrial Union council, official central body of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, asserted last night that Michael Mann, secretary and avowed foe of Communists, and 10 other members of the council's 15 man executive board, had defeated a communist indorsed slate of candidates.

The first election meeting was adjourned by Albert Towers, who had been reëlected president without opposition at 1:50 a. m. last Friday. The delegates of the powerful United Steelworkers of America locals and others waiting to vote for anti-communist candidates, demanded an adjournment because they had to get to work by 6 a. m.

Announce Cellini Victory

Louis Torre, vice president, who refused to accept a ruling that the meeting had been adjourned, took the rostrum during the ensuing confusion, continued a roll of delegates who supported a United Automobile Workers-communist coalition. Then Torre and his cohorts counted up the votes and announced they had won by a margin of 73,529.96 cast for Neno Cellini, candidate for secretary, to 40,308.64 for Mann, right wing candidate for secretary.

Delegates who had cast approximately 7,000 votes for the communist supported slate after Towers adjourned the first meeting did not appear to vote last night in the council headquarters, 205 W. Wacker dr.

Win by 28,050 Votes

While this served to trim the left wing margins, the communist supported ticket was snowed under by 28,050 votes cast by the steel workers, textile workers, transport service workers, and other locals supporting Mann. Towers also ruled that a bloc of 8,159 votes cast by local 274 of the United Automobile workers at the Dodge Chicago plant should be counted for the anti-communist slate.

Mann's total was reported as 76,565, as compared to 64,947 for Cellini.

Torre and his slate, after announcing they won the election, proceeded to organize their own board, and took no notice of the adjourned election meeting. One CIO leader said that locals which participate in functions of this board might face expulsion, altho it was admitted by others that the election fight will require intervention of Philip Murray before it is settled.

After the returns were announced, Towers said the newly elected officers and executive board members had "received a mandate to proceed on a working basis with the problems of affiliated local union members."

PEOPLE'S GROUP GIRDS TO FIGHT CIO'S PAC UNIT

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 27 [Special]—The Minnesota People's Political Action committee will meet here tomorrow to perfect its organization to fight the CIO political action committee which worked hard in the 1944 elections. Plans are being made to set up People's PAC's thruout the country.

"Conservative, progressive, and liberal forces of Minnesota have formed a coalition to fight the menace of fascism in all its forms," said A. J. Olson, Renville farmer, chairman of the organizing committee.

Farmers have been almost unanimous in supporting the new group, Olson said. Progressive liberals in labor unions are joining with business and professional men and women to repel "outside influences which would destroy our freedom and lower our standard of living," he asserted.

Elevator Tieup Paralyzes Garment Industry

New York, Sept. 27 [Special]—Creeping paralysis gripped New York's business on this fourth day of a deadlocked elevator strike that threatened not only to become the city's costliest work stoppage but also to imperil its future as the nation's garment center.

While negotiators strove for an early settlement of the service shutdown that has affected 1,600,000 persons and is estimated to be causing a loss of more than 1 million dollars an hour, business withered and in some districts dried up altogether.

Buyers who had flocked to the city to select clothing styles for stores in other cities were reported leaving. Unable to proceed with their work here, they were going to other cities to make purchases.

Bank Business Falls

Banks in the affected areas said their business had droppel sharply. Deposits were off and fewer checks were being issued. The Manufacturers' Trust company branch in the Empire State building reported a 60 per cent slump.

With tomorrow payday for thousands of firms, there was speculation as to what will happen to pay rolls. There were guesses as to whether plants which have been closed all week will pay off, and how they will do it.

A bank executive suggested that many employers whose offices are too high to reach afoot may hold sidewalk pay-offs for the workers who appear.

Rumors that numerous employers might decide not to pay their salaried help for a week seemingly were refuted by armored car companies. These said few requests had been received to hold back pay roll deliveries.

Garment Business Periled

Concern over the future of New York as the garment capital of the country was expressed by business and labor leaders. They based their view for the industry—the city's largest and nation's fourth largest—on the fact that production of winter and spring garments virtually has stopped.

Julius Hockman, vice president of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union and general manager of its dressmakers' joint board, estimated the loss to the billion dollar a year garment industry at 15 million dollars in the first three days of the strike, and an additional loss of 3½ million dollars in wages to needle workers.

Business and labor leaders estimated the strike is costing 25 million dollars a day to industry, government, and workers. They said the government is losing some 8 million, the garment industry 5 million, and workers more than 1 million. The loss to fur workers and allied industries was placed at several million and the remainder was spread among other groups that included restaurants and transportation companies.

Meantime, efforts were being made in several quarters to settle the strike, which was called by locals 32-B and 164 of the AFL Building Service Employes' International union in protest against a war labor board directive that increased hourly wage rates but reduced hours in their work week.

The two owner groups involved are the Midtown Realty Owners' Association, Inc., and the Realty Advisory Board on Labor Relations, Inc.

Meet with RWLB

Both union and employer groups met late today with Walter Gellhorn, chairman of the regional war labor board, who had ordered them to show cause why the strike should not end immediately.

When the conferees prepared to leave WLB headquarters for private sessions, their departure was held up for several minutes while an elderly and indignant business man demanded that he be heard as a citizen.

"I've been in business for 40 years and since Monday I have been unable to get to my office on the 17th floor of the Woolworth building," said the wrathful man, J. Newcombe Blackman, 64, of South Orange, N. J. "Furthermore, my mail delivery is being interfered with.

"I demand that the government do something about this criminal failure to deliver the mail. Why doesn't the government take over these buildings and deliver the mail, just as they've taken over businesses when labor was at fault?"

Report Separate Contracts

After the union and employer groups had met with the WLB chairman, they were invited by Arthur S. Meyer, chairman of the New York state mediation board, to confer with him tomorrow.

Strike leaders reported during the day that 650 of the more than 2,000 office and loft buildings that had been tied up by the union have signed separate contracts on union terms.

BARE HORWITZ' PART IN EXPOSE OF BRIBE CASE

Suit Paved Way for Conviction of Five

the $8,300,000 Herman Gardens federal housing project in Detroit. Horwitz was not involved in the alleged bribery.

Six Are Indicted

Following his testimony in a civil suit, indictments charging conspiracy to bribe were returned against Abe Smith, president of A. Smith & Co., Chicago; his son, Seymour S. Smith, vice president of the firm; William S. Lipman, vice president and general manager of the Lipman Construction company; their companies, and the three Detroit councilmen.

Abe Smith leaped or fell to his death May 20, 1941, from an upper floor of the Metropolitan building, 134 N. La Salle st. Seymour Smith and Lipman pleaded guilty at Detroit on Oct. 29, 1941, and were sentenced May 26, 1943, to serve from two to five years in prison.

Lipman and Smith were paroled Nov. 25, 1944, from the state penitentiary at Jackson, Mich. According to statements made by penitentiary officials at that time, they were met at the gates by relatives who brought them back to Chicago.

Three Councilmen Sentenced

John Hamilton, Harry I. Dingeman, and Robert G. Ewald, the councilmen accused of accepting the bribes, were sentenced to serve from three to 10 years.

Horwitz's civil suit which led to the criminal action charged that the Smith company orally had promised the Belsan company the plastering contract on the Detroit housing project for $815,000. Later the Smith company tried to scale this down because "it had cost so much money to pull strings and pay off various politicians in Detroit to get the contract," Horwitz charged. The contract later was given to a Detroit contractor.

In another civil suit by a contractor in Detroit, Horwitz testified that Abe Smith had told him in negotiations of a contract that "four councilmen are on our side and one is on the fence and he is asking $25,000 for his vote."

Refused to Bid, He Says

Asked concerning his relationship with the case, Horwitz said: "Abe Smith and William Lipman told me if I gave them the lowest bid and did not give it to any other contractor, I would get the plastering contract if Smith-Lipman got the general bid. Three other contractors asked me to bid and I refused."

French Trawlers Arrested by British for Poaching

RYE, Sussex, England, Sept. 27 [Reuters]—British gunboats today arrested two French trawlers alleged to have been poaching within British territorial waters off Rye. The trawlers were taken to their home port of Boulogne.

STRIKING WHEEL WORKERS ASKED TO RESUME JOBS

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 27 (AP)—Efforts of international officers of the CIO United Automobile Workers to end a 36 day strike of 3,500 employes of the Kelsey-Hayes Wheel company provided the highlight in Detroit's industrial picture today.

Michigan officials, headed by Gov. Kelly, kept a close watch as the Kelsey workers were summoned to a mass meeting tomorrow night at which R. J. Thomas, UAW president, is due to support the back-to-work movement.

The work stoppage, which began after company refusal to reinstate three workers accused of ejecting a foreman from the plant, is one of the most serious in the Detroit area, as it has cut off supplies of brake and wheel parts to several auto manufacturing plants.

Await Strike Votes

Elsewhere in the auto industry, both management and workers marked time awaiting national labor relations board strike votes for 325,000 General Motors workers and 80,000 at Chrysler corporation.

Unofficial reports indicated the G. M. vote would be taken Oct. 24 and the Chrysler vote the following day. Union representatives of the 109,000 employes of the Ford Motor company are expected to submit a request for a strike vote in early October.

The UAW's action against the "big three" followed the union's recent demand for a 30 per cent wage increase for the industry.

Chrysler and UAW Meet

Chrysler corporation officials and UAW officers conferred again yesterday in an effort to settle the wage question, but adjourned until Oct. 4 without disclosing how the conference was proceeding.

The 3,100 employes of the Murray Corporation of America returned to work yesterday, ending a walkout that began Sept. 10 in protest against reorganization of certain plant departments.

More than 80,000 workers still were idle in the Detroit area. Federal and state labor conciliators sought solutions to several of the disputes.

STRIKING STOVE UNION TO VOTE ON JOINING CIO

A consent election will be held among employes of Cribben & Sexton company, 700 N. Sacramento blvd., gas appliance manufacturers, next Tuesday by the national labor relations board to determine whether the employes want to be affiliated with local 1114, the United Electrical, Radio, and Machine Workers' union [CIO], Sam Kushner, field representative of the CIO union, said yesterday.

Nearly 500 of the company's employes have been on strike since Aug. 27. They belonged to the independent United Stove Workers' union, but Monday 350 strikers voted to join the CIO union to obtain national backing for the strike, a union official said. The company refused to recognize the CIO union until an election had been held.

The vote will be taken at 2457 Chicago av. from 8 a. m. until noon, Kushner said.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

Sept. 28—Yorktown Siege Begins

ON Sept. 28, 1781, Gen. Washington moved his American and French armies from Williamsburg, Va., to the vicinity of Yorktown and bottled up Gen. Cornwallis' British troops there. This marked the completion of one of the most brilliant maneuvers in the history of warfare and served as prelude to the concluding operation of the Revolutionary war.

Thirty-eight days earlier, Washington had left his camp site near King's Ferry, N. Y., and, after deceiving the British into thinking he was about to assault their stronghold at New York, had marched his armies rapidly southward thru Newark, Trenton, and Philadelphia to the head of Chesapeake bay.

Washington had been informed that a French fleet was coming to the Chesapeake, and he knew that Cornwallis had been maneuvered into a spot where a squeeze play by land and water might give American and French arms a brilliant victory.

The plan worked magnificently. The French fleet was in full command of the Chesapeake and helped Washington move his troops from the head of the bay to the vicinity of Williamsburg. There he made contact with the American forces in Virginia and with the French troops which the fleet already had landed.

These, with the American and French armies he had brought from the north, totaled about 16,600. Cornwallis had fewer than 6,000 effectives and he was trapped against the York river.

The subsequent siege of Yorktown ended Oct. 19 with Cornwallis' surrender. This sickening blow to British hopes virtually ended the war, altho the treaty of peace was not signed until nearly two years later.

TRUMAN'S VIEW ON WATERWAY PLEASES DEWEY

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 27 (AP)—Gov. Dewey today wired President Truman that he was gratified by the President's "reassurance concerning the rights" of New York in a proposed St. Lawrence power development, and expressed "earnest hope the "point of view on which we are happily agreed will be reflected in legislation proposed to the congress."

The message was in response to a telegram from the President in which Mr. Truman expressed himself "enthusiastically in favor" of the St. Lawrence seaway and power development, with power rights of the state preserved.

To Waldorf-Astoria Patrons:

NEW YORK IS CONGESTED

New York hotels have never been more crowded. To our great regret, Waldorf patrons of years' standing have been disappointed because of our inability to meet their requirements. The most vivid indication of the extraordinary condition now existing is that we are forced to send regrets to approximately nine out of ten requests for reservations.

We advise postponing New York visits that include The Waldorf-Astoria unless they are imperatively necessary.

The reason for this advertisement is that we feel it our duty to warn patrons about the existing situation, which, in our opinion, cannot be measurably relieved for some time. At present, the trend is in the direction of greater demand.

TRUMAN PLEAS ON JOBLESS BILL HIT STONE WALL

Senators Let Him Down, He Tells Congressmen

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27 (AP)—President Truman resorted today to the old Rooseveltian tactic of "vigorous" personal persuasion, but apparently failed to resurrect in congress his plan for jobless pay ranging up to $25 a week for 26 weeks.

Calling the Democrats of the house ways and means committee to his office, the President told them the senate had let him down, but he does not expect such treatment from the house.

When the Democrats returned to capitol hill newspapermen could find no sign he had changed any votes.

Four Democrats—Mills of Arkansas, Camp of Georgia, Gregory of Kentucky, and West of Texas—joined the 10 committee Republicans Tuesday in a coalition, 14 to 10 vote by which the committee cast aside all legislation proposing liberalization of jobless benefits.

Spoke Vigorously

Previously the senate had refused to raise unemployment compensation up to the $25 maximum requested by the President, but did vote to extend the duration of payments to a maximum of 26 weeks.

Charles G. Ross, the President's press secretary, described what took place in the executive offices this morning, with these words:

"The President spoke vigorously. He stood pat on 26 weeks and $25 for unemployment compensation. He said the senate let him down and he expected the house not to do so. He said his views were fully outlined in his message to congress and he stood by them."

"In Trouble" on Problem

One Democrat said Mr. Truman told them in effect that he is in trouble on the jobless aid issue, and he needs help from the house. Moreover, it was disclosed the President recalled that the late President Roosevelt usually relied on the house to get him out of such troublesome situations.

Rep. Knutson of Minnesota, senior Republican ways and means member, attributed the committee shelving of the jobless aid bills to what he termed confusion of the unemployment problem due to widespread idleness caused by strikes.

The President was understood to have told the Democrats he believes the strike problem soon will be solved.

It was reported the Democrats also raised before the President the issue of states' rights.

Day by Day on the Farm

By GAIL COMPTON

Sept. 27, 1945.

ABOUT the only benefit farmers can derive from the heavy fall rains this week is their softening effect on ground that must be plowed soon. The rain set the corn and soybeans back and also halted silo filling, but it did help to moisten ground that had been caked by earlier dryness.

Fall plowing always has been a difficult task to decide upon. Many farmers assert that fall plowing causes a heavy loss of soil fertility thru erosion. Farmers holding to this tenet usually make a practice of covering the ground with a crop such as rye or wheat.

Deep Plowing Buries Insects

Altho fall plowing offers an erosion danger, it nevertheless aids in combating insects. It helps control grasshoppers, southern corn rootworm, root aphids, grape colaspis, webworms, cutworms, and corn borers. To be effective, the plowing must be deep enough to turn under surface material at least 3 inches. In this manner, wintering insects are destroyed. Otherwise, their increase would harm next season's crops.

Fall plowing on rolling land should always be done on the contour to check erosion. Plowing up and down the hill does little but harm the soil. If manure is spread on land to be plowed, it should be applied heavily on hilltops to permit washing to carry the fertilizer to the lower slopes. Manure should be plowed under thoroly to kill insects, weeds, and to give the maximum benefit.

Beware of Corn Borers!

If stalk land or straw is to be plowed down, it must be cultivated completely. A few stalks of corn or wisps of straw protruding from a plowed field are ideal havens for corn borers.

The grasshoppers at the farm have other dangers to face aside from fall plowing. The crows are feasting on all the hoppers they can find, varying their diet by eating corn. Rows of corn near the woods show signs of depredations by crows, as well as by squirrels that venture from the trees for a feast.

This is an annual loss on almost all midwest farms—one that is difficult to combat. Scarecrows are ineffective and impractical for large acreages of field corn; as yet, the men at the farm haven't found an effective method for trapping squirrels. That the crows make away with a considerable quality of corn is proved by the fact nearly 72 per cent of their diet is made up of vegetable matter, of which more than half is corn.

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

[This is the second of a series of articles on composting.]

AUTUMN is the ideal time to start a compost pile because of the great amount of leaves, grass clippings, and vegetable refuse that then can be gathered for decomposition. This material will decay in 12 months for application on the vegetable plot, flower gardens, and in shrubbery beds next fall.

A bottomless wood frame is an ideal container for compost. Any sturdy scrap lumber may be used for the sides. A frame 18 inches tall, 4 feet wide, and 4 to 5 feet long is recommended. Place it on the ground at one side of the garden or in any other inconspicuous place. Put in it grass clippings, fallen leaves, and vegetable tops. When the frame is full, bricks may be placed under the frame's corners, leaving the compost on the ground. When this size frame has been filled, the material first gathered will be rotted and packed tight enough to stand without support.

TROOP SLEEPER CHRISTENED BY MOTHER OF FIVE

Mrs. Louis Wolf, Hammond, Ind., whose five sons are in service overseas, yesterday christened the first three-tier troop sleeper of 1,200 being manufactured in the Hammond plant of the Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company. Mrs. Wolf broke the traditional bottle of champagne and said: "I speed you on your way to facilitate the return not only of my five sons but the thousands of others who are anxious to get home." B. J. Trautman, works manager, said workers had broken production records in producing the first of the new sleepers.

BRITAIN MAY GET 5 BILLION UNDER NEW U. S. POLICY

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27 (AP)—The United States probably will propose to make substantial concessions in its basic foreign loan policy in order to meet British requests for financial aid on a grand scale.

This was strongly indicated today by officials familiar with Anglo-American economic negotiations. They view the loan problem as the heart of future trade relations between the world's two greatest commercial powers.

At the moment, official opinion favors recommending to congress a 5 billion dollar loan with a very low rate of interest and no restrictions on where the money could be spent.

More Than Discussed

This is about 2 billions more than the minimum which the British have discussed. [Their maximum figure has been about 6 billions.] It also is some 2 billions more than American negotiators had in mind a few weeks ago. The purpose in raising the estimate, which is still tentative, is to try to place the British in a financial position so sound that their credit with other nations will be strengthened.

The theory is that with more American credit they may actually have to use less of the American money than might be necessary if they got a sum that offered no margin over their bare necessities.

The concessions in the loan policy may result in sharp distinctions between what the British get and what the French and Russians, for example, get from the United States.

Reds, French Want Some

The French want at least 2 billion dollars over the next three years or so and the Russians over their period of reconstruction would like to obtain 6 billions from this country. Present official thought runs to the idea of charging the French and Russians "reasonable" interest on the money they obtain here and restricting the funds to expenditure in this country.

The reasons are, first, that both Russia and France have considerable resources with which to make repayment over the 30 or 40 year period and, second, they need the money for capital goods purposes for reconstruction.

A study of the information presented by the British here in almost three weeks of negotiations evidently has convinced United States officials that the British have very inadequate payment resources.

REPORT AGREEMENT NEAR ON FINANCING SOVIET LEND-LEASE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27 [Special]—Government officials were reliably reported today to be in the final stages of agreement with representatives of Russia on restoration and financing of $400,000,000 of "pipeline" lend-lease goods which were in transit or under contract for manufacture when lend-lease to Russia, other than that to Siberia, was cut off after V-E day.

The Russians were said to have "screamed" when this was cut off because they had no purchase-finance arrangements for continued supply such as France and some other lend-lease recipients had obtained.

It is understood that the interest rate on the long term credit involved would be 2⅜ per cent, as in other lend-lease purchase contracts, plus a service and transport charge of about 25 per cent.

ATOMIC ENERGY CONTROL BOARD VOTED IN SENATE

Plan for Legislative Unit Approved

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27 (AP)—The senate today unanimously approved and sent to the house a resolution to set up a joint committee to study the development, control, and use of atomic energy.

Without debate, senators adopted a resolution by Sen. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] establishing a 12 member committee to which all legislation dealing with nuclear energy or the atomic bomb would be presented.

Six members of the senate and six representatives would be appointed by Sen. McKellar [D., Tenn.], the senate's presiding officer, and by Speaker Rayburn [D., Tex.].

Nazi Progress Told

Earlier the war department made public a report by Maj. Alexander de Seversky saying that allied strategic bombing of Germany may have prevented the Nazis from being the first to use atomic bombs.

De Seversky, aircraft designer and aviation writer, returned recently from Europe, where he had gone as a special consultant to the secretary of war to appraise the use of air power.

His report said the Germans were far advanced in the aerodynamics of high speed flying, jet propulsion, the study of ballistics, rocket projectiles, and synthetic fuels. He added that the German jet design was more efficient than ours.

Critizes Equipment

De Seversky criticized some of the equipment used by the American air forces in the European war. He said that the United States fought the war "largely with a bomber more than 10 years old in basic design."

Discussing bombsights, Seversky asserted "there has been some gross exaggeration about the allegedly miraculous powers of our sighting devices."

Laborer Gets Year in Cell for an Attempted Rape

William Baumgarner, 35, a laborer, was sentenced to the Bridewell for a year yesterday by Judge Jay A. Schiller in State Street court on a charge of assault and attempted rape. He was seized by a passer-by Aug. 8 after he assaulted a woman physician at 50th st., and Woodlawn av. He was found armed with a toy gun.

DR. OGBURN HAS PLAN TO COMBAT A-BOMB: PUT U. S. INTO CAVES

Decentralization of America's largest cities into hundreds of small towns and villages as a protective measure to escape destruction by atomic bombs in World War III. was advocated yesterday by Dr. William Fielding Ogburn, chairman of the department of sociology at the University of Chicago. He addressed the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations in the Congress hotel.

Dr. Ogburn suggested it might prove desirable to break Chicago up into 100 smaller communities of 40,000 population each. The cost of separating and moving the populatioins of the 200 largest American cities into scattered rural areas, he estimated, would approximate 150 to 200 billion dollars exclusive of land values.

The most obvious kind of protection, Dr. Ogburn said, would be underground housing with humans of the future reverting to a cave existence.

ACQUIT WOMAN OF TAKING BABY FROM HOSPITAL

Marion, O., Sept. 27 (AP)—A common pleas court jury today found Mrs. Phyllis Ann Webster, 30, not guilty by reason of insanity of stealing baby Jean Eileen Creviston from a hospital crib last July 8.

Mrs. Webster burst into tears and dropped her head on the counsel table when Clerk Elmer Smith read the verdict. Then after embracing her husband, Sgt. Ernest Webster, she was led back to the jail.

Prosecuting Atty. James E. Reed said he would ask the court to have Mrs. Webster committed to the state hospital for the criminally insane at Lima within a day or two. Mrs. Webster's attorney, Paul Michael, said he then would file a writ of habeas corpus after Lima officials examined her again.

The defense asserted that Mrs. Webster's desire for children was excessive and that she had been "thoroly crushed" when she had two miscarriages before her husband entered the army.

BODY TAKEN FROM HARBOR

The body of Edward Fort, 51, of 1907 S. 51st av., Cicero, a boat repairman at Belmont Harbor who disappeared last Friday, was recovered from the harbor yesterday by the coast guard. Lincoln park police said they believed Fort fell into the water while working.

ELLIOTT VALUES RADIO STOCK AT 1½ TO 2 MILLION

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 27 (AP)—Elliott Roosevelt is quoted in a copyrighted article in Variety as declaring that the stock of the Texas radio network, which he organized in 1938, is conservatively valued at between 1½ and 2 million dollars.

It was on his 55 per cent of this stock, the son of the late President told the house ways and means committee, that he borrowed $600,000, of which $200,000 was from John Hartford, president of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company, which the committee learned was settled on his behalf by Jesse Jones for $4,000.

"All the money I promoted was put into the corporation and not one cent diverted to my personal use," Elliott is quoted as saying in the Variety interview. "Whether it came from A. & P.'s Hartford or Texas oil men, it was all corporation money and treated as such."

After he entered the army in 1940, Elliott said, he started getting his affairs in order and the creditors of his 55 per cent of the stock "took the whole matter as a tax loss and returned the stock at two cents on the dollar." The corporation, which had been in the red, began to show a profit in 1942, he said.

167 RATIONING BOARDS TO FADE INTO ONLY 16

The 167 local ration boards in the Chicago metropolitan area will be consolidated into 16 boards by Jan. 1, James F. Riley, area director of the office of price administration, said yesterday.

Seven of the boards will be in Chicago. Others will be in Geneva, Wheaton, Woodstock, Harvey, Berwyn, Evanston, Waukegan, and Gary and Hammond, in Lake county, Ind. Next month the OPA will eliminate 76 boards thru consolidations.

Riley said that "much of a citizen's business with his local board can be handled by mail," and the smaller number of boards would not mean any inconvenience because rationing is being reduced.

5 New Infantile Paralysis Cases Reported in Chicago

Five new cases of infantile paralysis were reported yesterday to the Chicago board of health. The year's total of cases was raised to 169, of which 13 have resulted in death. In the same period last year 121 cases and six deaths were reported.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27 (AP)—The return of men previously listed as missing today reduced the nation's war casualty toll by 594.

The combined total for the fighting forces stands at 1,070,672, including 922,339 for the army and 148,333 for the navy.

The army figures for this week and for last week follow: Killed, 205,918 and 205,569; wounded, 571,720 and 571,698; missing, 23,271 and 24,131; prisoners, 121,430 and 120,988.

BUDD PREPARES BIG OUTPUT OF LUXURY TRAINS

Competing with Pullman in Sleeper Field

BY CHARLES GOTTHART
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 27—The Edward G. Budd Manufacturing company announced today that newly designed railway sleeping cars and improved luxury coaches that popularized long distance, reserved seat coach travel, will go into volume production soon at a 16 million dollar plant here.

A pre-view of the designs disclosed improvements in car arrangements extending the advances incorporated in streamlined trains built before the war.

Company officials said passengers of the future would be offered accommodations superior to corresponding pre-war sleeper space, and predicted railroads would lower rates because their ability to carry more passengers per car would increase their revenues.

Competes with Pullman

For the first time, the company is competing directly with Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company of Chicago in the sleeper field, and the industry expects a spirited contest for leadership. The field was opened to Budd and other manufacturers when the United States Supreme court decided that Pullman, Inc., was a monopoly, and Pullman agreed to retain the car manufacturing subsidiary and dispose of the sleeping car operating company.

In a war built plant leased from the government, Budd is finishing the construction of 27 coaches ordered by the Santa Fe railway before the war, and is preparing for volume production of the new equipment. Subassembly work is under way on three distinct types of sleepers.

Designed to appeal to the largest number of passengers is the "budgette," providing private, single occupancy, day and night accommodations for 32 travelers. This car is expected to compete for patronage with the standard, 12 section Pullman sleeper, which, with its drawing room, accommodates a maximum of 27 passengers. Budd officials said a private room may sell for less than the conventional upper berth.

The "Cabin Car"

More commodious space is offered in Budd's "cabin car," with private rooms for 22 single occupants. Its Pullman parallel is the roomette, with accommodations for 18 in the same standard length car of 85 feet. Full length beds are lowered into place by the turn of an electric switch.

The third Budd type is a double bedroom car and the most luxurious of the group, containing fully enclosed toilet facilities, shower, upper and lower berth, and other appointments.

Space in the three types is arranged in pairs so that double rooms may be created by removing partitions. In the double bedroom, opening of the partition creates the equivalent of a drawing room, but four passengers are accommodated instead of the usual three.

The ultimate in coach comfort is achieved in the new luxury coach. Foot rests that operate in the manner of a barber chair may be raised as the chair back is lowered, creating Budd's version of the chaise lounge. A new center support agreement of attaching seats to the car floor clears away the underseat mechanism and provides ample leg room even for six footers.

An unseen radio installed in the chair back upholstery at ear height gives the passenger the privacy of old time receiver set reception, and the sound is subdued so that fellow passengers are not disturbed.

FCC TO ABOLISH FOREIGN RADIO MONITOR UNIT

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27 (AP)—The foreign broadcast intelligence service—the monitoring arm of the federal communications commission—will be abolished within 30 days.

Announcing this today, FCC said 30 day furlough notices have been issued to more than 350 employes of the bureau.

The announcement said this action resulted from the house appropriation committee's recommendation to slash $930,000 from the commission's fund for the current fiscal year. FBIS had an annual budget of $1,500,000. It has field listening posts at Iwo, Guam, Kauai, Portland, Me., Silver Hill, Md., London, and Cairo.

RUMBOLDS TELL OF 2 MILLION VAULT LOOTING

Edward H. Rumbold, 80, owner of the E. H. Rumbold real estate company, and his brother, Robert C., 74, watchman for the office, were the state's first witnesses yesterday in the robbery trial of Patrick Flaherty before a jury of 10 women and two men in the Criminal court of Judge William J. Lindsay.

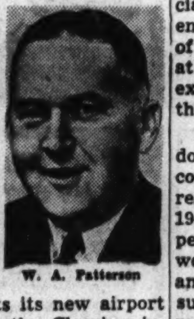
Patrick Flaherty

Flaherty is on trial under an habitual criminal count in connection with the 2 million dollar looting of the safety deposit vaults of the company, 624 W. 119th st., last Jan. 19. He and Willie Niemoth were acquitted two months ago on charges of burglary in connection with the looting.

Robert Rumbold retold how the vaults were looted by four men who bound him and then fled. His brother testified to being called to the looted vaults after the robbers left.

DELAY 2 MILLION AIR LINE JOB FOR PORT DECISION

W. A. Patterson, president of United Air Lines, said yesterday proposed permanent improvements in United's facilities at Chicago airport will not be made until his company learns whether this airport will be abandoned.



W. A. Patterson

The 15 million dollar airport at 63rd st. and Cicero av. will be too hazardous for use if the city puts its new airport one mile south in the Clearing industrial area, he said. Mayor Kelly's airport selection committee is comparing the merits of a site at Clearing and of Douglas field, northwest of Chicago.

Civil aeronautics commission experts have ruled that major airports must be at least 14 miles apart for safety.

Temporary Program Likely

"We will have to find out quickly what's going to be done," Patterson said. "We're bulging at the doors out here. Additions to our plant costing a couple of millions were planned, but we're not going ahead with them now.

"Because of the change in the location of Chicago's main airport we'll have to waste some money in any case, but the question is: How much? Probably we'll make additions to present buildings and provide for temporary facilities."

However, Patterson said that the reweighing of the merits of the Clearing location against those of Douglas, which was recommended by the air lines, is a "good, healthy course." The air lines didn't recommend Clearing because it was assumed that the present airport was to be saved, he said.

Poll on Abandonment Question

E. P. Lott, United engineer, is now getting the consensus of other air lines engineers to answer the new question: If Chicago airport is abandoned, will the air lines still prefer Douglas field over Clearing, and why?

The Douglas site has railroad tracks which must be moved if the field is to be expanded eventually to exceed 3,000 acres and to be of suitable shape.

L. L. White, vice president in charge of operations for the Chicago and North Western railroad, was asked the attitude toward moving tracks of their line, which carry 60 to 70 trains a day.

"We coöperate in everything," White said, "but beyond our offhand estimate of $2,700,000 for the cost of moving our tracks, I can say only that we would suffer permanent damage that should be compensated."

TWO BILLION A YEAR ROAD WORK FORESEEN FOR NATION BY 1949

Road building in the United States will leap forward on an expanded scale in 1946, and by 1949 will be rolling along at a two billion dollar a year clip, members of the American Road Builders association were told yesterday by their engineer-director, Charles M. Upham of Washington, D. C. Upham spoke at a luncheon of the organization's executive board and committees in the Edgewater Beach hotel.

He estimated that only 325 million dollars was spent in 1945 on road construction, but that plans were ready for the use of 616 million in 1946. He said that when the 1949 peak is reached, a million workers would be employed on road work and another 1,125,000 would be busy supplying them and transporting materials for them.

Costs of the huge program are to be paid by federal, state, and local bodies. The government is expected to furnish a half billion a year for three years, this to be matched by state contributions.

Two Fined $1,000 Each for Gas Coupon Theft

Gus Vanos, 18, of 3807 N. Ashland av., and Carl Hovagimian, 19, of 3718 N. Ashland av., were fined $1,000 each yesterday by Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe on a charge of taking 15,000 C and T gasoline ration coupons from a railway express shipment.

CHIEF U. S. REDS HAIL RUSSIA AS FREEDOM SHRINE

Scorn U. S. Claims Before House Committee

BY WILLARD EDWARDS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27—The house committee on un-American activities today heard soviet Russia hailed by three leading American Communists as the greatest champion of freedom in the world.

The trio who scorned the claims of the United States and other nations in this connection were Earl Browder, former president of the Communist party in the United States; Benjamin C. Davis, party vice president and New York City councilman, and John Stachel, member of the editorial staff of the New York Daily Worker, official Communist daily.

Browder and Stachel both said they agreed with the following statement, issued in a pamphlet by Davis, who is engaged in a reëlection campaign as councilman from New York's Harlem:

"The greatest, most powerful, and most dependable champion of freedom and equality for all peoples in the coalition known as the united nations is the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics."

Study Objectives

The committee is seeking to determine the objectives of the newly reconstituted Communist party which threw out Browder as its leader last July and substituted William Z. Foster, fiery agitator, who is a forthright exponent of class warfare and revolution.

Committee members, by questioning Browder, sought to learn if the present wave of strikes sweeping the nation is a part of the new Communist program. After a number of evasive answers, he said that "to the best of my knowledge and belief, it is not."

"Does not the Communist party attempt to infiltrate labor unions?" Browder was asked.

"Infiltrate is a military term, meaning to penetrate for the purpose of harming the enemy," replied Browder. "Communists do not infiltrate in this sense. Of course, the Communist party encourages members to join unions and union men to join the party."

Strike Not Main Weapon

"In this connection, is not the present wave of strikes a result of such penetration?"

"Asked in such a general form, I'd have to say no."

"Haven't you publicly stated that the general strike is the main weapon of the Communist party?"

"I have not."

Browder refused to discuss the party's action in ousting him from leadership.

But the deposed leader, labeled "the American Trotsky" by Rep. Thomas [R., N. J.] enthused over the vast improvements in life, education, economy, and culture in Russia under communism and said that "collective ownership was incomparably the most efficient system for improving the United States."

PUPILS' STRIKE IN ENGLEWOOD UP TO PARENTS

Official Tells Leaders to See Aldermen

George Cassell, assistant superintendent of schools in charge of high schools, yesterday advised striking Englewood High school students to discuss their problems with their parents and their aldermen. Cassell's advice was given to leaders of a group who visited his office at 228 N. La Salle st. while 200 stayed away from classes in protest against the school's large Negro enrollment.

More than 500 pupils of Morgan Park High school met last night in a field at 97th and Leavitt sts. and voted to continue to go to classes, but to prepare petitions to the school board asking that separate buildings be provided for Negro and white pupils.

School authorities and police said the actions were a reflection of a strike of 500 pupils of Froebel High school in Gary, and that they did not consider the controversies serious. About 65 per cent of the Englewood High school's 2,800 pupils and about 21 per cent of Morgan Park High school's 1,810 pupils are Negroes.

"I'm rushing to buy a new GAS Range!"

98% of Chicago's homemakers using modern equipment cook with a GAS Flame . . . hundreds of them are rushing to buy the New GAS Ranges as quickly as available

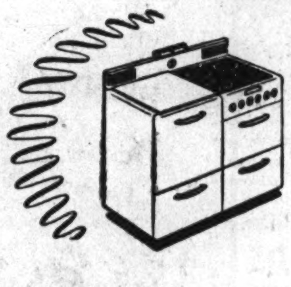
This modern homemaker won't be caught napping. She'll be Jenny-on-the-spot when her dealer displays another shipment of shiny, modern GAS Ranges. Supplies are not plentiful yet, but dealers who have received ranges have been flooded with orders.

Like 98 out of 100 Chicago homemakers using modern equipment, this lady cooks with a GAS Flame. That's because she prefers speed—flexibility—cleanliness—and economy. She's learned that a clean, blue GAS Flame gives the most flavorful results in oven roasting and baking, in broiling, and in cooking on the top burners. The GAS Flame gives instant heat—starts cooking immediately, saves precious time. And when you turn it off, cooking stops. No "hold-over heat" lingers to *over*cook your food.

Simmer and giant burners on the new, modern GAS ranges give you slow or fast heat instantly . . . smokeless speed broilers sizzle raw meat into delicious chops in minutes . . . ventilated ovens circulate hot, flavor-sealing fresh air freely and evenly around your roasts, casseroles and pastry tins.

Be sure to see these fine ranges as soon as they are at your dealer's.

New Gas Ranges are now available



The supply is not plentiful yet—but faster and faster these sleek new Gas ranges are coming off production lines. They're new. They're modern. They're streamlined. They embody more work-and-time-saving features than you've thought possible.

Tin Cans are Still needed

Watch your STEP. Though the War is over, a shortage of tin makes the need for tin cans as great as ever. So step on 'em ;;. flatten 'em out ;;; and save those tin cans for the next collection. Chicago has been falling behind in tin can collection. So let's "step on it" and make up for lost time.

WOMEN DEMAND PROMPT INQUIRY ON SANITARIUM

Enlist Aid of Physicians for Investigation

BY ORVILLE DWYER

Women's clubs and other civic organizations representing half a million or more Chicagoans will be asked by the Woman's City club to join in an inquiry into the conduct of the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium, operated at a cost of $3,000,000 a year to the taxpayers and allegedly grossly mismanaged.

This was decided yesterday at a meeting of the public health committee of the club at 410 S. Michigan av., and a group of physicians, most of them pulmonary specialists. The hope is, they said, that all women's clubs, business and professional organizations will join them in widening the scope of the investigation.

The women and physicians acted as a result of exposures in THE TRIBUNE tending to show that relatives and friends of M. T. S. patients for months had been supplying much of their food because patients could not eat food served by the institution. Petty graft on the part of employes also was charged by patients, nurses, guards, and ex-staff physicians.

Criticize Mayor's Action

At yesterday's meeting it was charged that Mayor Kelly's appointment of a committee of restaurant men, headed by Marion W. Isbell, the mayor's former appointee as Chicago area OPA administrator, to investigate diets and food at the sanitarium was "juvenile" and "preposterous."

Mrs. T. H. Ludlow, chairman of the club's public health committee, said: "We wonder if the fact that the chairman of the mayor's committee was his one time head of the OPA here, does not indicate that that inquiry is one of those 'round and 'round affairs."

"The appointment of the restaurant men's committee is a futile gesture," said former Judge Edgar A. Jonas, who was president of the tuberculosis sanitarium board under Democratic and Republican city administrations.

Physicians Pledge Help

Mrs. Ludlow and her vice chairman of the health committee, Mrs. Cyrus R. Shipman, were chosen to enlist other civic bodies in the investigation.

The physicians present promised to attend a general meeting to further the investigation. They included Dr. Fred H. Muller, president of the Chicago Medical society; Dr. Robert G. Bloch, professor of medicine at the University of Chicago; Dr. George E. Wakerlin, professor and head of the department of physiology at the University of Illinois and chairman public health committee of the [men's] City Club of Chicago; Dr. Edwin Levin, medical director of Winfield sanitarium; Dr. Arthur J. Webb, secretary Illinois chapter of the American College of Chest Physicians, and Dr. J. J. Mendelsohn, 25 E. Washington st.

"The sanitarium problem is not new," said Dr. Wakerlin at the meeting. "A committee of the City Club of Chicago surveyed the institution five years ago. We found conditions described as at present and can believe the charges of patients, nurses, and doctors. Our recommendations for improvement got us nowhere."

Proposes Public Hearings

"The sanitarium board is guilty of neglect," Jonas asserted. Once the charges were made, it should immediately have called public hearings and questioned everybody connected with the institution from the general superintendent down under oath. The machinery for such procedure is provided by law.

"Public opinion ought to be strong enough to compel the board to hold its own hearing. If not, then there is always a resort to a grand jury."

FEDERAL COURT ENJOINS OPA TO PROTECT DEALER

Federal Judge Elwyn R. Shaw yesterday enjoined the office of price administration from enforcing a suspension order on the Clark St. Food mart, 720 N. Clark st. Ben and Al Taubin, owners of the mart, were accused by the OPA of dealing in counterfeit meat ration stamps.

Attorneys Ralph Gutgsell and Arthur Abraham told the court that the OPA hearing commissioner had refused to stay the suspension order pending an appeal to the OPA administrator in Washington.

"You can't take a man's business away from him before he has had his day in court," Judge Shaw told OPA Atty. William Corrigan. "If you found these men dealing in counterfeit points, why didn't you have them indicted?"

WIFE OF SAILOR RAPED, STABBED; SUSPECT SEIZED

Edward J. Kulczyk, 39, of 4214 Berkeley av., an unemployed painter, was seized last night after a 42 year old wife of a sailor identified him as the man who stabbed her in the throat Wednesday night and forced her to accompany him to his room where he raped her.

The sailor's wife waited until her husband returned to make a complaint to the police, then she led Detectives Al Mackey and Edward Tyrrell to his home. She said her attacker undressed her and disrobed himself. Afterward she said the painter took her to her home.

Kulczyk denied her accusation. The police reported they found in Kulczyk's possession a watch she reported he had taken from her. Kulczyk was held for questioning at the police sex bureau.

Edward Ristau, 37, of 6067 Harper av., was being held by Homewood county highway police last night on a charge of rape. The complainant is a married woman, 32, living near 50th st. and Hoyne av. She obtained a warrant against Ristau Wednesday night shortly after the alleged attack. One of her eyes was discolored. Ristau denied rape, saying the woman's association with him was voluntary. He told police that he served a six month term in Wyoming for violation of the Dyer stolen auto act.

WINS DIVORCE, RIGHT TO SELL WRECKED AUTO

Mrs. Clara Hayes, 28, of 6236 S. Marshfield av., couldn't find her husband, but she did find his wrecked automobile, her attorney, Norman Becker, told Judge Elmer J. Schnackenberg in Circuit court yesterday.

Mrs. Hayes, who won a divorce from Thomas, 32, a contractor, on a charge of cruelty, said she had been seeking her husband because he was $250 in arrears under a $25 a week temporary support order entered last July. She was granted permission to sell the automobile and apply the proceeds to back alimony.

Proceeds over $250 may be applied to future alimony to support Mrs. Hayes and her son, Thomas Jr., 1, the court ruled. The couple were married Feb. 7, 1943, and separated June 11, 1945. Becker said a writ for Hayes' arrest has been issued.

KAYE'S AIR SHOW TONIGHT WILL BE SATIRE ON RADIO

Danny Kaye is going to try something on his radio show this season not often ventured. He's going to satirize radio itself. On his opening broadcast, in connection with the start of the Community and War Fund drive, from Orchestra hall at 9:30 tonight, the script will reveal Kaye without any props such as four sons or five daughters or race horses or junk falling out of a closet.

Busiest man in radio today will be Goodman Ace of Easy Aces fame, who is writing the Kaye show, casting and directing it, and playing a part in it. One thing he doesn't have to do is to appear in the Easy Aces show on W-G-N at 6:45 p. m. today. That has been transcribed in advance.

Community Fund drive workers will be guests during the broadcast tonight. WBBM is the outlet.

◆

Arthur Sears Henning, chief of the Washington bureau of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will start his 11th annual series of Capital Comment broadcasts over W-G-N from 6 to 6:15 p. m. tomorrow. . . . As in other years he will review official news and analyze it.

MUSEUM OPENS ITS DISPLAY OF PIGEONS TODAY

The iron-gray pigeon waddling alongside Buckingham fountain may have been a direct descendant of the bird that rested on King Pharaoh's dinner table in 1000 B. C. Or, according to the Chicago Natural History museum, it at least is representative of the species of domesticated pigeon first discovered on the Egyptian menu.

To introduce the public to the various species of domestic pigeons, the museum today will open a display of the birds, bred and developed by members of the Chicago Pigeon club and donated to the museum by the hobbyists.

Karl P. Schmidt, chief curator of zoology at the museum, said the display primarily will show the principle of breeding.

Fifteen of the domestic breeds of pigeons are represented in the museum's display, mounted in a large showcase.

Also on display will be 15 gayly colored species of wild pigeons.

A MILLION CASUALTIES—FOR WHAT?

In French Indo-China the British have reverted to their old habit of machine gunning the natives. This present brutality almost has a touch of altruism in it. The Annamite revolt is not being suppressed for the direct benefit of British imperialism, but for that of French imperialism. The British are merely holding down the country until the French army arrives in force.

Lt. Col. A. Peter Dewey, son of former Congressman Dewey of Chicago, was killed during the fighting. He was assigned to the recently dissolved office of strategic services. What interest this nation has in Indo-China, sufficient to justify the sacrifice of his or any other American life, hasn't been explained.

The Dutch are having trouble with native uprisings in Java and their other Indonesian possessions. In Australia dock workers have struck, refusing to load supplies for the Dutch forces engaged in suppressing the rebellion. Mr. Menzies, the opposition leader in the Australian parliament, notes that the strikes are communist inspired, a fact which is significant.

British and Russian imperial policy are in conflict all over the world. Russian tactics are based on force and arrogance. They grab everything they can reach and what they can't grab they demand as a right. The British are finding that arrogance doesn't work when it hasn't the force to back it. Never since 1806 has the empire been in so precarious a position. Today it is a beleaguered citadel, much as Britain itself was in 1940. But while the defense of Britain aroused admiration of free men everywhere, the defense of the empire must inevitably disgust them because it is based on the suppression of freedom.

A Chinese general remarked when the British reoccupied predominantly Chinese Hong Kong that they had won Hong Kong but lost China. In Greece, the Economist of London charges, British forces are sitting by and tolerating a reign of terror by royalist elements, altho a few months ago they suppressed by force an equally evil reign of terror by Communists. The pretension to high morality which Mr. Rogerson, the British authority on propaganda, described before this war as Britain's most potent weapon in its foreign policy is no longer shining armor. It looks like rusty tin plate.

Molotov makes no pretension to morality. He conducts his diplomatic negotiations by a combination of pushing and screaming. In dealing with the Russian foreign minister the British may be fortunate in having Mr. Bevin in the foreign office instead of one of the more correct statesmen of the Conservative faith. As a veteran of longshoremen's union negotiations, Mr. Bevin himself is an old hand at pushing and screaming. He isn't impressed by Molotov, but he is by the Red army. Four-fifths of Britain's soldiers and sailors are still in uniform. Four-fifths of the munition workers, by a recent report, were still making munitions.

The council of foreign ministers has accomplished nothing. Russia not only concedes nothing in the Balkans but makes demands in the Mediterranean. It hints that it wants Tripolitania and Eritrea. It is threatening Turkey to get possession of the Dardanelles.

Russia's agents are busy on the Australian docksides and among the oppressed colonial peoples of Asia. The only resistance movement in Malaya was communist organized and led. The Indonesian revolt has communist support. The beaten Japs have done their best to add to the trouble. They yielded their arms to the Annamites and they have had to be warned against aiding the native forces of Java. They aren't pulling any tricks on Gen. MacArthur. They respect force, if nothing else, but they have nothing but contempt for the European imperial powers whom they drove out of the east until the American fleet, army, and air force vanquished them.

The other day in New York Nikolai Novokov, the acting head of the Russian embassy in this country, got up before an American audience to demand that the United States join in prosecuting Franco as a war criminal. Novokov knows as well as any one else that he is required by diplomatic practice to transact his business with this country thru the state department and thru the state department alone. His attempt to influence American opinion by public statement was a supreme piece of arrogance. In the past we have sent ambassadors packing home for less. Our relations with Russia would take on a healthier tone if we handed Novokov his papers.

On the same program, speaking by radio from London, was Prof. Laski, who also assured us that it is our duty to withdraw recognition from Franco. He asserted that he was speaking only as a private citizen, but that obviously wasn't why he was scheduled as a speaker. He was on the program because he is chairman of the Labor party in Britain. Mr. Bevin, tussling with Molotov, finds his towel holder buddying up to the opposition. The Labor government has said that it has no intention of supporting a revolution in Spain.

That's the current picture of the world which we gave a million casualties and some 300 billion dollars to straighten out. The British policy is apparent, as is the Russian policy. No one knows what American policy is, least of all our state department.

Their only policy to date is that of appeasement. We are to put both Britain and Russia on our permanent pay roll in the hope that they will be good boys. The thought that our subventions merely strengthen both of them so that they can continue their struggle apparently has never occurred to the striped pants brigade.

America is the strongest nation in the world today, even without the atomic bomb. Our true interest is obvious. It is in a stable world. The only way we are going to achieve that objective is to assert our strength and quit letting both the British and Russians use us as a cat's-paw in their quarrels.

WHY CLEARING?

The last minute proposal to locate the new Chicago airport in the Clearing district, instead of at the present Douglas airport, has little to commend it.

The Clearing site is so close to the existing city airport that both could not be used with safety. If commercial operations were transferred to the new airport, as they would necessarily have to be within a few years, the life of every passenger coming into that port would be endangered by possible collision with planes using the present one. This could only be avoided by abandoning the existing airport and wasting the millions of dollars that have been expended on its development.

Objections to the Douglas site are unconvincing. The principal one seems to be that its ultimate extension might require the relocation of a railroad track. It is true that the necessity of moving a railroad to extend the present airport delayed that expansion for a year or so, but this was largely because of unconscionable boondoggling by every one connected with the transaction.

There is already an airport in existence at the Douglas plant which is far larger than the city airport. There are buildings there which could temporarily, at least, serve as hangars and service headquarters for the air lines. If it did become necessary to move the railroad tracks the cost would be only a minor part of the total cost.

In contrast with the existing facilities at Douglas, construction of a Clearing airport would have to start from scratch, with all the delays inescapable in relocating highways, and in other steps preliminary to actual construction. The Clearing site would not serve any public purpose that the Douglas site will not serve equally well. Its injection into the discussion at this late date is deplorable and those responsible for it should forget about it as quickly as possible. The thing to do is to get going on the Douglas airport.

THE ARMY, THE NAVY, AND THE PEOPLE

The army and navy have the largest public relations organization that they or the services of any other nation have ever maintained in a war. It is regrettable, and should be regretted by the army and navy most of all, that with all their press agents they have never adopted and enforced a sound public relations policy.

Army and navy public relations must be based on the fact that they have to obtain from congress appropriations for their support, and congress is influenced in its voting by what its constituents think of the army and navy. The services, thru their overloaded complements in Washington, both in war and peace time, have endeavored to influence appropriations by every device of lobbying that is known. They put too much dependence on their lobbying. Favors to a congressman are far less potent in influencing his views than the views of the people back home, who have the power to retire the congressman from office.

During war the services get whatever they want. In peace time they become a relatively small body of professional men, charged with the important duty of preparing the national defense. It is unfortunate that too many members of that professional group, by their actions in war and peace alike, prejudice the public relations of the army and navy and in so doing endanger not only the national defense, but their own professional futures.

The high ranking officers in Berlin who preempted a clubhouse which had originally been equipped for enlisted men, probably cost the army more support for its appropriation bills than it can get back with 500 tickets for the Army-Navy games. Those GI's will be voting by the time of the next congressional election. The army newspaper, Stars and Stripes, has mentioned a colonel who bought a couple of horses from a German for $1 and shipped them to this country. They came on a maritime commission vessel and he paid the frate, but before that they and their fodder were hauled across France in two trucks and the army is the only organization in France with any trucks to spare. If the facts have been accurately reported, the transaction began in thievery and got no better as it went along.

These, of course, are merely trivial incidents compared with the lethargy in discharging men from service, a lethargy which arouses justifiable suspicion that it springs in large part from the reluctance of officers to step down to peace time rank and perquisites of a peace time army and navy. The actions of the Annapolis clique which runs the navy in forcing the title of reservists on the officers recruited from civilian life who, by reason of their very numbers, did most of the fighting and suffered most of the casualties in this war, is another piece of wretched public relations which is not going to help the navy nor its permanent officers in their post-war relations with the public or with congress.

During the war both the army and navy were on numerous occasions careless, to put it mildly, of civil liberties. Their actions gave point to the fact that there has never been a large military establishment in history which has not eventually become a threat to the people who support it. The founders of our government were well aware of this, and that was a principal reason why they provided that the army should be raised by the states and called into the federal service when needed. The militia system has disclosed defects, but they are not incurable.

The post-war military establishment should be organized according to the Constitution, with the states commissioning the officers and the federal government prescribing the instructions, the qualifications of officers, if necessary, and supervising training.

WHAT DO THEY EAT?

Testimony on the Japanese cuisine from Americans of pre-war residence in Nippon has persuaded this column that Hirohito's subjects live on a curious diet of boiled rice, bean curd, and fish, and that the portions come in small dabs with fancy names. We have suspected these witnesses of war time prejudice, for their attitude seemed to be ironical, and have gone to a native source for additional information. But Prof. Kaneko Tezuka ["Japanese Food," Tokyo, 1936] confirms the charges.

* * *

Bean curd, which appears under many names at the Japanese table, is a paste of soy beans which have been soaked in water, mashed, and strained thru cloth. Its value as nutrition is high; its taste, unflavored, is nothing to talk about. Boiled rice needs only the remark that the Japs have the know-how. They boil the rice under the pressure of a wooden lid which fits inside the pot. When the water has evaporated, the rice is nicely puffed and not sticky.

* * *

We now submit Prof. Tezuka's outline of breakfast, lunch, and dinner for the average Jap—the common, everyday food.

Breakfast: Boiled rice, bean-paste soup, and pickled vegetables, with which there may be snacks of egg, fish, shellfish, edible seaweed, and bean curd.

Lunch: Boiled rice, boiled vegetables, boiled lentils, dried fish, bean curd, eggs, pickles.

Dinner: Clear soup, sliced raw fish, broiled fish, chicken or beef soy stew [sukiyaki], scalloped dishes, fried shrimps or shellfish in batter, steamed egg custard, and broiled eels.

* * *

Little cakes in ornamental forms and colors, pleasing to the eye, serve as dessert; they are more like candy than pastry. Most of them are made of bean jam, a blend of mashed red beans and sugar. One of these sweetmeats, said to be popular among occidentals, is yokan, which resembles a coarse form of "Turkish delight."

* * *

The Japs have cakes for each season, and find pleasure in their names as well as their taste. In the spring you may have "misty moon," "blossom snowstorm," and "rippling waves"; in the summer, "firefly grass," "water moon," and "eight-way bridge"; in the autumn, "moon in the window" and "chestnut drizzling shower"; and in the winter, "snow of Koshi," "bamboo grass snow," and "winter moon."

TO THE CHAPLAIN

He asked no eulogy, no silver cross;
Heavy the one he bore for us.
Into the foxholes, into blood and mire
He followed, with a vision higher
Than mud and dark and reeking slime,
Beyond all strife, beyond all time.

Into the trenches daring death
He came to us with healing breath,
Christ in his touch, and on us laid
His comfort, as he watched and prayed
For Peace that soon would bring release,
And Faith to vision all men's Peace.

For Equinoctial Skeptics

Linemaster: Wishing to corroborate your belief in equinoctial storms [Sept. 25], I offer data from my daily weather record, extending from Jan. 1, 1920, to the present. In only two years, 1928 and 1938, were the storms more than four days away from the equinox, and occurred five and six days late.

By "storms," I mean one tornado, gales, bad snowstorms, hard rains, and continued rains. The record then is as follows:

Twenty-six vernal equinoxes, 20 storms; 26 autumnal equinoxes, 11 storms. Total, 31 out of a possible 52.

Yours for bigger and better equinoctials.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks will answer questions of service men, veterans, and their dependents by mail if a stamped envelope is sent to 435 N. Michigan av. The Tribune's veterans' bureau, 1 S. Dearborn st., Superior 0200, gives personal interviews.]

K. R. E. asks: "If a veteran obtains a loan to buy property and a loan to start a business, will the government guarantee half of each loan?"

Only if each loan is for $2,000 or less—a maximum of $4,000. The government does not assume any guarantee or risk in excess of $2,000 or 50 per cent of the sum borrowed by any veteran.

T. C. asks: "Is a veteran's wife required to sign a loan obtained under the guarantee provisions of the GI bill?"

No. Only the veteran is required to sign.

G. W. asks: "Is a man who quit his job to volunteer for military service before Pearl Harbor entitled to reinstatement by his former employer, the same as a man who was drafted from his job?"

Yes, if he volunteered after May 1, 1940.

L. B. Y. writes: "I contemplate filing a claim for disability compensation but lack some of the records I need to prove service connection. Where can I get the information I need?"

File your claim with the veterans' administration, supplying all information you have. The veterans' administration will obtain the missing information from the war department.

Mrs. E. C. asks: "Is the wife of a veteran who is unable to work entitled to preference for employment under civil service?"

Yes, if the veteran is entitled to a disability preference.

TRANSFUSIONS AND THE RH FACTOR

YESTERDAY I was looking at my old army dog tags and noticed the letter A at the end of the second line. This designated my blood type. Had I been wounded and in need of whole or citrated blood, the medical department could have obliged in a hurry for the preliminary tests had already been done.

Our vital fluid can be divided roughly into four groups: AB, A, B, and O. In transfusions the same type must be employed, otherwise the cells will clump and bring on a reaction. Apparently the liquid portion contains the offending agglutinin. Were the donor of a different type from that of the recipient, this phenomenon could occur in the injected fluid. Naturally the good effects of the procedure would be nullified and a serious situation could arise. By checking beforehand the blood of the two individuals, we seldom encounter this difficulty.

But occasionally distress follows even tho the technique is correct and the equipment absolutely sterile. It was then discovered that other factors were present which might interfere. Two of these, labeled "M" and "N," were of questionable significance.

Finally, the mystery was cleared up by finding the Rh factor, which was first discovered by Landsteiner and Wiener, while studying the rhesus monkey. They noted that the circulation of these animals exhibited an element which caused the corpuscles of incompatible blood to clump when mixed. They called it the Rh factor after the first two letters of rhesus.

Actually, 85 per cent of humans possess this substance and these persons are referred to as "Rh positive." The remainder are appropriately called "Rh negative." One transfusion from the former may be given to the latter and no trouble follows. But should a second be administered, the cells immediately come together and create a disturbance. Apparently the Rh negative fluid reacts internally to the positive and is just lying in wait for a repeat visit.

* * *

From a practical aspect, the question is of importance in multiple transfusions. It also serves to explain certain blood disorders associated with pregnancy. In 90 per cent of the unions where the father is Rh positive and the mother Rh negative, the offspring will be positive. While the woman is carrying the baby she becomes sensitized to its positive factors so that were she to receive a transfusion at a later date from her husband a reaction would ensue.

The baby, too, may suffer, for these anti-bodies may reach its blood stream and destroy red cells. This is thought to account for stillbirths and jaundice in the newborn [erythroblastosis fetalis]. There is no need to become alarmed, for the chances are slim that such a complication will appear.

DAILY HEADACHE

M. A. D. writes: Headaches are a daily affair with me. I have had all kinds of treatments but nothing has brought relief. What would you suggest?

REPLY

This problem needs an exhaustive search. It may require a combination of an eye, ear, nose, and throat specialist, a neurologist, and an internist. Don't forget that nervousness, psychic factors, fatigue, etc., often play a hidden part.

MOUTH DISCOMFORT

D. S. A. writes: What causes a scalded feeling of the tongue and roof of the mouth?

REPLY

This sensation may be associated with local inflammation, lack of hydrochloric acid in the stomach, pernicious anemia, vitamin deficiencies, gastrointestinal disturbances, and nervous disorders.

PROBABLY NOT

B. W. writes: Should an impacted wisdom tooth be pulled when there are no symptoms?

REPLY

As a rule, extraction is advised only in the presence of infection, when the bite is not in proper alinement, or if the roots crowd other structures.

NOT CONTAGIOUS

M. W. writes: Is it safe to wear the clothes of a person who died of cancer?

REPLY

No danger.

CHEST PAIN

F. D. writes: Is intercostal neuralgia dangerous?

REPLY

More annoying than serious.

Remembered Face

Of all the lovely faces I have seen
Gay, pensive, wistful, sprightly or serene,
In fragrant gardens where the filtered light
Of paper lanterns filled a festal night—
Glad, glorious faces, radiant with love,
Sad, tender faces, pale with memories of
Some long dead hope—all these, without regret,
I find I can quite casually forget.

And yet there is one face that haunts me still;
Tho seen but once, and long ago, it will
Not fade—a face mysteriously awake
With light it seemed to give, not take,
As if enkindled by an inner sun,
Self-luminous—the pure face of a nun.

Hitch Hiking Fish

Halleutical research has just disclosed the existence of a certain species of fish, the strange tho cunning behavior of which has caused ichthyologists to give it the scientific name of thumbum ridius fordensis. To us, of course, it is the hitch hiking fish. Specimens are reported to have been found in several local streams.

Resembling superficially the tree climbing fish of the Amazon but without climbers or hands and feet, the hitch hiking fish makes its way up or down a stream by the usual method of activating its caudal fin. It is a lazy fish, however, and rarely consents to make its way by its own exertion. Instead, when it wishes to go from one part of the stream to another, it waits for an opportunity to get a free ride without exhausting its physical resources. This is how it operates and how it got its name:

It waits suspended in the water, motionless and with both of its radarlike eyes focused into the dim distance. When it locates a baited hook it slowly approaches. Stealing up on the hook, which may be baited with either a worm or a minnow, it grasps the hook's shank, well above the dangerous barb, and gives a gentle tug on the line. This excites the angler, who immediately jerks the fish out of the water, tossing line, hook, and fish all high in the air.

At the highest point of the line's trajectory the fish lets go and falls with a splash into a chosen part of the stream. Adult fish have been known to move as much as 75 feet in this manner, but young fish, whose jaws have not yet attained their full strength, seldom are able to travel more than 35 feet in one move. Curious Coincidence

1. In the morning mail came a note signed "Distracted Mother," asking: "Why don't the railroad stations, especially in a city as big as Chicago, provide a special room where babies can be cared for between trains, a room where they can take a nap or be fed, or 'changed'?"

2. In the afternoon mail [same day] came a letter from the New York Central announcing the establishment of an "infants' lounge" in the La Salle st. station, with pink and blue decorations, cribs for the youngest, beds for the next higher age group, bathing facilities, etc.

NO RELEASES ON OKINAWA?

Chicago, Sept. 11—In today's TRIBUNE the article "Draft Critics Charge Bungle in GI Release" deeply interested me, inasmuch as I have a son in the army stationed at Okinawa. My son was inducted Oct. 6, 1941, and has been overseas since May, 1942. From the day he left home he has never had a furlough. In fact, we have never seen him since.

According to his records, he has 98 points and should be entitled to his discharge, but somehow he cannot even get a furlough, let alone a discharge.

My son's most recent letter relates that no one has been released on the point system from Okinawa and that the point system has been stopped.

COMMUNIST DISCRIMINATION

Chicago, Sept. 10—President Truman last Saturday issued an order to the Seafarers' International union, telling them to stop discriminating against workers on grounds of race, creed, or color. This order has the familiar smell of the Communist party, which controls the National Maritime union. In South Chicago, the National Maritime union will not ship Negroes, because the membership will not tolerate mixed crews.

The Seafarers' International union is the only sailors' union on the Great Lakes that does ship men regardless of their race, creed, or color.

It is evident that the source of President Truman's information was some landlocked seamen more acquainted with soap-boxing on Union Square than sailing merchant ships.

NEW THEORY OF WAGES

El Paso, Tex, Sept. 17—In passing thru the midwest once again I am surprised to hear so much griping, especially against labor unions and their strikes.

In the name of all that is good for human personality the time must come when it will be considered a crime to hire any man with a family and ask for his full time and not offer him a living wage. And then if he is worth anything, he should be paid that much more. ELDON A. RAMIGE

DAVIS WAS MISQUOTED

Chicago, Sept. 24—In an editorial "The Price of Houses," today's TRIBUNE follows the error of President Truman and Secretary Schwellenbach in ascribing to William H. Davis a "moronic statement about wages which finally led President Truman to throw him out, etc., etc., etc."

Truman, Schwellenbach, and THE TRIBUNE, among others, believed Davis said at a press conference that wages should be raised 50 per cent in the next five years without any rise in prices. The transcript of the press conference proved Davis never said it. President Truman later corrected his own error in a letter accepting Davis' resignation. BUROCRAT

BY-STANDERS

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 13—There are those who are shouting, "The American people and the isolationists are responsible for Pearl Harbor." I should like to know when any group ever prevented Roosevelt from getting exactly what he requested. For the last 12 years a rubber stamp Democratic congress has done exactly as he ordered.

Roosevelt was getting himself elected for a third term with his promise of keeping us out of war, so he hardly could ask congress publicly for appropriations for arming the country. For this reason the critical situation with Japan was kept a deep White House secret from you and me.

And what could the average American citizen do about any appropriations Roosevelt demanded—from WPA to the billions and billions for lend-lease? Likewise, we had nothing to say or do with the lack of appropriations for our proper and timely defense.

Chicago, Sept. 19—Several police stations have only two men on the plain clothes squad. One man has to answer complaints of all descriptions, such as shootings. JOINT TENANCY

Chicago, Sept. 25—[1] My father died leaving a piece of property in joint tenancy with my mother. My mother has subsequently placed the property in joint tenancy with my brother, which means that if she dies before he does [2] the property will go to him. [3] If [illegible] for distribution of the personal effects in the home, will they go to my brother? B. B.

1. A mimeograph on joint tenancy is being mailed you.

2. Correct. If she is counting on him to divide, then we disapprove of the arrangement since the surviving joint tenant often ignores such an understanding.

3. Her will would be ineffective as to joint tenancy property, but the personal effects would not necessarily go with the real estate. Presumably, they would be equally divided.

"Rumor Had It" By Christopher Hale

(Copyright: 1945: By Mrs. Frances Stephens)

INSTALMENT XVII.

THREAT OF EXPOSURE

Mr. Izenga listened resignedly. She could not have chosen a worse time. The medical experts had set the time of Mrs. Pomeroy's death between 2 and 4 o'clock. How French would love to hear this story from the Dukes' maid.

Hester was continuing, plaintively. "I trailed him down the drive and thru the path that crossed all those vacant lots. And where do you suppose he wound up? In that open field at the north end of Westerly where mother once wanted a golf course. He met some woman there, out in the middle of that space."

"Who?" Mr. Izenga spat out the word.

"But that's what I don't know. I couldn't get near enough to hear a thing except that they were having a raging quarrel, but they had sense enough to keep their voices down."

"But couldn't you even guess who she was? Couldn't you see anything characteristic or hear a word or—"

"No, no. I tell you I did everything to try to identify her. Naturally after all that trouble I wanted something to show for it. But they kept moving away from me and I didn't want Harry to know I'd followed him."

"Moving toward the house?"

"Why yes, they were." Mrs. Duke looked rather alarmed as if she hadn't thought of that before.

"Could the woman have been your mother? Could she have summoned Harry to talk to him in private?"

"I . . . I don't know. It seems fantastic, at that hour of night. Mother could easily have stopped at his office, I should think. It never entered my head that it was anything but an affair. I suppose it could have been mother. They went toward the house."

"And you followed?"

"No, I couldn't. I'd have had to cross that open field. They might have looked back and seen, at least, my outline. No. I thought, if they've reached the quarreling stage it's almost over. So I decided to go home and not let him know I was out, at all."

"When did he get in?"

"About three-thirty."

"How do you know the maid knows you were out?"

"She knows, all right," Mrs. Duke said acidly. "She always knows everything she shouldn't.

"She's already tried to get money out of me to keep her still. That was tonight, just before I left the house!"

"Then you and Harry lied independently of each other?"

"Yes. He still doesn't know I followed him. And I don't want him to. How can I keep up a front if he thinks I'll just overlook his having affairs?

"I tell you, he was and is interested in some other woman, whether he saw her that night or not. I've played the dumb wife for 10 years. I know what I'm talking about."

"Yet you still want him?" Mr. Izenga marveled.

"I still want my home and my friends and I don't want the trouble and scandal of having a divorce and baiting the trap for some other fool as bad as Harry. Men are all alike. I'm used to him and I've got him trained. Besides, now that I've got more money, perhaps he'll think it's worth his while to behave."

"I can't see what you want me to do," he said. "You've done nothing but make out a really bad case against Harry. He looks like the best suspect so far and certainly, if he killed your . . ."

Mrs. Duke shuddered. "No. He didn't kill her. He couldn't. He hasn't got it in him. Besides, he has no motive."

Mr. Izenga could see plenty of motive and a really alarming opportunity.

What appalled him was the thought that her whole story might be fiction. Suppose she had told him this fairy tale to forestall the maid's story, because the real reason was even worse?

She was searching his face. She said shrilly,

"You'll help me, won't you?"

The hand she put on his arm shook.

"I don't see how I can help you. What do you want me to do?"

"Why . . . see this disgusting maid of ours. Find out what she wants and pay it. Pay as little as you can. I'll stand quite a shakedown if I have to. But get rid of her."

"But French will talk to her in the morning and . . ."

"No, no. He mustn't." She dug in her handbag and produced a long, narrow, green strip of paper. "Here's a ticket to Los Angeles. She's been saving her money to get out there. Give her the money and the ticket and have Harrison see she gets on that train. It leaves in two hours."

Mr. Izenga gazed at the green strip as if it were a snake. Hester really was too stupid. But what scared him most of all was her reckless expenditure of money, so unlike Hester unless she were personally in danger.

He drew a long breath and tried to explain things to her. As she listened, her face hardened.

All Mrs. Duke got was the fact that he refused to play the role she assigned him. She sprang up, whipping her cape about her.

"I might have known it was folly to come to you. You've always hated me. You don't care what happens to me."

"Hester, is that fair?" Have you forgotten . . ." he saw he did not need to go on.

She backed away from his reproachful eyes.

"No. No. I forgot . . . for only a minute. But . . . you wouldn't tell . . . that?"

His scornful smile was answer enough. He would not dignify her lapse by any response in words. In a babble of apologies she backed to the door and let herself out.

Mr. Izenga gave a little shudder as if to shake off that distasteful memory. When Hester was 16 she had flown into one of her almost insane rages and attacked one of the maids. Her mother had tried to interfere and been hurt too. She had sent out a wild call for Mr. Izenga who managed to subdue Hester, with difficulty.

By that time, the maid required hospitalization. They had made up a tale about a burglar to which the maid agreed. Shortly after Mary Shoemaker recovered, she married and went away. A very comfortable annuity made up for the scar on her cheek.

The job of persuading the maid and setting the price had been Mr. Izenga's. Mrs. Pomeroy had been too ill to take part.

It was hoped that the shock had been a life-long lesson to Hester. But Mr. Izenga wondered if the effect had not worn off.

OPA IS CREATING UNEMPLOYMENT, HOUSE WARNED

Price Rule Stifles Small Business, Says Vursell

BY LAURENCE BURD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Rep. Vursell

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27 — Rep. Vursell [R., Ill.] in a blistering denunciation of the office of price administration today charged that the agency is creating unemployment by the millions by forcing small merchants out of business.

Vursell in a house speech demanded that OPA Chief Bowles be fired unless he immediately changes his "straitjacket" price policies which Vursell said are adding daily to the rolls of jobless men and are keeping goods off merchants' shelves.

"Unless Bowles abandons some of his unworkable controls on retail business," Vursell said, "his policies will slow business to a point where the administration's gloomy prediction of 8 to 10 million unemployed by 1946 will become a reality."

Store Jobs Lost

He said wholesale and retail concerns constitute one of the biggest potential job markets for returning veterans because they are shorthanded and had a pre-war employment of 8 million persons.

"But Mr. Bowles has come along with a rule that merchants cannot sell their goods at prices higher than the 1942 level," the congressman said. "This low price level, on the basis of present high labor and other costs, will drive thousands of small merchants out of business and prevent them from reëmploying returning service men.

Inflation Encouraged

"Unless this ruling is lifted and reasonable profits are allowed, the wells of supply and distribution will be dried up. Scarcity will be maintained, inflation encouraged, and Mr. Bowles will then insist on keeping price controls and rationing indefinitely."

The congressman said Bowles bases his price-ceiling policy on a directive from President Truman ordering the continuance of price ceilings at "normal levels."

"President Truman has thus apparently thrown open the switch that will sidetrack business, prevent jobs, and lead to economic chaos," Vursell said. "The OPA policy goes beyond the intent of congress. It is totalitarian and un-American in principle.

"Mr. Bowles says price control must be continued until supply meets demand. Apparently, he does not believe what he says, for his actions to control production are the old New Deal philosophy of scarcity. He insists that to hold the line, men must produce and sell at less than cost. Any one with reasonable intelligence knows that to get a big supply of goods, a reasonable profit must be allowed."

GI FLOWN HOME ON REQUEST OF AILING SISTER

Pvt. Charles Ashway was back home from Europe yesterday with his seriously ill sister, Mrs. Vivian Meyers, 30, of 2500 Wilcox st., Joliet, as the result of an appeal to President Truman.

Mrs. Meyers is suffering from leukemia. Pvt. Ashway, who is 32, went overseas nearly two years ago, and served in the Mediterranean and French campaigns. Mrs. Meyers, fearing she might die, expressed a wish to have her brother home.

Six weeks ago her husband, John Meyers, a garage employe, wrote to the President, asking him to speed Pvt. Ashway home. The soldier was in Paris. The President replied, saying, "We will take care of the matter for you." Pvt. Ashway was flown back from Paris on a C-54, and arrived this week.

15,000 TRUCKERS GRANTED 4 CENTS MORE PER HOUR

Fifteen thousand Chicago truck drivers have been granted an additional 4 cent hourly increase by the national war labor board, Henry G. Burger, international organizer of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen and Helpers, said yesterday.

The increase will take effect Oct. 1, Burger said; two weeks' vacation for each driver employed more than five years, retroactive to Jan. 1, also was granted.

William B. Crawford, attorney for the Cartage Exchange of Chicago, and Walter McCarron, general manager of the Illinois Motor Truck Operators' association, tentatively agreed to grant the wage increases, Burger added. The wage increase was in addition to an 8 cent hourly increase given a few months ago.

90¢ a day for a Bullock Cart!

—sure it LOOKS cheap

• If you were a cotton grower in India, you'd transport your product by bullock cart. The cart, two bullocks, and an attendant . . . all for only 90 cents a day.

Looks cheap . . . but let's figure it out. A bullock team will pull a cart load of cotton —little more than a ton—15 miles in a day. Cost of hauling one ton one mile is about 6 cents.

Now let's see what our mass railroad transportation, created by private investment, can do:

First, American railroad workers earn far, far more than 90 cents daily.

Second, freight travels not 15 miles, but many times that distance in a day by rail.

Third, the American shipper pays not 6 cents, but an average of less than 1 cent per ton per mile!

It's this principle of progressive mass transportation, so well typified by the Erie, that makes your railroads an essential part of the American Way of Life.

Margot Massee's Engagement to Maj. Tisdelle Is Announced

BY JUDITH CASS

NEWS of an interesting romance is revealed in the announcement Mr. and Mrs. Burt A. Massee are making today of the engagement of his daughter, Margot, to Maj. Achille C. Tisdelle of the army, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Achille C. Tisdelle of Evanston. Maj. Tisdelle, aide to Maj. Gen. Edward King Jr., commanding officer of the Luzon forces when they surrendered April 9, 1942, was among those rescued from the prison camp at Mukden several weeks ago. He arrived in Chicago recently.

Miss Massee, whose home is in Orange Park, Fla., arrived a few days ago from her summer home in Asheville, N. C., to be with her father and Mrs. Massee. The wedding will take place here about the middle of October. Because of the recent death of Miss Massee's mother, Mrs. Margaret J. Massee of Orange Park, the ceremony will be a quiet family one.

Miss Massee was educated at Andrebrook, Tarrytown, N. Y. Maj. Tisdelle attended Loloya academy and was engaged in business in Chicago before entering the army in 1940. He was a member of the Black Horse troop, and went to the Philippines in May, 1941.

Maj. Tisdelle, who is on a long leave, probably will continue as Gen. King's aide until the latter is retired in a few months.

Engagement News

A few days ago Prince and Princess Michael Cantacuzene announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Janet Carr, to Lt. Frederick K. Davey, and now they are making known the betrothal of Prince Cantacuzene's daughter, Irina, to Ensign Douglas Erickson of the naval reserve, son of Mrs. Arioch Wentworth Erickson and the late Mr. Erickson of the island of Inagua in the Bahamas.

Miss Cantacuzene, whose late mother was the former Clarissa Pelham Curtis of Boston, spent a year at the University of Chicago and made an informal debut here during the 1943-'44 season. Last winter she went to Washington, D. C., and has been working there in a government war office. She has a younger brother, Rodion, and a step-brother, William Frederick Carr.

Ensign Erickson was educated at the Belmont Hill school and was graduated from Harvard in 1938. While there, he rowed on the Harvard crew. He has two brothers, Arioch Jr. and Josia Macy Erickson. The date of the wedding will depend upon his orders.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Carwardine of Evanston announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Jane, to Robert W. Lee of Toronto, Canada, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Lee of Ottawa, Canada. Miss Carwardine attended Stephens college last year and was to have been a sophomore at Northwestern this fall until she and Mr. Lee decided to be married in November. Mr. Lee served for five years with the Canadian army and was wounded during the invasion of Sicily. He and his bride will live in Toronto.

On the Calendar

The Town and Country Arts club, whose monthly meetings usually are limited to its 50 feminine members, is planning a festive husband and wife party tomorrow night to open the fall season. The cocktail party and supper will be given at Land of Oz farm, the Donald Charles Ozmuns' reserve near Mount Prospect. Dr. Franklin Scott of the department of history at Northwestern university will be the evening's speaker.

Since Mrs. William Card Whitcomb founded the club some 15 years ago, its members have devoted each season to the study of different phases of culture of a particular country. The Scandinavian countries will provide this year's theme. Among the speakers at later meetings will be Prof. Gustav Johnson of the English department of North Park college; Kurt Ekdahl, chairman of the industrial design department at the Art institute; Felix Borowski, art critic and composer; Dr. Gosta Franzen of the department of languages at the University of Chicago; Dr. Sten Flygt, who is connected with the same department at Northwestern university; H. Einer Mose, librarian of the John Crerar library, and Ben Blessum, lecturer and traveler.

Some of the members of the club, which gives an annual prize of $100 to the Art Institute for its water color show, are Mrs. Arthur Wirtz, Mrs. James O. McKinsey, Mrs. Wilbur Smith, Mrs. Nathaniel Leverone, Mrs. Edward Hall Taylor and her mother, Mrs. Walter Huth, and Mrs. Walter Scott.

Wedding News

In a small family ceremony at 8 p. m. tomorrow in the Herbert W. Sanborns' E. Delaware pl. apartment, their niece, Miss Margaret Browne, will become the bride of James Stakely Hall. A small reception will be held at 8:30 p. m. in the Fortnightly.

Miss Browne, a daughter of Mrs. Arthur G. Browne and the late Mr. Browne of Los Angeles, is a lieutenant in the WAVES. Since her graduation from Smith college and a year's residence in France, she has made her home with her uncle and aunt. Mr. Hall attended Virginia Military institute and was graduated from the University of Virginia. He recently was released from the naval reserve, in which he served as a lieutenant.

Here for the ceremony are the bride's mother and sister, Miss Marianna Browne, who is stopping over en route to her classes at Smith college to serve as maid of honor; and Mr. Hall's father, Will S. Hall of Knoxville, Tenn., who will be best man. Also present will be the bridegroom's brother, Beech Hall, and Mrs. Hall, of Charlotte, N. C.; the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Browne of Detroit, Mich., and Mrs. Harold Jenkins of Boyce, Va. Mr. Hall and his bride will live in Knoxville.

Announcement is made of the marriage Sept. 20 of Miss Eleanor Jean

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Finding Your Way Out

Martin Panzer in "Get a Kick Out of Living" says: "You can't be in a rut unless you yourself are a rut person."

Every one has little lulls in living—times when it seems as tho nothing will change and change for the better. "If you watch the girls in your office," one white collar girl remarked, "you see them all go thru the same cycles of high and low spirits."

What can be done to dispel the dispirited moods? A new course of study helps . . . a fetching hat . . . a short excursion . . . an exciting best seller . . . a good movie . . . an evening at the theater. And most of all companionship which accomplishes more than anything else to rally your forces during the days when you don't think, you know you're in a rut!

"Your present job and your present mode of life may be inadequate, they may call for escape and change, but if you are not a rut person you will find your way out," is the encouraging counsel of Mr. Panzer.

Lower Grades of Meat to Go Off Ration List

Lower grades of beef, veal, and lamb will become ration free Sunday for the period thru Oct. 27, the office of price administration announced yesterday.

Also ration free will be hamburger, lamb and veal patties, and the cheaper cuts of all grades of meats. These include short ribs and brisket of beef, breast and flank of lamb, and shank of veal.

All canned meats, sausage, frankfurters, luncheon varieties, and all products made from the lower grades of meat also will be point free. Points on canned fish will be reduced two to three a pound.

Current point values will remain unchanged for pork cuts, bacon, and other cured meats, choice cuts of beef, veal, and lamb of top grades, and butter, margarine, and other fats and oils.

OPA Administrator Bowles said the seasonal increase in marketing of range fed cattle is the principal reason one-third of the meat supply can be made ration free. These cattle produce the lower grades of beef.

The department of agriculture estimated that civilian meat supply in October would be equivalent to a month in which the average annual per capita was from 147 to 150 pounds. The rate a few months ago was 115 pounds. The rate of full demand would be about 165 pounds, it was stated.

Civilians during October will have a total of 1,502,700,000 pounds of meat as compared with 1,352,000,000 pounds in September, the department said. This is an increase of 11.15 per cent.

OPA said supplies of butter, margarine, lard, and cooking and salad oils also had improved but not enough to cut point values.

The usual monthly allotment of 50 red points will become valid Monday. The new stamps, in ration book 4, are R1, S1, T1, U1, and V1. Stamps V2, W2, X2, Y2, and Z2 expire Sunday.

Vaughan Hospital Music Room Will Be Opened on Sunday

A new music room in Vaughan General hospital, equipped and furnished by local organizations and individuals thru the Camp and Hospital committee of the American Red Cross, will be opened in a ceremony Sunday at the hospital. The Illinois Chapter of the American Institute of Decorators planned and designed the room, which features a special acoustic ceiling and special lighting.

A professional Red Cross worker, trained in music, has been assigned to the room where groups of patients and individuals will receive musical instruction. Sunday's program will include musical entertainment by Vaughan patients, followed by tea. Miss Gladys Cable, president of the Hinsdale Women's club, originated the idea for the room.

The list of donors includes: Chicagoland Choral club, Grand Lodge of Unity of Bohemian Ladies of Illinois, Grand Lodge of Czech Ladies' Benevolent Society of Illinois, Central Committee of Czech American Women of Illinois, Temple Sholom Sisterhood, Lakeview Musical Society, Phi Delta Zeta, Women's War Service corps, Hinsdale Women's club, Allen Joseph Memorial fund, Newcomers Club of Oak Park, and Mrs. Wade Warren, Mrs. Ray Soukup, and W. Quizzical "Comedia Balletica" Makes Debut in Midst of Ballet Russe Favorites

THE quizzical quality of "Comedia Balletica" pricks my curiosity as to what else Todd Bolender may have tucked up his choreographic sleeve. His sly, almost feline ballet made its debut at the Civic Opera house last night with just five members of the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, including himself, to call it a quintet's holiday. It is thin, almost attenuated stuff, but it has charm and the wit to set itself to Stravinsky's Suite from "Pulcinella," which seems to have married "Petrouchka" to Pergolesi, and it is gaily danced against the backdrop of a mummer's tent, its hot colors ablaze in the glare of floodlights that are a definitive part of its decor.

On five lacquer stools sit five smiling people and when they aren't dancing they are watching each other dance with the blind brightness performers bestow upon each other when not even a soothsayer could pry loose their real opinion. The satirical flair, and the delightful way the sitters suggest elaborations on the work of the dancers promise something ballet can use, a hint of the sort of thing Agnes de Mille does in the best of "Tally-Ho." Mr. Bolender's own style is long, lithe, and pointed, and of the four with him, Leon Danielian and Ruthanna Boris seemed most easily caught in his own image.

"Comedia Balletica" not only was expertly conducted by Ivan Boutnikoff, whose work already is earning welcoming applause, but it was preceded by "Ballet Imperial," one of Balanchine's most enchanting ballets, which I am delighted to report made me eat some disparaging words of the night before. The troupe was in crackling form for the high spirits and the romantic mime of this shining work to Tschaikowsky's Second Piano Concerto, and every dancer in it had the personality of good work well done. True, I still miss Mary Ellen Moylan, who was exquisite with Nicolas Magallanes, but Nathalie Krassovska was brilliant if rather dangerously eager, and Maria Tallchief had the precision of a young birch growing tall and straight in the balletic forest. And I liked that flyaway grace of Yvonne Chouteau and the soaring entrechats of the male background.

"Le Beau Danube," alas, came at the tag end, along with Danilova, which is hard on morning papers, and I can't find much enthusiasm with what happens to "L'Apres Midi d'un Faun" as ballet goes nowadays. Danielian has the wasp waist, the curve to his wide shoulders, and the hint of exoticism for the faun, but so far he lacks the imagination to make the Nijinsky ballet more than a one dimensional exercise to Debussy. I was scarcely more enmeshed than the Chez Paree night when Jack Cole tried to dance the faun with Paul Whiteman, who despairingly said he had just 14 instruments and all the wrong ones. Anyway, Whiteman stuck stubbornly to his score and was all finished before Cole reached the climax. He was the maddest dancer I ever saw.

Notes

Lionel Barrymore has chosen 13 year old June Kovach to introduce his piano concerto and she plays it for the first time in Orchestra hall Nov. 26 when the Chicago Businessmen's orchestra opens its silver jubilee season under the direction of George Dasch. Other soloists are Joseph Shuster, cellist, Jan. 25, and Mischa Mischakoff, violinist, April 26. . . . Note from Theater Guild's Lawrence Langer, "'Winter's Tale' has just opened in Pittsburgh and we are doing quite some additional work on it. It is a heavy production and very beautiful to look at. 'Foolish Notion' has had considerable work done on it since New York. I personally feel that the cast is much better and that the play has been greatly improved." Both are on the Chicago calendar. . . . Zinka Milanov will sing Violetta in "La Traviata" at the Met this season, which prompts an indiscreet press release to note that "she previously has been identified with almost all the heavier dramatic roles of the Italian repertory." Well, some Violettas are hefty, too. . . . Answer to inquiry, Ralph Ginsburgh's theme song is Chopin's E flat nocturne. . . . Hoosiers ahoy! That Olsen and Johnson shindig is tonight at the Shubert.

Lose Woo Art? Never, Irked GIs Tell Nurse

LONDON, Sept. 27 (AP)—GI Joes let loose howls of indignation today and told the army nurse who moaned that American men were "unschooled in l'amour" that "50 million overseas lassies can't be wrong."

The London Stars and Stripes, which published the nurse's plaint yesterday, said today it was being inundated with a flood of protests from men of all ranks who didn't like her warning that "the love market in the United States will certainly not operate on the candy and commodity basis."

One male responded to the taunt that American wooing technique was "disintegrating so rapidly that very shortly there will be no technique at all," by writing:

"Up to now there have been very few complaints. Most of the French girls my friends and I know put us pretty much on par with French practitioners of the art—and that's something."

"Dear nursie," another aroused male wrote: "Reconsider your slanderous remarks, which virtually label every woman whom we have met in Europe as loose. Lots of our guys have thought enough of these 'females' to marry them."

The anonymous nurse complained that American soldiers, spoiled by their success in pursuing European women with candy bars and chewing gum instead of soft words of love, "are losing the art of wooing." She said:

"No wonder that we prefer French or British army personnel, whose subtlety, suavity, and glib phrases not only establish the proper setting, but practically make the results a foregone conclusion."

Many successful cooks have yet to learn the secret of preparing delicately tender eggs. Whether in water, frying pan, or oven, the first rule is to cook them with moderately low heat, and the second is to remove them from the heat as soon as they are congealed.

Here is the proper method for eggs in the shell: Place eggs in saucepan and cover with cold water. Gradually bring water to simmering and simmer 3 to 4 minutes for soft cooked, 5 to 8 minutes for medium cooked, and about 15 minutes for hard cooked eggs.

Another variation is to bring water to boiling, turn off heat, and gently lower eggs into water. Cover pan immediately. Let stand for 8 minutes for soft eggs. Medium eggs require about 10 minutes.

The best way to poach eggs is by putting them into a container which is placed in hot water. When an egg poacher is used, eggs retain a more attractive shape, but if they must be cooked directly in liquid break them into a saucer and slide them into a shallow pan of boiling, salted water [one tablespoon salt for every quart], and remove pan from heat. Cover, and let eggs remain in the hot water until firm. Lift out with a skimmer, trim, and serve.

The American version of fried eggs should properly be called sauteed. Melt a little fat in a frying pan and then drop eggs in, one at a time. Cook slowly until whites are firm. To cook over the top, dip the hot fat over the eggs or cover tightly with a lid. Several tablespoons of water may be added to create steam.

To insure a tender, fluffy product when scrambling eggs, use a double boiler. Add 1 tablespoon of milk to each egg, and season with salt and pepper. Pour the mixture into the top of a double boiler, and stir constantly until thickened.

There are several types of omelets. Some have a white sauce base and others use bread crumbs, but the type that requires the most skill is the fluffy or foamy omelet. Beat 3 egg whites until stiff, but not dry. Beat yolks with a pinch of salt and 3 tablespoons of milk. Fold whites and yolks together with an egg whisk and pour into a greased skillet. Cook slowly over low heat until well risen and slightly brown on the bottom. Place under a low broiler flame a few minutes to dry out top. Omelet may be folded or not, but should be served at once.

Even with the best of cooking methods, a poor egg can't be made to taste like a good one, so choose the highest grade for the breakfast table. An economical homemaker uses the other grades in cooking. To keep eggs from losing moisture and to prevent them from absorbing strong odors, wipe off soiled spots with a damp cloth and store in a covered bowl in the refrigerator.

If yolks are placed in a dish with enough cold water to cover them and egg whites in a jar or bowl with a tight lid, they will keep for several days in the refrigerator.

How to Use Honey, Sirup, Molasses to Save Sugar

Honey, sirup, and molasses may be substituted for sugar in cakes and cookies. Substitute honey for sugar, cup for cup, and cut down half the liquid used in the recipe. Sirup is substituted, cup for cup, and the liquid is reduced by one-third. Molasses is substituted in the same proportions as sirup but the baking powder is reduced by one teaspoon and one-half teaspoon soda is added for one cup of molasses.

Aged Woman Seeks a Stove; Radio Sought

BY SALLY JOY BROWN

[Sally Joy Brown department activities are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

A miscellaneous group of requests have come to our attention. We submit them, hoping that among our interested friends there will be those who can fill the needs.

Mrs. L. lives in a small rear flat in a shabby south side neighborhood. She has no other resources than the old age pension, and altho it supplies her daily requirements and medical needs, it cannot provide any allowance for additional expenditures. The approach of cold weather finds her without a stove, because the one she had last year was broken and worn beyond further repair and finally had to be discarded. A small size hard coal heater will supply sufficient warmth for her limited quarters and will be greatly appreciated.

Mrs. W. is a northwest side widow. She is in frail health and seldom is able to leave her home. She received the dread message that her son is missing in action and has been waiting months for further word. To help relieve the anxiety of long days and nights, she has requested a small radio, hoping that music and certain programs would serve to distract her.

A piano has been requested by Mrs. D., wife of an army man. He expects to return home shortly. He has always enjoyed music, and he looks forward to playing the piano as he did before entering the service nearly three years ago. However, with living expenses soaring, Mrs. D. can manage for herself and small daughter on the family allowance only by the strictest adherence to her budget. Any extra expense would be prohibitive, but she hopes that a discarded piano can be found for her husband.

A Whole Ham May Be Yours by Christmas

BY ARNOLD ERICKSON

When the American housewife goes to her ice box to get meat for her Christmas holiday meal this winter, she may find a whole smoked ham or a pork loin there. Low point values may make it possible that a family of four will get fair sized portions of meat.

Members of the stock yard trade group, who consistently made gloomy meat predictions to civilians thruout the meat shortage period, despite the many rosy promises by crop planners, agreed yesterday that it is safe now to dream of occasionally serving a platter of the almost extinct pork chops and more than a slice or two of ham. Such dreams may come true as early as Thanksgiving, they said.

When more pork becomes available in retail butcher shops it will be of more desirable quality than is now being served, because it will come from younger hogs. However, civilians are cautioned even yet against too much optimism over prospects for the immediate future.

They are warned that the whole ham or loin will remain a rare holiday treat for a time, available only to large families with many points to spend.

Pork production will increase substantially by mid-winter, but the final outcome for civilians hinges partly on how many hungry Europeans America will be called upon to feed.

The crux of the meat problem for many weeks has been in farm production rather than in foreign requirements, because production was forced down by lack of price incentive in federal planning. Packers received fewer hogs this month and last than in most of the pre-war years.

If the entire amount produced in these two months had been sold to Americans, their pork eating would have been 8 per cent less than in the same months of 1938 and lower than in 17 of the 19 years before the war. Total production next winter will fall well below the records of 1943-'44, but will rise seasonally far above the current volume, and reach a peak later than last year.

This Dessert Is Tasty and Tangy

A lime chiffon tart is a delightful company dessert. An individual serving like this eliminates the danger of an unattractive appearance when cut, yet is prepared as easily as a chiffon pie. To make six medium sized tarts:

Soften 1⅓ teaspoons plain gelatin in ⅛ cup cold water. Place in top of double boiler 4 egg yolks, ½ cup sugar, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 4 tablespoons lime juice, and grated rind of one large lime. Cook over boiling water until thick and smooth, stirring constantly. Remove from heat, stir in softened gelatin and cool. When slightly thickened, fold in 4 stiffly beaten egg whites to which ½ cup sugar has been added. Turn mixture into baked tart shells. Chill thoroly and top with whipped cream just before serving.

A Blind Sleuth Is Pretty Slick in This Movie

"THE HIDDEN EYE"

Produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, directed by Richard Whorf, featuring Edward Arnold, Frances Rafferty, Ray Collins, Paul Langton, and Bill Phillips. Presented at the Garrick.

By Mae Tinée

The title of this film about slick crooks and a slicker private detective refers, I presume, to the extraordinary perceptive powers of the blind. Edward Arnold plays McLain, a sightless sleuth with a knowledge of the distillation of perfumes, psychology, wrestling, and probably a lot of other things, who seeks to discover the culprit who has killed three men and has given a fourth, named Hampton, a feeling he might be next. Hampton is dubious of a blind man's abilities as a Sherlock Holmes until given a brief demonstration, whereupon he agrees that $25,000 for McLain's services is a bargain. [However, Mr. H. eventually gets killed. I wonder if that canceled the deal?]

Naturally, there's a girl, plus her fiance, who is the object of much circumstantial evidence, a not very bright policeman, a couple of kidnapings, and a guide dog named Friday who can open doors, bring ash trays, bark assent or dissent to a question, and attack a man when ordered to—so it all comes to the usual happy ending, with no one but me worrying about the detective's fee.

Mr. Arnold has polish and conviction in his work, even if, as a detective, he insists on doing things the hard way, but I do wish he wouldn't chuckle so much. The only other outstanding person in the cast is Bill Phillips, who does one very funny bit with a snooty glamor girl at a perfume counter.

The Same Slapstick

"ABBOTT AND COSTELLO IN HOLLYWOOD"

Produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, directed by S. Sylvan Simon, featuring Bud Abbott, Lou Costello, Frances Rafferty, Rags Ragland, Jan Porter, Mike Mazurki, Robert Stanton, and Warner Anderson. Also at the Garrick.

Abbott and Costello in the movie city are just like Abbott and Costello in any other place. [With the money they're making why should they change?]

It's the usual sort of slapstick, but this time the boys chase each other and are chased all over a studio lot, act as agents for a couple of young unknowns, and finally run riot during the shooting of a film which gives their clients a chance to star [one movie I don't want to see, by the way]. The first part of it isn't so bad, and there are a couple of laughable sequences, including that in which pudgy little Costello masquerades as a dummy and is treated as such, but the ending goes completely haywire, and it's dotted with some pokey singing sequences.

[Don't think there's anything wrong with you if you notice that some of the people in this opus look a great deal like those in the cast of the accompanying feature. They are the same people. Frances Rafferty and Bill Phillips are in both pictures.]

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Sept. 27—Gig Young, who has just been discharged from the coast guard, will join Ida Lupino and Errol Flynn in "Escape Me Never," on which production will start in about 10 days. Gig's last part before entering the service was with Bette Davis in "Old Acquaintances." . . . Capt. Gene Markey will be out of uniform in three or four weeks and then will pick up his writer-producer contract at 20th Century-Fox. . . . It is nice to know that life—and the American people—feel about Jimmy Stewart as we do. Jimmy's got to be mighty careful about the picture in which he makes his return to the screen, so Billy Grady of Metro is in New York City with him right now discussing it. But, in the meantime, how about giving us a revival of "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington"—or would that be too embarrassing for the gang that is settled there now? . . . It hasn't quite jelled yet, but Walter Pidgeon may join Greer Garson and Bob Montgomery in Metro's "Beloved Stranger." Whatta cast!

Bargain Basement in Good Stories

I note that Variety is surprised at the asking price of $650,000 for "The Late George Apley." Well, considering that Warner Bros. paid $500,000 for "Voice of the Turtle" [and we still don't know how they're going to get it on the screen], I think the "Apley" price is a bargain. . . . I am sorry to hear that Barbara Britton is allowing her new husband to manage her career as well as her marriage. She was going great guns, and it's a cinch the blame will be laid at his door if things turn difficult now. . . . Remember little Betty Brewer from Oklahoma, who sang for her supper outside the Brown Derby, landed a part in "Rangers of Fortune" and took eight members of her family off relief? Well, she's being tested for a contract at Universal. . . . Bob Hope's brother, Sid, has had his fifth major operation but is not expected to survive the week in St. Vincent's hospital in Toledo, O. . . . The late Al Smith will have a living monument every one can be proud of. Instead of building one of granite or stainless steel, a whole wing will be added to one of the big New York City hospitals in his memory.

Thanks for a Job Well Done

Since Eric Johnston, the new movie czar, has been eulogized by everybody in our industry, I'd like to say thank you to his predecessor, Will Hays, for a job well done. The "Deacon" took over when we had a censor in every whistle stop. . . . Quite a welcome awaits Lt. Bob Taplinger when he returns to Hollywood, Columbia, and Harry Cohn. . . . Speaking of Cohn, the pickets in front of his Gower st. studio play "I'm Just Wild About Harry" all day long over the loud speaker. But that ain't the way Harry feels about a well known producer he's peeved at now. Mr. Cohn declared, "Why, I won't even let him near Gower st.!" Hey, Cohn! That's a pretty long street! . . . Terry O'Donnell, Helen Jepson's brother, who's singing at the Last Frontier hotel in Las Vegas, got the nod from Joe Pasternak.

More About the Eddie Bracken Trip

The Eddie Brackens expect their third child in December. I received two letters yesterday about the Eddie Bracken overseas tour. The letters deserve comment. One is from a soldier stationed in Honolulu who read my story about Bracken in the Honolulu Advertiser before he saw it substantiated in "Stars and Stripes." He wrote that all enlisted men loved Eddie and his gang. Said he: "You ask any GI when he's out of uniform how he feels about many of the officers in foreign service." From a man not in uniform came a note saying the real reason for Eddie's difficulty was that his material was too suggestive . . . that, I would like to shove right back in the writer's teeth.

Thru the Looking Glass

How are you doing in the hair care department? We don't mean the complicated, oiling, and conditioning treatments, but the ordinary daily brushing and setting of pin curls and coaxing of waves into place each night before retiring? It's amazing, you know, what five minutes concentrated effort will do to give you shining, well groomed hair that always looks pretty and freshly dressed.

This department gets many inquiries, particularly from business girls, on what they can do to make their hair look nice. We almost always get a negative answer when we counter with the question of whether or not they use a hairbrush regularly. There really isn't anything that can come up to a good, daily brushing to keep the hair in condition and to make it sleek and live looking.

Brushing helps remove the day's accumulation of dirt and dust that dulls the locks. Brushing also coaxes back the natural oil to give the hair a becoming sheen. The older girls could take a tip from the teen-agers who use their brushes with gusto and whose hair reflects the attention it receives. It takes only a few minutes to give the tresses a rousing hundred strokes with a brush but they're worth as much as an hour or more spent at the hairdresser's.

Inbetween Age Child Usually Is Disorderly

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

From talking about what are individual standards of orderliness, and of the factor that parents' orderliness about the house may be in influencing children, we'll get down today to the cultivating [or trying to!] the habit in our children.

First, I will say that I do believe in training for orderliness. But I also believe we must take into consideration the fact that some persons are naturally orderly [perhaps born so] and some are not. I've seen people as children and then as nearly grown, and from the very same family, who were examples of this fact. One of these can't tolerate any disorder in his room, for instance; the other can ignore disorder quite calmly but has a system of periodical clearings-up of his closets, his writing table, and his bureau drawers when he can't find his way around in the confusion. So first you have a natural tendency to deal with.

The next thing I want to tell you is this: You mustn't be horrified when at about 9 or 10 [or perhaps earlier or later] your Joan or your John suddenly drops sweaters, skates, white mice cages, and baby doll blankets all around the house, and keeps his or her belongings in more or less of a scramble. When 4 or 5, these same offspring may have delighted you with their neatness. Of course this change may not come over your child, or it may not be so marked; but a laxness is pretty sure to crop up with the "inbetween" years, and often you can't do very much about it.

At this time a child loses a certain sort of interest in the small things and home doings, because his horizon has widened. But console yourself. Very frequently, when your John gets into his teens and becomes interested in his clothes, his room, and his "grooming," and when your Joan has "dates," and both are having young persons their own age at the house, a sense of orderliness frequently will revive.

So it helps us if we will take all these things into consideration when we are trying to put into effect our scheme for helping our child to be reasonably orderly.

Miller, attorney, as secretary.

Of the 2,500 active alumni, 150 attended the meeting. Edward Dahlin, attorney for the First National bank, will be in charge of the fund raising among the alumni, and Mrs. Coula Psaras Butler among the alumnae.

Smart Women Find Mesh Hose Ideal for Fall

BY REA SEEGER

The smartest women, both the young and the not-so-young, are wearing mesh hosiery with their new fall wool suits or with their tweeds. The mesh stockings, sometimes scorned in favor of tissue thin rayons, are particularly ideal with such casual clothes as the suits of scotch plaids, the bold big checks, the stripes, and the swank fleecy wool coats without fur. The mesh stockings go equally well with corduroy and velveteen outfits or with the good looking young suits composed of bright jackets and slim dark wool skirts. These are the stockings that come in smooth neutral shades and in all-purpose shades that complement any and every fall color used in dresses, suits, and coats.

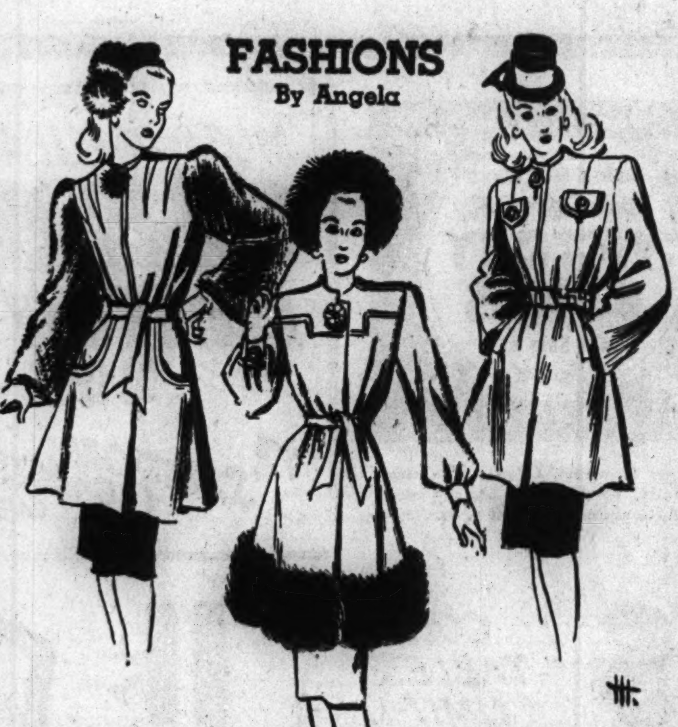
Many of the mesh variety are "Kantruns," a quality much appreciated by all who dislike the darning and mending chores. They're surprisingly thin and do manage the clever trick of taking away inches from the ankles. Add the fact that they'll outlast a couple of pairs of other kinds of stockings and you have the reason for their popularity.

There also are some lisle hosiery in neutral shades. They are correct for country life, for wear with sturdy country tweeds and woolens. These too, manage by some magic, all kinds of leg flattery even tho they are not so sheer as the mesh and the very thin rayons.

Nylons! They are mentioned only in whispers so far. There also is a rather perturbing word from the authorities that when nylons do appear, much of the fabric will be below pre-war standard. This will be a hazard only when the first supplies come out, a device to stretch the supplies. Later, nylon will be nylon without any devious mixing of the nylon with other threads. To be safe, control your appetite for nylons and wear the meshes and the rayons. They still are the smoothest stuff in town.

FASHIONS

By Angela



Popular shortie coats of the winter season have graceful lines and are either fur trimmed or plain. Wide sloping shoulders, deep armholes, soft wools rich in color, and collarless neck lines are but a few of the attractive features of these models.

Soft brown mouton sleeves in the cadet blue wool coat at left is a rich color combination flattering to all types. The collarless coat fastened at the neck line with a single mouton button has interesting dressmaker detail on each shoulder. Deep rounded pockets are noted below an inset belt. Above the belt in back is slight shirring which forms a slightly bloused back.

A soft electric blue wool coat in center is trimmed with rich black wolf. Outstanding detail of this coat is the shoulder yoke treatment, which is emphasized by a single decorative button at the stand-up neck line. Full sleeves fastened at the cuff have smaller matching buttons.

Untrimmed, but striking in its simplicity, is the gold colored model at right. Metallic buttons accent the simulated chest pockets and closing of the collarless neck line. This coat with its deep armholes and wide sleeves has loose, boxy lines, slit pockets and is tied at the waist line with a nailhead studded belt.

Chinese to Be Guests at Hull House Sunday

Hull House will be the setting at 3:30 p. m. Sunday for an informal social gathering of Chinese industrial trainees in the Chicago area who have been sent to this country by the Chinese government to study conditions here. About 800 trainees are in the United States with approximately 75 of them in the Chicago vicinity. B. E. Grant of New York, field representative of the China Institute in America, is collaborating with the East and West association in sponsoring the program. Arthur Lazarus of the East and West society is assisting with arrangements, and Russell V. Ballard, director of Hull House, will act as host.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 spade
Pass	1 no trump	Pass	2 spades
Pass	2 no trump	Pass	4 spades
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead, king of hearts.

The correct way to play certain combinations of cards may not be learned in parrot fashion. What might be proper in one case, can be very definitely wrong with the same cards in some other case. Abstract probabilities are less reliable than clues that have been obtained from the bidding.

The spade holding of declarer in today's hand presents a standard textbook problem. Where no information is available the best percentage play is to finesse the jack with the hope that it will drive out the ace. It is true that there is just as much chance that the jack will lose to the queen, and that the king would have held up. These cases cancel each other in frequency. But there is the case in which both honors and a small one are on the right of the king, in which case the play of the jack will be superior.

However, when specific information is available from the conduct of the adversaries, this play must frequently be varied. The declarer did not give this hand his best delivery. It was rubber bridge where the safety of the contract is of paramount interest and the scoring of overtricks should be given only mild consideration. The king of hearts held the opening lead and the ace followed. This was ruffed by declarer who, remembering what the textbook said about handling this trump combination, led the jack of diamonds and overtook with the king. The nine of spades was permitted to ride and went to South's queen. Then came the club shift and declarer had no recourse but to take the finesse. When this lost he was sunk.

That North held the ace of spades was a moral certainty. It must be recalled that South had passed and then shown up with a heart suit headed by the ace and king. If he also had the ace of spades he would no doubt have bid. Declarer should be perfectly willing to lose two trump tricks, provided he does not let South in to lead a club thru before trumps are out. The safest play at trick three is the king of spades. North will win the trick, but cannot attack the club suit. He will return a heart which declarer ruffs and plays the jack of spades. The trick is won by South who shifts to a club, but the finesse is not taken and the remaining club can be discarded on dummy's good diamonds. When a rubber is there for the asking it is not the time to delve into percentages.

[The usual weekly quiz will appear tomorrow.]

CARDS LOSE, 5-2; CUBS CLINCH PENNANT TIE

EXPECT FIRST ILLINI VICTORY IN IRISH SERIES

Devore Fears Foe's Strong Defense

BY WILFRID SMITH
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 27—A university of Illinois football team never has defeated Notre Dame, but there is an undercurrent of pessimism here over the 1945 squad which opens the 57th season Saturday against the Illini. Loyal Irish fans hope it won't be so, but they fear the worst from Illinois, which already has decisively beaten Pittsburgh in preparation for the battle in the brick stadium Knute Rockne built.

Illinois admittedly has pointed for Saturday's game. One touchdown defeats—Illinois lost last year 13 to 7—have rankled and the scoreless tie in 1937 has been no satisfaction compared to seven victories for Notre Dame. The advantage of playing at home before a partisan crowd may be a decisive factor, but Hugh Devore, Notre Dame's coach, scarcely has more on which to anchor hope of victory.

Devore Looks Ahead

It's an old story, but when the Irish lost Frank Szymanski, center, and Marty Wendell, full back, they lost their best line backers. These rugged veterans had been counted on to smash any attack successfully penetrating the front line. Yet, Devore today did not dwell at length on what Notre Dame might have had. His worries now revolve primarily around the defense he anticipates from Illinois.

"Illinois has a veteran line, big enough and fast enough to stop our rushing game," Devore conceded. "George Bujan is a great center on defense behind the Illinois line. We thought perhaps we might make ground on the other side where Jerry Cies [Illinois full back] defends, but our scouts report that Coach Eliot replaces him with Mac Wenskunas on defense." Wenskunas is Bujan's alternate at center on offense.

They're Tough to By-Pass

"Then, when Illinois wishes to use a five man line with three backers-up," Devore continued, "Eliot drops Bill Heiss back from left end. Heiss, Bujan, and Wenskunas will be tough to by-pass. We also have a lot of respect for Les Bingaman and Ralph Serpico. Last year Illinois didn't rush our passers, but the setup now looks as tho they may rush Saturday.

"Bingaman lined up in front of Pitt's center and gave him a drubbing. Serpico is hard to block any time. Right now we are not giving our passer, Frank Dancewicz, the protection he had last year. Maybe it'll be different Saturday. We certainly hope so."

Devore probably is correct in that if Notre Dame wins it may be by forward passing. The Irish, as a unit, are not fast and there is no climax runner, such as Bob Kelly last season, to loosen up the defense. Dancewicz is a superlative passer, a fine leader, and he also will do the punting. His relief man will be George Ratterman.

Walsh Is Hope at Center

When the navy transferred Wendell to Great Lakes, Frank Ruggerio, 200 pounder from Orange, N. J., moved into the No. 1 full back spot. John Panelli, a freshman from Morristown, N. J., was shifted from right half to understudy Ruggerio.

Bill Walsh, husky Irishman who also comes from New Jersey, is the hope at center. Walsh, who will play his first collegiate game Saturday, has a fine future, the coaches say. They also agree he needs experience and he'll get his first lesson Saturday. Walsh is one of three freshmen now assigned to the varsity eleven. The others are Bill Leonard, right end, and Phil Colella, 20 year old discharged service man from Rochester, Pa.

Notre Dame's stadium will not be sold out, perhaps a reflection of the uncertainty in the public mind over Irish prospects since 60,000 saw last year's Illinois-Notre Dame game in Champaign. Attendance Saturday probably will be 40,000.

At least 1,500 Illinois rooters will invade South Bend for the game, for that many tickets have been sold in Champaign.

Here's Your Answer, Bill

In re Bill R.'s comment on Minnesota vs. Notre Dame, I didn't have to look up the scores. I already knew they had played five football games and the closest the Gophers came to a victory was a 7 to 7 tie on old Cartier field when Rockne was coach. I'll admit I never was intoxicated with joy at any of those games, but, anyway, there I was, intoxicated.

QUESTION NOW IS WHAT BECAME OF CUBS' PROTEST?

The Cubs' protest of Wednesday's losing game against the St. Louis Cardinals last night was in as bewildering a state as the situation from which it originated. The game wound up with the Cards listed as 11 to 6 winners, after Manager Charley Grimm of the Cubs had announced in the seventh inning that the Chicagoans were playing under protest.

Yesterday, Vice President Jim Gallagher of the Cubs declined to make any comment on the case other than to say the decision rested with Ford Frick, president of the National league. Frick, in New York, said he had not received any official protest. Grimm, in Cincinnati, said he and Gallagher, after the game, had made several attempts to get in touch with Frick by telephone, but could not reach him. The Cub manager added that when he left the Chicago office, Gallagher still was trying to locate Frick, and assumed that the protest had been filed.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 27 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates beat back the National league pennant challenge of the Cardinals tonight by defeating St. Louis, 5 to 2, and leaving the club only the possibility of a tie with the leading Chicago Cubs.

Elwin [Preacher] Roe handcuffed the Cardinals with three hits to assure the Pirates fourth place in the league.

The Cardinals suffered disaster in the very first inning. A three hit, three run barrage drove Lefty George Dockins to cover and big Al Jurisich, a right hander, came to the rescue. Jurisich pitched brilliantly, but the damage had been done.

Handley Leads Off with Hit

Jeep Handley greeted Dockins with a single, and Tommy O'Brien followed suit. Handley scored when Outfielder Johnny Hopp let O'Brien's drive get away from him for an error. Bob Elliott walked. Frankie Gustine sacrificed, putting O'Brien and Elliott on third and second, respectively, and Johnny Barrett brought them both home with a line single to right center.

The Cards filled the bases in the third and Roe gave them a run by walking George Kurowski. Jurisich got on first thru an error, Al Schoendienst singled, and Buster Adams walked to set the stage for the pass to Kurowski, scoring Jurisich.

Score One in Fifth

Hopp's single and Buster Adams' double against the left field fence—both coming after two were out—gave the Cards another run, their last, in the fifth.

Roe beat out a single in the eighth inning for the first hit off Jurisich, who then walked Jim Russell and was greeted by a lusty double to left by Elliott. This gave the Pirates two more runs and clinched the game.

Handley left the game in the third inning with a split index finger on his right hand, injured in fielding a hot grounder. Elliott took over third base.

Nine thousand fans saw the game, which was completed just before a light rain began falling over Forbes field.

NATIONALS WIN OPENING BATTLE IN NAVY SERIES

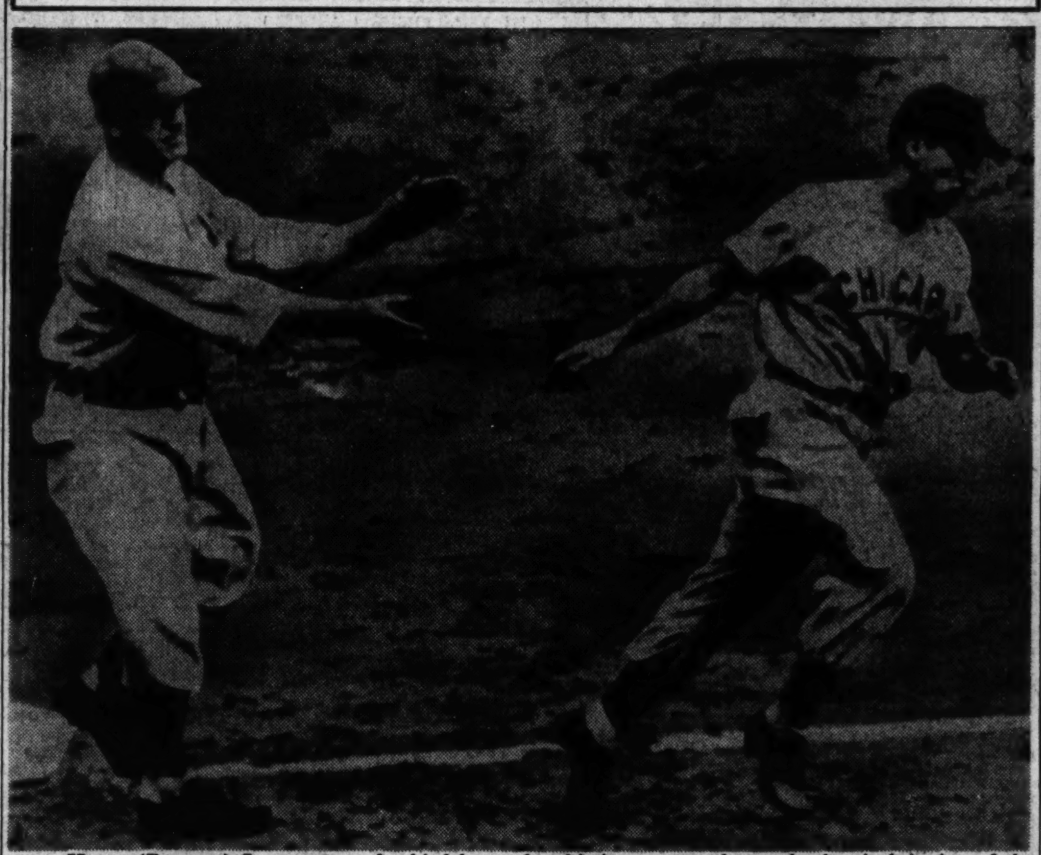
PEARL HARBOR, Sept. 27 (AP)—A ninth inning double by Hugh Casey, former Brooklyn Dodger, gave the National League All-Stars a 6 to 5 victory over the American Leaguers in the opening game of their intra-navy series. Casey, who pitched the eighth inning, drove home Ray Lamanno, erstwhile Cincinnati Red, with the decisive run.

The Navy's own little world series is the best four out of seven. The teams are made up of former major leaguers.

Lou Tost, formerly of the Boston Braves, who pitched the ninth inning, got credit for the victory. Home runs by Stan Musial, ex-St. Louis Cardinal, Lamanno, and Bob Kennedy, formerly with the Chicago White Sox, were the big blows of the game.

Ted Williams, the former Boston Red Sox slugger, got a single out of four trips to the plate. He had his big chance in the ninth but popped out with two on base.

IT ALL ADDS UP TO A GREAT DAY FOR CUBS



Harry (Peanuts) Lowrey rounds third base after hitting two run homer in the sixth inning of the first game of yesterday's Cub-Red double header in Cincinnati. Manager Charley Grimm is applauding Harry, naturally. The Cubs won twice, 3 to 1, and 7 to 4. [Associated Press Wirephotos]

GALLARNEAU TO JOIN BEARS FOR GREEN BAY GAME

BY EDWARD PRELL
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Collegeville, Ind., Sept. 27—A telephone call from Chicago at noon today told the Bears what they had been expecting for several days—Hugh Gallarneau's on his way. Hugh is so far on his way that he will arrive in time to join the Chicago eleven for its National Football league opener in Green Bay Sunday against the Packers, 1944 champions.

Jubilation of the Bears' coaches and players over the Gallarneau announcement was tempered by doubt that the one time Stanford star will be in shape to jump immediately into competition with his old time skill.

Has 124 Discharge Points

Ralph Brizzolara, acting president of the Bears, said in his message from Chicago that Gallarneau, a captain in the marine corps, will be released from active duty in time to meet the team in Green Bay. Hugh, who was with the Bears' great teams in 1941 and 1942, has played no service football. He hasn't had the time, what with earning six or seven battle stars in the South Pacific and 124 discharge points. He has been working out with Lt. Col. Dick Hanley's El Toro, Cal., marine squad.

Gallarneau will be the second prewar Bear to return. The first one was Capt. Ken Kavanaugh, army flyer, whose last season was 1941. Ken rejoined the Bears the day they met the Philadelphia Eagles in an exhibition in Bethlehem, Pa., and caught three touchdown passes.

McLean May Return

Possibility of Ray [Scooter] McLean's return also is providing an undercurrent of excitement. The speedy little New Englander may or may not show up in Green Bay, but he definitely will play in some of the Bears' league games, particularly those on eastern gridirons. Like Gallarneau, he is a right half back. McLean last summer announced his retirement.

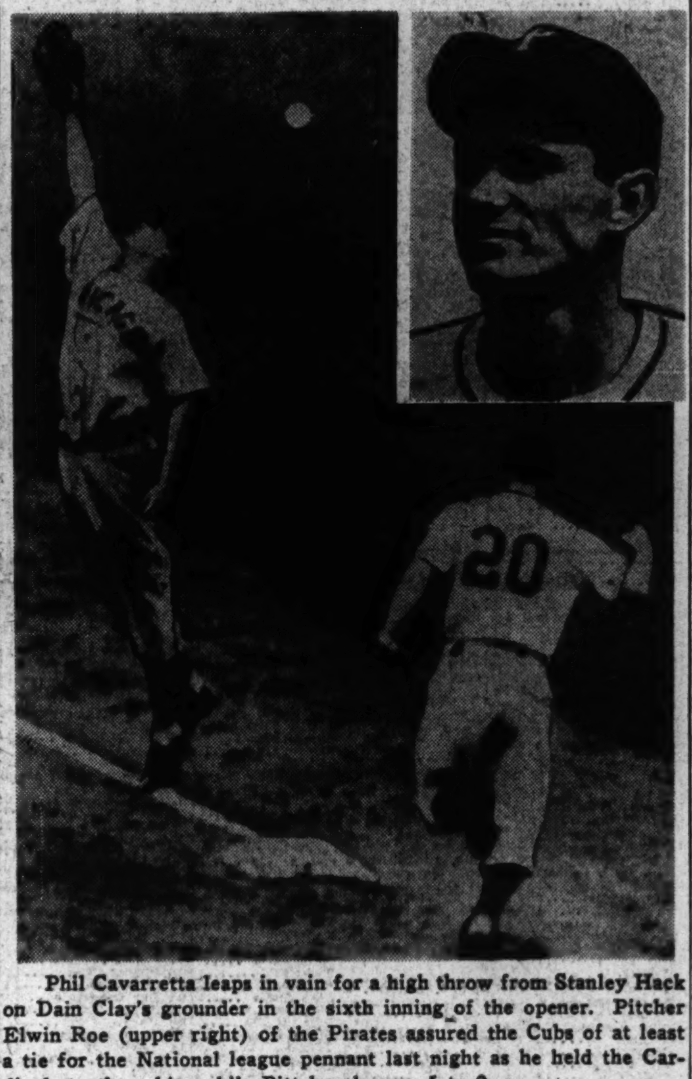
Other right half backs on the squad are Al Grygo, Joe Vodica, and Paul Mitchell, a first year player from the University of Tulsa. Mitchell, who played with the College All-Stars in their losing battle with Green Bay last month, is anxious again to oppose the champions.

MEL OTT SIGNS FIVE YEAR PACT TO PILOT GIANTS

New York, Sept. 27 (AP)—Mel Ott, completing his 20th season with the New York Giants and his fourth as a manager, today signed a contract to pilot the club for the next five years.

Red Smith Signs as Aid on Staff at Columbia

New York, Sept. 27 (AP)—Red Smith, one of the coaches of the Chicago Cubs and also end coach of the New York football Giants, today signed to coach the ends at Columbia university.



Phil Cavarretta leaps in vain for a high throw from Stanley Hack on Dain Clay's grounder in the sixth inning of the opener. Pitcher Elwin Roe (upper right) of the Pirates assured the Cubs of at least a tie for the National league pennant last night as he held the Cardinals to three hits while Pittsburgh won, 5 to 2.

Scalpers Ask $50 for Series Tickets, if They Can Get 'Em

"World series tickets? Did you say world series tickets, sir? W-e-l-l——"

The bell captain in a leading loop hotel last night was startled by the query, as tho you were asking him for a dozen pounds of butter and a barrel of sugar. Yet, the young man managed to pull himself together and direct the questioner to another point in the lobby.

"You might try the ticket agency, sir, altho I doubt if they have any."

The searcher after ducats to the battle between the Chicago Cubs and Detroit Tigers [all loyal, Chicagoans hope] repeated the question to the young woman seated beneath a sign advertising tickets to all manner of entertainment.

"Would you have any tickets for sale to the world series?"

A Slight Handling Charge

"We haven't received them yet, but expect them at any time, sir."

"And how much will they be?" the potential customer asked.

"We expect to sell a strip of box seats for the three games at $150 per strip. The grandstand strip of one ticket for each of the three games will be $75. Did you wish to make a reservation?"

The customer, having picked himself up off the floor of the lobby, stuttered, "No thank you," and proceeded on his way. He had read in these columns last Tuesday morning that the Cub management had set a slightly lower scale, with a strip of grandstand papers selling at $18.35, and box seats for the Chicago threesome at $21.95. The Cubs, who have conducted all their ticket business thru the mails, already are returning tardy orders, having announced a sellout in the event that their team wins the National league pennant.

Can't Thwart Scalpers

The Cubs have made every effort to thwart a scalpers' raid, altho realizing that a certain percentage of tickets is bound to find its way into their hands. A hotel manager who is one of the city's leading sports fans pointed out that many of these will be obtained at a premium from Chicagoans who received their tickets thru the regular channels.

If the foregoing incident is mistaken for an exceptional case, consider that the ticket-hunter found the same situation prevailing at five other locations in the loop. Another hotel agency repeated the $150-$75 scale would be effective and further added that it expected to have its tickets by Monday.

Two independent brokers confessed they didn't have any ducats on hand, but expected them in shortly. Asked how much each would bring, these two said, "We don't know yet, but they'll be high, plenty high."

Trucks Ready to Help Tigers in Last Two Games

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 27 (AP)—Virgil Trucks and Hal Newhouser, in that order, were the Detroit Tigers' pitching nominations today for a two game week-end series at St. Louis following word from Trucks that the 26 year old right hander had received his navy discharge at Norman, Okla., and was en route to rejoin the club for which he pitched 30 victories in 1942 and 1943.

Manager Steve O'Neill said Trucks informed him he would be in St. Louis Saturday ready to work.

The welcome reinforcement to the Tiger mound corps, however, gave O'Neill an opportunity to hold Hal Newhouser, Detroit's ace left hander, until the Sunday windup if the Tigers don't clinch the American league pennant by winning Saturday.

BY EDWARD BURNS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 25—The league leading Chicago Cubs ran their margin over the second place St. Louis Cardinals to 2½ games today with a double victory over the Reds, 3 to 1 and 7 to 4, then sat around their radios tonight and saw their lead grow to three games as the Cards lost to the Pirates in Pittsburgh.

These happy results assured the Cubs of at least a tie for the National league championship as they have only three games to play. St. Louis, with the same number left, will be out of the running if it loses one or Chicago wins one.

And now for some of the other statistics: The Cubs tied the major league record by beating the Reds 21 out of 22. They beat the Braves by that ratio in 1909, the Yankees so overshadowed the Browns in 1927, and the Pirates took all but one of their 22 games with the Reds in 1937.

That Makes 19 Double Sweeps.

The Cubs also fattened their new major league record by increasing their double header sweeps to 19, seven of which were over the Reds.

Hank Wyse and Paul Derringer joined Claude Passeau as pitchers who have whipped the Reds five times each this season. Today's two pitchers lifted the total of complete winning games by Cub starters to 74, which may be hard to believe for those who Wednesday saw Manager Charley Grimm tie a National league record by employing seven pitchers in the final with the Cardinals.

In the first game Hank Wyse rang up his 22d victory of the year. It was Wyse's 21st complete winning game and the 23d in which he has started and finished. The success established Hank as the first Cub pitcher to win 22 since Bill Lee contributed that total to the pennant of 1938.

The Chicago victory total now is 95, six more than the number with which they won their last pennant in 1938 and five above the total with which they captured their first one for Charley in 1932.

Play Pirates Twice Tomorrow

So much for the statistics. The Cubs will leave here tomorrow noon for Pittsburgh, where they will play a double header with the Pirates Saturday, with Hank Borowy and Passeau doing the pitching. They will conclude the National league season there in a single game Sunday. The Cardinals' double header here with the Reds has been moved up to Saturday, and they too will play a single game Sunday.

The Cub attack in the first game against Ed Heusser, only Red pitcher who beat the Chicagoans in 1945, was concentrated in the sixth inning. The blast included a pass to Roy Hughes, the only unintentional walk dealt by Heusser, a sacrifice by Wyse, Don Johnson's second double and the second Cub hit of the game, and Harry Lowrey's seventh homer of the season. Phil Cavarretta singled and Andy Pafko doubled later. That made four hits in the inning toward the Cubs' first game overall total of five.

The Reds scored their lone run in the seventh, when two of the three hits off Wyse—by Eddie Miller and Al Lakeman—came together, followed by a force play. Johnson suffered a wrenched neck in a collision with Umpire Babe Pinelli at the time of Lakeman's hit and was removed to Christ hospital for observation. He was discharged tonight.

Phil, Peanuts Hit Triples

Big scoring factors in the second game were triples by Cavarretta and Lowrey, Cavarretta's big smack in the first inning driving in two runs and Lowrey's accounting for two in the ninth, after the Reds had come within one run of a tie by scoring their third and fourth runs off Derringer, in the eighth.

Derringer was much better than usual, except in two two-run innings, the second, in which the Reds tied the score, and that eighth inning splurge after Stan Hack had

FIGHTING STEP IS HAWTHORNE PURSE FAVORITE

Heavy Track to Liking of Speedy 3 Year Old

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN

Fighting Step, a 3 year old son of Fighting Fox which races for Mrs. R. J. Murphy and Miss Susan Kellogg of Evansville, Ind., will have to give away weight in tomorrow's $15,000 Hawthorne handicap, it was revealed yesterday when Racing Secretary L. C. Bogenschutz made public his allotments.

The colt which won the American Derby at Homewood and then scored two impressive victories at Hawthorne, must lug 123 pounds over the mile and a furlong of tomorrow's race. Several candidates for the event which are older have been comparatively lightly weighted.

Speed Is Unquestioned

Among these are Mrs. Clyde Troutt's Take Wing, David Strauss' Daily Trouble, and the Happy Hour farm's Devalue, each of which is to pack 114 pounds.

Indications are, however, that Fighting Step will go postward a staunchly backed favorite, perhaps at odds-on. His ability to last the route has been proven and his early speed is unquestioned. The fact that the track probably will be muddy will not militate against his chances, either.

Favorite Wins Feature

Altho longshots had been plentiful in the earlier races, a well-backed public choice came home in the day's feature, a mile and a sixteenth race called the Plucky Play and run as the sixth. Georgie South had Leo J. Caillouette's Joe's Choice away smartly and the 3 year old colt was in front virtually every step of the way to win by five lengths. He paid $4.80 in the mutuels.

Despite intermittent rains, the wagering yesterday was brisk, the day's total being $996,387.

BADGERS EXPECT 40,000 WILL SEE 1ST HOME GAME

Madison, Wis., Sept. 27 [Special]—With the selection of Harold Haberman, a freshman, to start at right end, the University of Wisconsin lineup appears set for the home football season opener against Marquette before 40,000 Saturday.

Haberman started against Great Lakes but it was believed that the veteran Jack Mead would be ready to start against the Hilltoppers. The remainder of the first team line will have Ray Mals at end, Martin Meyer and Clarence Esser at the tackles, Wray George and Hank Fricke at the guards and Hal Faverty at center. Jerry Thompson and Buck Chaney will be the half backs, with Ben Bendrick at full back and George Fuchs at quarter.

MORE FRESHMEN WIN JOBS

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 27 (AP)—Two more freshmen today apparently had won starting positions on the Marquette university football team for Saturday's game with Wisconsin in Madison.

On their showing in this week's scrimmages it seems that Bill Hickey, quarter back from Chicago St. Ignatius High school, and Denny Pantzlaff, full back from Bonduel, Wis., have earned varsity jobs.

Austin, Fenger Elevens Open City League Races Today

Austin, defending city football co-champion with Tilden Tech, and west section title holder in the City league, and Fenger, 1944 south section champion, today start defense of their laurels as play opens in both sections. The north and central sections began prep league competition last week.

Meanwhile Catholic league fans will get a preview of the 1945 race as four north section elevens jump the opening gun tonight and play two contests, altho the big push in the parochial school circuit will come Sunday.

In the City league, two games are scheduled in the west section and one in the north. South side fans have a choice of three, including the important Parker-Fenger meeting at 7:30 p. m. in Shewbridge field.

Austin, which demonstrated power in walloping Lane, 16 to 0, and Fenwick, 27 to 20, in practice games, meets Steinmetz in Key Branch stadium. Steinmetz lost to Evanston of the Suburban league, 19 to 0, in a tune up last week, and previously dropped a 6 to 0 decision to Crane.

Lose Star Half Back

The Austin eleven, coached by Bill Helland, undoubtedly will be weakened by the loss of Half Back Bob Finn, who suffered a fractured leg in scoring his third touchdown against Fenwick. At the time Finn was removed from the Fenwick game, Austin led, 20 to 0.

The second west section game is a meeting between Crane, which lost to Oak Park, 7 to 0, in the fourth quarter last week after its victory over Steinmetz, and Kelvyn Park in Hanson park.

Sharing the interest in the south section will be the night meeting between Parker and Fenger. Parker finished second to the Titans in the south section last season and only a 19 to 12 loss to Calumet at the season's end kept the Parker eleven from tying. Parker and Fenger did not meet in 1944, this creating much discussion over which had the better team.

One Veteran Returns

This season, Fenger has only Full Back Bob Carlson returning from the 1944 crew that lost to Lane in the semi-final playoffs, 8 to 7, and around Carlson Coach Chuck Palmer has attempted to rebuild his squad.

At Parker, Coach Tony Antonides seems to have the better of the situation. Six of last year's starting team have returned, including the entire right side of the line and Center Sid Stein. In the back field, Bob Plotkin and Galan Cheuvront are back. The returning linemen beside Stein are Glenn Goreiss, end; Bill Noonan, tackle, and Bob Potishil, guard.

In an afternoon meeting in Shewbridge field Harper plays Calumet while the third south section game is between South Shore and Morgan Park in 83d and Yates stadium.

Lane Meets Taft

Lane Tech, which started defense of its north section crown with a 13 to 0 victory over Roosevelt when Alex Cichanski scored two touchdowns, meets Taft, 12 to 7 conqueror of Amundsen in its league opener. This game, in Winnemac park, is the only other City league contest scheduled.

A St. Philip High school eleven which appeared strong in beating Mount Carmel, 14 to 13, two weeks ago and then defeated De La Salle, 27 to 6, as Joe Petruzzi scored four times, settles down to official business when it meets Holy Trinity, newest member of the Catholic league, in St. Philip Memorial stadium.

The second Catholic league game is between St. Patrick and Loyola, in Loyola stadium.

Michigan Set for Air Drive by State Foe

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 27 [Special]—Improvement of aerial offense occupied University of Michigan football players and coaches this afternoon as they tapered off for Saturday's renewal of rivalry with Michigan State college.

Coach H. O. [Fritz] Crisler directed his charges thru a long passing drill but took time to place almost equal emphasis on defensive tactics aimed against State's aerial game. The Wolverines expect considerable passing by the Spartans, since Charley Bachman, State coach, has promoted Bob Ludwig, Muskegon freshman, to the starting backfield.

ILLINI END DRILLS TODAY

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 27 [Special]—The Illinois football team will take a final workout in Memorial stadium tomorrow morning before leaving by bus for South Bend, Ind., and the game with Notre Dame Saturday.

Today's workout was light, with special attention on passing, kicking, and defense. Bill Butkovich and Clyde Perkins, quarter backs, did the punting, while the passing also was handled by these two, plus Charley Starks, Eddie Bray, Jack Pierce, Al Zimmerman, and Tom Zaborac, half backs. Les Bingaman appeared in good form on kick-offs.

Eddie McGovern, who was operated on last week for appendicitis, has been discharged from the hospital, and he watched practice today.

OHIO EXPECTS 40,000

Columbus, O., Sept. 27 [Special]—Indications today were that more than 40,000 will see Ohio State open its football season Saturday against Missouri.

On the practice field today the Buckeyes had a rather easy workout in which the repertoire of plays was run thru, followed by a tag scrimmage in which the "B" squad simulated the Missouri defense.

BIKE STARS EYE MARKS IN ELGIN TO CHICAGO RACE

The nine amateur bicycle riders who will start from scratch in the 19th annual Elgin to Chicago handicap race Sunday afternoon sponsored by the George F. Barrett A. C., will be out to set several new records for the event.

They will be trying to better the time of 2:31.58 made in 1939 by Bob Kaergard of the Catholic Youth organization who captured the first time prize in both 1939 and 1940. This is at the rate of 23 miles an hour, fast riding on the course which includes many hills around Algonquin and Mount Prospect. Ted Smith of Buffalo, N. Y., national champion, and Arthur Lauf, holder of the national road racing championship, are among the entries.

PAY-OFF EASES ROBINSON AND LAMOTTA PAIN

BY FRANK MASTRO

The unpopular decision Ray [Sugar] Robinson, New York welterweight, was awarded over Jack Lamotta in a 12 round bout in Comiskey park Wednesday night was the chief topic of conversation along the boxing rialto yesterday.

Few could be found who would agree with the split decision the officials voted Robinson after the 12 round fight, which Robinson described as the hardest of his five meetings with Lamotta, including the one he lost in Detroit in February, 1943. Most of the 14,755 spectators thought Lamotta deserved at least a draw.

Both Are Disappointed

Both boxers were disappointed, Robinson because of his showing and Jack because of the verdict. However, each was consoled by the large price he received yesterday. Robinson was paid a $25,000 guarantee and Lamotta $20,700. Net receipts were $74,434.01.

Jack Kearns, matchmaker for the Coliseum Athletic club, which sponsored the battle, said the show will not lose any money. He added he wouldn't know until the financial statement is completed today or tomorrow whether there will be any profit.

Ray Changes His Mind

Robinson, who will remain in this vicinity for the world series, thought the extra three pounds he carried [he weighed 150] robbed him of some of his speed, but, in almost the same breath he changed his mind and said the additional poundage probably helped him withstand the pounding he received. Lamotta was the aggressor thruout and appeared to have an edge in eight of the rounds.

Lamotta's only comment before returning to New York yesterday was: "I thought I won all the way."

Here's How Fight Was Scored

Referee Johnny Behr and Judge Frank Clark each scored for Robinson, 61 to 59, but Art Oberg, the other judge, voted for Lamotta, 63 to 57. To arrive at his decision, Clark had to give Ray a 7 to 3 advantage in the sixth round, unusual unless a knockdown is scored.

The officials' cards:

CLARK
Lamotta ....554 563 456 664—59
Robinson ....556 547 654 446—61
BEHR
Lamotta ....444 554 466 665—59

OBERG
Lamotta ....544 664 466 666—63
Robinson ....566 446 644 444—57

The preliminary program cost a total of $3,300. Amounts and results of these bouts follow:

Odell Riley, $800, beat Lee Q. Murray, $500 [8], heavyweights.
Van McNutt, $500, beat Eddie Taylor, $400 [6], middleweights.
Joey Lamotta, $500, stopped Marty Doyle, $200 [2], middleweights.
Jack Pumphrey, $100, beat Leroy Thompson, $100 [4], heavyweights.
Pete Jackson, $50, knocked out Bill Mosby, $150 [1], middleweights.

Other contests, including three between boxers from Elgin and Chicago, follow:

BROWN SERIES IS SHOWDOWN FOR JITTERY TIGERS

They Need One Victory in Two Games

BY IRVING VAUGHAN

One victory to go to clinch a pennant sounds easy. It even sounds the same if the one victory has to come out of two games remaining on the schedule. That's the setup now facing the Tigers as the American league race approaches its finish but, how well the Tigers will face what awaits them is something different. They are not exactly in shape to fight off a tie with the Washington Senator. and once in a tie they might easily be dead ducks in a one game play-off.

The state, mental and otherwise, of the Tigers is best appreciated by the fact that they have won only three games out of nine since they reared up in Washington Sept. 15 and slapped down their pursuers in a double header. It's all a story of a shattered pitching staff and intermittent attacks of jitters both offensively and defensively.

They Have Cooled Off

When the Tigers cracked down on the Senators in that double header, it gave them a two and one-half game lead with a mark of 84 victories and 59 defeats. The Senators, since that unhappy afternoon have won four while losing the same number, the pace being sufficient to cut the margin between themselves and the leaders to the point where they are assured a tie if the Tigers win neither of their wind-up games in St. Louis tomorrow and Sunday.

The artistic staggering done not alone by the Tigers but also by the other would-be world series entrants—the Senators—should be heartening to such fans as prefer National league baseball over the American league variety.

Pitchers Are O'Neill's Problem

Steve O'Neill, the boss of the Tigers, not only has to figure what pitcher is to win that needed game either tomorrow or Sunday but also for the world series opener next Wednesday. And if the one victory isn't attained in St. Louis he'll have to be prepared for the Monday playoff as well as the possible series opener, altho if it gets to the playoff point the Tigers' chances of holding to their first place edge will have to be considered poor.

On paper O'Neill's one hope seems to be Hal Newhouser, the 24 game winner who appear to have the knack of bringing out the best in his associates. Paul Trout has been so shaky the last two weeks that he should be sidetracked at least until world series time. Al Benton, altho he pitches excellent ball is suffering from the knockout complex which is aggravated by his mates' failure to score runs in his behalf. O'Neill may have to turn, at least for tomorrow's game to such as Stubby Overmire, Tom Bridges or even Virgil Trucks hoping for a victory that will clinch the flag and thus eliminate the necessity of working Newhouser before the series.

RUFFING AND YANKEES BEAT ATHLETICS, 8-1

New York, Sept. 27 (AP)—The Yankees, retaining a chance to finish third in the American league standing, wrote a dismal finish to the Philadelphia Athletics' season today by whipping the A's, 8 to 1, behind Red Ruffing.

The big ex-soldier won his seventh victory since he was discharged from the army by combining a home run with six hit pitching. Ruffing hit his first home run with two on base in the second inning to get away to a good start.

M'CARTHY WILL RETAIN HIS JOB, MACPHAIL SAYS

HAVANA, Cuba, Sept. 27 (AP)—Joe McCarthy will be retained as manager of the New York Yankees, President Larry MacPhail said today.

"Joe will be right out there hustling the boys along until he decides to retire," said MacPhail, who flew to Havana this week to arrange for spring training quarters for the Yankees here next February.

The Yankee boss spiked rumors he planned to replace McCarthy with Leo Durocher.

Pihos, Brown Join Indiana Squad for Battle with N. U.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT

Time was when Col. Alvin Nugent [Bo] McMillin of Indiana held a personal copyright on the tattered phrase "my pore little boys," as used in describing a football team. Authors used to weep when the colonel squeezed the maximum in tears from each syllable in his standard lament.

More than often, Bo was right in his lachrymose appraisals of his young men, but such will not be the case this afternoon when he brings his Hoosiers to town for tomorrow's battle against Northwestern's Wildcats in Dyche stadium. The pore-little-boy appellation should be far more aptly applied to Lynn Waldorf's lads, altho the latter allowed yesterday that he has no intention of pulling out the stop on the old dirge, for all that he is in position to do so.

Hoosiers at Top Strength

As for Col. McMillin, he will land here shortly after noon with the team which is leading the Western conference with a 1.000 rating, off of its 13 to 7 conquest of Michigan last Saturday in Ann Arbor. Bo yesterday was heard to state in Bloomington that the Hoosier company, 36 strong, was in top condition for the first time this year.

Then, just as the Hoosiers departed for an overnight stay in Indianapolis, he announced that two old Hoosier hands—Pete Pihos, 1943 All-American end, and Howard [Goon] Brown, outstanding 1942 guard—had rejoined his cast and would see action against Northwestern tomorrow.

Pihos is no stranger to Chicagoans, being a native of this city, where he attended Austin High school. Pete ranks as one of Indiana's all-time greats, and was a member of the 1943 College All-Stars. He was commissioned a lieutenant on the battlefield and wears four battle stars for his service in Germany and France. Brown also has just returned from combat duty in Europe. Like Pihos, he has reentered the university and is attending classes while awaiting discharge. Both men are on 45 day furloughs.

PETE PIHOS

Only Two Real Veterans

Waldorf's youthful charges, who opened their season last Saturday with an 18 to 6 victory over Iowa State, numbered 34 in that contest, of whom 22 were participating in the first college game of their lives. Lynn's starting lineup will include four freshmen. Of the five lettermen who will be on duty at the kick-off, Capt. Max Morris, leading Big Nine basketball scorer last season, and Dick Conners, half back, are the real veterans. Ray Miller, who won a letter at end last fall, will open at center, while Bill Travers, a monogram-winning guard in 1944, will be the Wildcats' starting full back.

Cubs Win 2; Increase Lead to 3 Games

upset the temperamental star with a throwing error.

Here's the way the Cubs broke loose in the sixth inning of the first game, Hughes drew Heusser's first pass and moved up on Wyse's sacrifice. Hack flied to Hank Sauer for the second out, but Johnson knocked his second double, also Chicago's second hit, scoring Hughes. Lowrey then knocked the ball over the left field wall for his seventh homer of the year to score behind Johnson. Cavarretta singled to center and reached third on Pafko's double. Nicholson walked, loading the bases. The inning ended when Libke made a nice running catch of Gillespie's smash to right.

With one out in the seventh, Miller singled for his and the Reds' second hit and went to third on Lakeman's line single to center. As Johnson made a leap in a routine gesture at catching Lakeman's effort, he collided with Umpire Babe Pinelli and wrenched his neck. At first it was feared that Don had been seriously injured but after a delay he was able to leave the field under his own energy. Hughes shifted to second and Merullo went to second. Mesner forced Lakeman, Miller scoring and Heusser struck out.

The Reds Tie It at 2-All

The Cubs lost little time in cushioning Derringer's performance in the second game. Hack opened with his first hit of the afternoon, a single to left, and Hughes walked. The runners advanced on Lowrey's sacrifice, then Cavarretta bashed a 366 foot triple off the right field screen, scoring Hack and Hughes.

McCormick led off in the Reds' second with a single to left and Hank Sauer followed with a single to the same field. The runners advanced while Miller was grounding out to Cavarretta. Then Lakeman singled to right, scoring McCormick and Sauer with the tying runs.

The Cubs resumed the lead in the fourth inning. With one out Gillespie singled to right, Merullo struck out but Derringer singled to center. Hack also singled to center, scoring Gilliespie.

The Cubs made two runs without a hit in the sixth. Kennedy walked Nicholson, then hit Gillespie with a pitched ball. The runners advanced on Merullo's sacrifice. Miller made a spectacular diving stop of Derringer's grounder and threw him out. Hack bounced to McCormick and when Kennedy dropped McCormick's toss to him on first, Nicholson and Gillespie scored.

Hack Lets in Two Runs

With one out in the eighth Dick Sipek batted and singled to right. Clay beat out a bunt to Hack and, when Stan overthrew first, Sipek went to third and Clay to second. Williams singled to center, scoring Sipek and Clay.

Fox was the Reds' pitcher at the start of the ninth. Hack beat out a grounder to Miller and Hughes sacrificed. Hack stole third and scored on Lowrey's triple to right center. Cavarretta walked and Pafko forced him, Lowrey scoring.

Purdue Ready for Battle at Great Lakes

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 27 [Special]—Following the final hard workout of the week in preparation for the game at Great Lakes Saturday, Coach Cecil Isbell tonight named a squad of 36 Purdue football players to leave tomorrow evening for Chicago en route to the naval training center.

Three of the leading freshman prospects, Norbert Adams, half back from Hammond; Bob Whitmer, end from South Bend, and Ed Fox, end from Michigan City, were not included in the traveling squad because of injuries, but Dave Shaw, freshman who made an impressive debut as right half back against Marquette, was a last minute addition.

IOWA FULL BACK OUT

Iowa City, Ia., Sept. 27 [Special]—Final hard work for the opener with the A. A. F. Troop Carriers from Bergstrom field, Tex., was held for the University of Iowa football squad today and Coach Clem Crowe expressed himself as satisfied with the players' condition.

Because Arthur Johnson's injured ankle has been slow in healing, the full back starting assignment will go to Herb Braun, who played in seven Minnesota games last year as a navy trainee.

$189,452 AWARDED 82 FOR OVERTIME AT ARMS PLANT

Eighty-two fire and police employes of the Elwood ordnance plant, near Joliet, were awarded judgments totaling $189,452 in overtime pay by Judge Michael L. Igoe in federal District court yesterday. The suit, brought against Sanderson and Porter, operators of the plant, claimed time and one-half pay for work after 40 hours each week. The court, in awarding the judgments, overruled the contention of Asst. United States Atty. John P. Lulinski, defending the suit for the contractors, that the men were executives and therefore not subject to provisions of the fair labor standards act. Payment of the judgments will be made by the government.

IT'S GOOD SPORT, SAYS FORGER OF FRENCH FRANCS

He'll Make Dollars When He Serves Term

BY ROBERT SAGE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, Sept. 27—The biggest French counterfeiter of the century today told Paris police he learned forgery during the occupation from resistance workers who turned out false identity papers.

When he gets out of jail he expects to go in for bogus dollars, he said. "It's so easy," he boasted, "that I can't help having a shot at it."

All Night Battle

The prize catch was Andre Loiseau, millionaire owner of apartment houses and bakeries, who is known to the Paris underworld as Dede la Boulange—Dayday the Bake. He was the elusive ringleader of a gang that recently flooded France with more than 100,000,000 francs [$2,000,000] in fake 1,000 franc notes and was the last of 24 counterfeiters rounded up.

The capture of Loiseau, a jovial, burly, curly headed thug who resembles a character man in the movies more than a Parisian apache, was made after an all night gun battle between his bodyguards and a truck load of police.

"It's a Good Sport"

Caught by the traditional method of the French police—"cherchez la femme"—as he went to deep a date, Dede la Boulange took his arrest philosophically.

"I had enough money to live well on my income and play the ponies," he said, "but counterfeiting was in my blood. You've got to admit it's a good sport. I'll start over again later, but next time I'll try dollars and other foreign currency."

ENGLAND FEARS BIRTH CONTROL MAY DESTROY IT

LONDON, Sept. 27 (AP)—The British government reported today that the trend toward small families and the practice of birth control threatened "the numerical strength, even the survival, of the nation."

A white paper, a form of official pronouncement, asserted there was an ultimate threat, real tho remote, of a gradual fading out of the British people.

The paper was issued thru the royal commission on population. The commission announced the launching of a nation-wide census of married women to determine the size of families, their education, husbands' occupations and incomes, living conditions, and domestic problems.

CITY EMPLOYES HELPING COUNTY WITH TAX MAIL

Piles of unopened mail in the office of County Treasurer Schlaeger have caused Mayor Kelly to lend Schlaeger 10 city hall clerks this week and next, with the city paying their salaries.

Schlaeger explained the move would save the city money by speeding tax collections and payment of the city's interest bearing tax anticipation warrants.

Schlaeger said his office up to Sept. 1 collected 40 million dollars more than in 1944. Last Saturday unopened mail sacks were estimated to contain 20 million dollars. The treasurer said he hoped to have his books balanced by the end of the fiscal year, Nov. 30.

OATS PREMIUM RULE ASSAILED BY SEN. THOMAS

Threatens Probe of Grain Trade

BY ROBERT YOUNG
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Sen. Elmer Thomas

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27—Sen. Thomas [D., Okla.], chairman of the senate agricultural committee, today demanded that the Chicago Board of Trade revoke its war time ruling setting 5 cents a bushel premium over futures contract prices for top grade oats or face a congressional investigation.

Thomas said in a telegram to Harry G. Schaack, board of trade president, that the rule—No. 1875—"operates to the adverse interest of the real farmer producer of oats because it tends to depress the market price," and that few farmers could take advantage of the rule. Public interest requires that this rule be rescinded at once while the farmer is moving his oats crop to market, he said.

Says State Officials Complain

State agricultural commissioners have complained about the rule, Thomas said. He warned that if the exchange fails to revoke it, those interested in retaining it will be asked to appear before a senate subcommittee and explain how the regulation benefits farmers.

Thomas reminded Schaak that the exchange had taken no action on Thomas' demand for revocation on Sept. 15, and said no answer had been received to a letter written Sept. 21 and addressed to Fred H. Clutton, secretary of the exchange.

"It is my contention that instead of this rule being in the interest of the farmer producer of oats, it is, in fact, in favor of the grain trade and those who are operating on the board of trade," Thomas said.

He explained that on July 24, 1944, the directors of the Chicago Board of Trade adopted rule 1875, which provided that on all contracts for the delivery of oats in subsequent months, the purchaser would be required to pay a 5 cent a bushel premium over the contract price on deliveries of No. 1 grade of heavy white or red oats.

Contention of Thomas

Thomas contends under this rule professional dealers can go into the open market and buy oats from the farmers, then deliver the oats on the exchange at a 5 cent a bushel premium over the contract price. He asserted that few farmers "know enough about the manipulation of the Chicago Board of Trade" to sell futures contracts and collect the premium.

Thomas disclosed that he had received a reply from one of the directors of the exchange. In this reply, Thomas said, the director admitted he raised large quantities of oats on his farm and was able to obtain the benefits of the 5 cent premium by selling short and making delivery on futures contracts. The exchange official was quoted as saying that without rule 1875, top grade oats would bring only a 1 cent a bushel premium.

OFFICIALS DEFEND RULE

Chicago Board of Trade officials said last night that Sen. Thomas' telegrams and letters "had been fully replied to." After Sen. Thomas has an opportunity to analyze the Board of Trade viewpoint, "he will doubtlessly see eye to eye with us in our assurance that the premium for heavy weight oats, as provided for in the rules of the exchange, work out to the definite advantage of the grower," they said.

Traders on the exchange contended that the farmer gets all of the premium, contrary to Sen. Thomas' statement. Extra heavy oats have been selling in the cash market 5 to 6½ cents a bushel over the December future, representing the trade's view of the actual value of the grain. Heavy oats always sell at a substantial premium over the contract price, they said.

Former FBI Man Replaces Ford Official

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 27 (AP)—Harry H. Bennett, long the "power behind the throne" in the billion dollar Ford Motor Car company, was supplanted as the company's industrial relations director today by John S. Bugas, former FBI agent here.

In announcing the change, Henry Ford II., newly elected president of the Ford company, said Bennett "will serve in a consulting and advisory capacity and continue as a director of the company."

Bennett said Bugas' appointment was "just as I planned it; I brought him into the company and expected him some day to fill my shoes."

Other Changes Made

Said young Henry Ford: "Mr. Bennett's excellent background and knowledge gained thru long association with the company will prove valuable to us in our future operations."

Along with Bugas' appointment Mr. Ford also announced that M. L. Bricker, who directed operations of the large Willow Run bomber plant for the Ford company, had been placed in charge of both productive and nonproductive manufacturing. R. R. Rausch, who has been production chief of the company, Ford said, "has been assigned to work with Mr. Bricker on major construction projects."

Will Build Several Plants

The construction projects, part of a 175 million dollar expansion program, include the construction of four large assembly plants and several new supply depots.

Ford said members of the board, in addition to himself will continue to be his grandfather, Henry Ford, Benson Ford, his brother, B. J. Craig, Bennett, Rausch, Bricker, and Frank Campsall, long personal secretary to the elder Ford.

14 STORY LOOP BUILDING SOLD FOR $150,000 CASH

Sale of the 14 story Security building at the southeast corner of Madison and Wells sts. for $150,000 cash will put the property back on the tax rolls, Lyndon H. Lesch, assistant treasurer of the University of Chicago, said yesterday.

The building has been owned for many years by the Baptist Theological union, an affiliate of the university. Lesch, also assistant treasurer of the union, represented the seller in disposing of the property. As the property of a religious organization it was tax exempt.

The buyer was a syndicate organized by Maj. Charles L. Schrager, president of the Charles L. Schrager company, sole broker. Title was taken by the Trust Company of Chicago. The Schrager company will take over management of the property on Oct. 1. Loewenberg & Loewenberg has been retained to make a survey to determine what will be needed to make the building a modern office structure.

I. T. & T. DEVELOPS NEW RADIO PHONE FOR LONG DISTANCE USE

New York, Sept. 27 (AP)—International Telephone and Telegraph corporation today announced a revolutionary method of radio-telephony which it said was capable of making possible a country-wide long distance telephone system without wires.

I. T. & T.'s federal telecommunication laboratories said the development was known as pulse time modulation and for the first time produces a system by which 24 or more conversations can be carried simultaneously on the same radio frequency. Telephone exchanges for the system are automatically operated and absence of wires means small maintenance costs as well as less chance of interruption of service because of floods or other weather conditions.

Officials explained the system was not meant to replace present line telephone systems but was adaptable to some places more profitably than line circuits.

Minimum Pay Boost Urged by Anderson

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27 (AP)—Agriculture Secretary Anderson today approved a proposal to increase the minimum wage from 40 to 65 cents an hour. He reasoned it would give farmers a larger market.

Anderson's written indorsement was put into the records of a senate banking subcommittee holding hearings on a minimum wage proposal. Earlier today the group had heard CIO witnesses testify that 65 cents or more were needed for a proper standard of living.

Anderson submitted estimates that for every increase of 1 billion dollars in annual earnings of low income workers, there will be a boost in food expenditures of at least 200 millions.

Union Workers Ask Boost

The secretary said some contend that higher wages for nonfarm workers would mean higher prices for things farmers buy. He said this argument has yet to be proved sound.

Several union workers argued for an increase in the minimum.

Charles C. Burke, 27, war veteran, said the only job he could find in Lebanon, Pa., in a clothing plant, paid 50 cents an hour.

Mrs. Frances Garcia, 27, Western Union company operator in New York, said she hopes her soldier husband will not have to take a 50 cent an hour job. She said clothing prices, especially for babies, had gone sky high.

Widow Supports Mother

Mrs. Winifred Burr, a gray haired widow, said she makes 58 cents an hour in a New York razor factory. She said she has to support her mother and had gone into debt.

Mrs. Gladys Bellows, a middle aged cannery worker from Traverse City, Mich., said years ago she made 20 cents an hour and now makes 50. That isn't enough, she said.

Arnold Fesser, Negro seaman from Baltimore, Md., testified that he makes $880 in the eight months a year he can work, and has a wife and three children. He said that "not long ago" he made only $35 a month and is apprehensive over a return to that level.

UNIONS APPROVE OTIS' PROPOSAL TO BUY PULLMAN

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 27 (AP)—Attorneys for Otis & Co., Cleveland, agreed today to assume all labor and other contracts between Pullman company and employes if Otis' proposed purchase of Pullman's sleeping car service is approved.

Representatives of the Order of Railway Conductors of America and the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters filed a petition in United States District court asking the court to approve the sale.

Three other unions also approved the sale, said Atty. Paul W. Knox, representing conductors, clerks, and laundry workers of Pullman.

Otis offered in August to purchase Pullman's sleeping car services for a reported 75 million dollars. Pullman said earlier it planned termination of its service contracts as of Dec. 31, 1945, in accordance with a government order separating the manufacturing and service activities of Pullman, Inc., parent company.

KEYSTONE STEEL MEETING TO END CONTEST TODAY

The principal item of business is the election of three directors. W. H. Sommer solicited proxies for his reëlection and the election of Atty. Richard J. Kavanaugh, Peoria, to the board. The management slate calls for the reëlection of all present directors, including W. H. Sommer.

BANKERS' ROLE IN CONVERSION ERA OUTLINED

Federal Economies Recommended

New York, Sept. 27 (AP)—Responsibilities of the banks in assuring sound financial practices in the postwar readjustment period were emphasized today in reports to the American Bankers' association's administrative committee.

Officers of the association and its divisions and sections opened a two day meeting here to ratify election of officers, conducted by mail, and to transact business in lieu of its canceled convention.

Warn Against Land Boom

High spots of reports by chairmen of committees were:

1. "If we are to save our country from unnecessary hardship or bankruptcy congress must base its appropriations on ability of the people to pay taxes."

2. Inflation trends can be met by a program of continued savings, with properly used consumer credit an effective weapon.

3. To avert a land price boom returning veterans and former war plant workers "should be helped to avoid buying poor farm properties and paying excessive prices."

4. Banks must be alert to avoid unsound lending practices in a period of "intense competition" for mortgages.

Must Find "Right People"

5. The problem as to Bretton Woods and the Export-Import bank now is that of "finding the right people to run" them, and of giving "intelligent and critical support."

Leonard P. Ayers, executive vice president of the Cleveland Trust company and chairman of the association's economic policy commission, said bankers' groups succeeded in having written into the Bretton Woods acts "provisions which they believe will in some measure safeguard the interests of the United States and will improve the operation of the international monetary machine."

Reports of H. R. Templeton, Cleveland, president of the association's savings division, and of Carl M. Flora, Milwaukee, chairman of the committee on consumer credit, told of opinions that withdrawals from savings accounts would not be heavy and a substantial percentage of holders would retain their war bonds.

Ernest M. Fisher, director of the department of research in mortgage and real estate finance, said "one sign of danger ahead is the present tendency toward inflated appraisals," adding that the amount of the average home mortgage loan by all types of lenders in the first quarter of 1945 was 23 per cent higher than in 1939.

National Advertisers Plan Many New Products in Year

Reconversion does not constitute a major problem for a large majority of national advertisers, and nearly all expect their output for peace time use to equal pre-war volume within a year, a survey by the Association of National Advertisers among its membership disclosed yesterday.

Two-thirds of those surveyed had definite plans to introduce new products within the next year. About 2 per cent more were undecided as to whether their new products will be on the market within a year, and the others were not planning additional items before next September.

Will Increase Decentralization

The survey also indicated an increase in the trend toward decentralization of production and marketing operations and continuance of the policy adopted by many companies during the war of more selectivity in choosing retail outlets.

The companies planning more decentralization of operation constituted 23 per cent of those replying to the questionnaire. Only 2 per cent indicated a move in the opposite direction. The majority of companies contemplated no important changes either way.

Some to Use Fewer Dealers

Sixty-one per cent said retail outlets carrying their products would number about the same as before the war; 37 per cent plan to decrease the number. The overwhelming majority of companies emphasizing selective distribution expected their total number of outlets to be 5 to 15 per cent fewer than before the war. Only 2 per cent indicated less selective distribution of their products.

On the question relating to planned distribution changes, only 11 per cent said they were contemplating any major changes in distribution channels.

AD CLUB TOLD ACTIVE SELLING CAN DEVELOP JOBS FOR 57 MILLION

To provide 57 million jobs in the post-war era, 145 billion dollars' worth of goods and services must be sold annually to consumers, Arno H. Johnson, director of media and research for the J. Walter Thompson company, advertising agency, yesterday told the Chicago Federated Advertising club in the Continental hotel. He said this could be done if merchandising and advertising executives adequately promote the desire to buy.

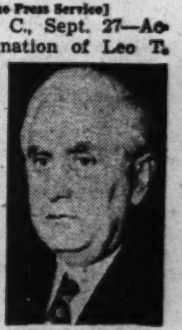
Johnson said the sales total necessary was more than double the prewar peak of 71 billions in 1929 or the 66 billions in 1940.

"Full production means full employment and these two mean unlimited buying power," Johnson said.

CROWLEY QUITS FEDERAL POSTS; FEA ABOLISHED

Report 'Coolness' with Truman

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]



Leo T. Crowley

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27—Accepting the resignation of Leo T. Crowley from his multiple war time jobs, President Truman today abolished the foreign economic administration and split its functions among various departments and the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

Crowley was FEA administrator and a member of the board of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation. His resignation is effective Oct. 15.

All told, Crowley holds eight government offices. He will give them all up simultaneously, according to the White House, when the resignation takes effect. Crowley's letter asking to be relieved mentioned only that he was resigning as a member of the FDIC, but the President's letter of acceptance mentioned both the FDIC and the FEA, referring to "conversations" affecting the FEA.

Report Coolness Developed

Abolition of the FEA came as no surprise but the resignation of Crowley from the FDIC gave rise to reports that coolness has developed between the President and his lend-lease chieftain over the question of

STOCKS DECLINE IN QUIET TRADE; AIRCRAFTS GAIN

Many Losses Reduced in Last Half Hour

New York, Sept. 27 (AP)—Aircrafts and assorted specialties advanced today, but the stock market generally was dull and lower. Selling was exceptionally timid and the ticker tape frequently at a standstill. Numerous losses of more than a point were reduced or converted into small gains as trade picked up in the final half hour. Transfers totaled 1,060,000 shares compared with 1,040,000 yesterday.

New highs for 1945 or longer were set by Electric Power & Light $6 and $7 preferreds, up 7½ and 6 points, respectively, in the wake of a boosted disbursement by United Gas corporation, a subsidiary; Coca-Cola, up 5 on a few sales; Paramount Pictures, R.-K.-O., and American Power & Light.

CHICAGO EXTENDS DECLINE

Prices extended their decline on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday and turnover decreased to 36,000 shares. Heavily traded issues included Commonwealth Edison and Chicago corporation, both unchanged; Asbestos Manufacturing, up ⅛; Radio corporation, down ⅛, and Woodall, up 1⅜ to a new high of 20⅝. Eight other issues reached new highs, among them Bethlehem Steel, up 1, and Goodyear Tire, up 2.

BOND PRICES MIXED

New York, Sept. 27 (AP)—The bond market milled around in a narrow range today with closing prices mixed. Selected rails, mostly in the medium priced bracket, gained fractions to about a point but others were unchanged or lower. Sales were $5,850,000 compared with $5,540,000 yesterday.

Douglas to Deliver First Peace Time Air Transport

The first new air liner produced since the end of the war, a four motored DC-4 undergoing assembly at Douglas Aircraft company's plant in Santa Monica, Cal., will be delivered to Western Air Lines in December. The plane, costing a half million dollars, is a peace time version of the C-54E. Two more will be delivered to Western Air in January.

ATTORNEYS HOLD DISCRIMINATION LAW IS FAULTY

Validity of 2 Sections Is Questioned

Two major sections of the city's anti-discrimination ordinance, enacted Aug. 21, probably would be held invalid by the Illinois Supreme court, the law firm of Winston, Strawn & Shaw said in an opinion sought by the Chicago Association of Commerce.

The opinion, released yesterday by the association in a letter to members, asserted that section 3 of the ordinance—which insists on anti-discrimination clauses in all city contracts and contractor's subcontracts — would be illegal under the cities and villages act.

Flaws in Ordinance Shown

Specifically, the section requires that such a clause must obligate the contractor not to discriminate against employes or applicants because of race, creed, color, or national origin. The opinion, written by Silas H. Strawn, said the Supreme court has declared that the rights of an employer to hire any person he sees fit is a liberty of contract guaranteed by the state constitution.

Furthermore, the cities and villages act requires that public contracts be let to lowest bidder, the opinion said. Section 3 would impose an additional condition, which, Strawn holds, is beyond the city's power under the statute.

Section 4 of the ordnance makes it unlawful for any person to discriminate against any other person by reason of race, creed, color, or national origin in connection with hiring, application for employment, job tenure, or terms and conditions of employment.

Section 4 Held Invalid

Strawn's opinion held that section 4 is invalid because it does not fall within the powers granted by the cities and villages act to municipalities in Illinois.

"It is fundamental," the opinion read, "that municipal corporations have only such powers as are granted to them by the legislature."

Section 2—which prohibits the city from making such discriminations where any public works of the city are involved—was held to be valid because it attempts to regulate only the employment practices of the city.

FROST FORECAST BOOSTS GRAIN PRICES TO PEAKS

A forecast for killing frost tomorrow morning in Iowa, Minnesota, and Wisconsin led to aggressive buying of grain futures yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. Prices advanced rapidly with September and December wheat, all deliveries of rye, and September oats selling at new seasonal peaks.

Most gains were maintained and wheat closed ⅜ to 1⅛ cents a bushel higher, corn up ⅛ to 1⅛, oats up 1 to 1½, and rye 1⅜ to 2⅞ higher. Barley trading was dull prices rose ⅜ to 1⅛.

Turnover in oats futures was the largest in several weeks on the probability that damage to the corn crop would increase feed demand for oats. Commission houses representing northwestern interests, active sellers recently, bought December and May oats.

OFFICE EQUIPMENT

Please give me information regarding Addressograph-Multigraph corporation's earnings and dividend record.—O. G.

During the war Addressograph-Multigraph sales increased sufficiently to absorb much higher income taxes and leave average earnings larger than before the war.

In the nine months ended last April the profit was equal to $1.10 a share on the 753,813 shares. During the four fiscal years ended July 31, 1944, net income ranged from $2.20 in 1942 to $1.50 in 1943, with a yearly average of $1.83. For the five years ended with the calendar year 1939, the average was $1.60, and in the seven months ended July 31, 1940, earnings were 78 cents a share.

Reconversion is believed to involve no great difficulty because the major part of the company's production since 1942 consisted of its normal office equipment lines or adaptations of them, along with some special military products. Civilian output was confined largely to maintenance of existing equipment and indications are that the volume of deferred business for new office machines is large.

Dividend payments have been $1 a share from 1941 on, and previously were made each year subsequent to 1935 at rates ranging from 30 cents in 1935 to $1.40 in 1938. Funded debt as of July 31, 1944, totaled $2,900,000, and net working capital $8,445,000.

CROWLEY QUITS; TRUMAN ORDERS FEA ABOLISHED

splitting up FEA responsibilities. Crowley gave no reason for leaving government service, merely saying it was "not an easy thing." Mr. Truman's letter congratulated him with "well done" on the fulfillment of his multiple responsibilities.

Crowley entered the government in the early days of the New Deal when the FDIC was formed. At present, he said in his letter to the President, there are 60 million insured accounts in the nation's banks and since the corporation's inception there has been virtually no loss to any depositor in an insured bank. He said the FDIC could liquidate today and repay the government in full for the money invested, plus a 22 per cent dividend, while also refunding assessments to individual banks.

White House Press Secretary Ross made it clear this afternoon that Crowley is severing all his connections with the government at this time. News men asked whether it is true, as has been reported in administration circles, that the FEA administrator's resignation resulted from dissatisfaction on his part over the transfer of future lend-lease administration to the state department. Ross said he did not know.

In abolishing the FEA, Mr. Truman gave the state department control over lend-lease settlement functions, top supervision of United States participation in UNRRA, and jurisdiction over supply activities in liberated areas. The state department also gets responsibility for planning the control of occupied territory and the job of gathering information on commercial and economic problems abroad.

Transferred to the RFC from the FEA are the Rubber Development corporation, the Petroleum Reserve corporation, and the United States Commercial company.

Shift Export Control

RFC also got the FEA powers with respect to procurement of commodities abroad, excluding certain powers transferred to the department of agriculture.

Export control went to the department of commerce, along with the technical, industrial intelligence committee, and the functions of the clearing house for foreign transactions and reports.

The functions of the office of foreign food programs went to the department of agriculture along with all other FEA functions involving food.

The transfers are to become effective, according to the order, not later than Dec. 31.

Crowley's federal jobs included chairmanship of the following: Export-Import bank, FDIC, Petroleum Reserves corporation, Rubber Development corporation, and United States Commercial company. In addition he was FEA administrator and a member of the war production board and of the joint war production committee.

BUILDS PARTS DEPOTS

Construction of a new Ford Motor company parts depot in Denver, Colo., will begin in a few weeks. Depots also are being constructed in Seattle, Wash., Houston, Tex., and Des Moines, Ia.

CATTLE MARKET MOSTLY LOWER; SHEEP STEADY

Cattle prices in the Chicago stock yards yesterday were mostly lower. Eight carloads sold at the $18 a hundred pounds ceiling, a steady price, but some types that sold at the ceiling earlier this week were down 15 to 25 cents.

Buyers attributed the decline to the fact that recent steep advances in the plainer classes had carried many grades into a high price position in relation to their beef yields.

The lamb top rose 10 cents to a new five week high of $14.50, but most sheep and lambs steady. Receipts of 8,500 were the largest for Thursday since May. Hogs sold at ceiling prices.
